AMBASSADOR HILL QUITS BERLIN POST

No Official Explanation of the Change Is Given at Washington.

DIVERS THEORIES ADVANCED

Kaiser Treated Him Less Cordially Than His Predecessor—The Potash Controversy Also Discussed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Dr. David Jayne Hill, Ambassador to Germany, tendered his resignation of that office to the President to-day, and it was accepted.

The President's note to Dr. Hill declared that it was with "great reluctance" that he accepted the resignation, but neither in the letter of the Ambassador, nor in the note of the President, was there the least explanation of Dr. Hill's reason for relinquishing his post.

The resignation follows a conference between the Ambassador and Secretary Knox at the State Department yesterday, and another conference between the Secretary and the President to-day. No explanation of the resignation was made at the State Department, and at the White House it was said authoritatively that there was not the least dissatisfaction with the service of Mr. Hill in Berlin.

Washington, D. C., April 12, 1911.

Dear Mr. President: I have the honor to remind you that at the beginning of your term of office as President I expressed to the Secretary of State my readiness to terminate my mission as Ambassador to Germany which your predecessor had intrusted to me. It was your pleasure soon afterwards to communicate to me in person your wish that I should continue at that post, and I was very happy, especially in view of the short time I had been at Berlin, to receive this mark of your confidence.

The half of your administration having already passed, it appears to me fitting that I should express to you my grateful appreciation of the consideration you have shown me and that I should at this time place my resignation in your hands to take effect July 1 next, which I now do in order that, if you desire to do so, you may be able to make another appointment to that post.

It has been a great pleasure to me to serve my country in this honorable and highly responsible office which I have endeavored to fill to the best of my ability.

Please accept, my dear Mr. President the assurance of my great esteem and loyal sentiment. Your obedient servant,

DAVID J. HILL.

The President's letter of acceptance is as follows:

The White House.
Washington, April 13, 1911.

My dear Ambassador: In acknowledging your letter of the 12th instant, it is with great reluctance that I accept your resignation and relieve you of a mission which you have discharged in a manner which I so highly appreciate both as to the actual work of the Embassy and as to your relations to the Government to which you are accredited.

I am glad that it will be convenient to you to retain your post until the first of next July, and I remain, my dear Dr. Hill, with renewed expression of appreciation and with every good wish. Very sincerely yours,

WILLIAM H. TAFT.

Despite all the official disclaimers, it is to be said that the resignation was not unexpected. It will be recalled that it was pointed out in these dispatches upon the arrival of Dr. Hill in this country some weeks ago that it was unlikely he would return to his post for any extended service there. Moreover, the peculiar phraseology of Dr. Hill's letter has not escaped attention here. He holds out to the President the evident opportunity to continue him at Berlin by saying that he offers the resignation "in order that, if you desire to do so, you may be able to make another appointment to that post." Only one construction is put upon this sentence here, and that is that Dr. Hill hoped to the last that the resignation might not be accepted.

There have been confidential intimations from certain well-informed sources for the last week that a "shake-up" in the Diplomatic Service was impending. The first move in it was the transfer of Ambassador Rockhill from St. Petersburg to Constantinople and the appointment of former Gov. Curtis Guild of Massachusetts to the Russian Court. The resignation of Dr. Hill, coming so promptly after that is accepted as the second move in the "shake-up."

It was said at the White House this evening, however, that no selection had been made for the Berlin post, and the President intimated that he would take his time in making the appointment. It was said that he had six months in which to act. Dr. Hill is to serve until the 1st of July, and, as that will be in the midst of the Summer holidays, the embassy may well be left in the hands of a Chargé d'Affaires until the Fall, if the President desires to take that much time in choosing a new Ambassador.

The announcement of Dr. Hill's resignation has led to much speculation as to his reason for leaving the Diplomatic Service. It is hardly credited to a voluntary desire on his part, although there is a recurrence of the talk of his unwillingness to stand the heavy expense of the Berlin post, which was so much in evidence at the time of his appointment to the German capital. It is regarded as much more likely that the reason for his action is to be found in the recent potash controversy. It will be recalled that when that situation first developed last Summer Dr. Hill took an active interest in the contention of the Americans who were concerned in the matter, and pushed their claims with some vigor on the German Government. The situation continued to be the subject of discussion between Ambassador Hill and the German Government for some time, when it reached a stage where no further development was possible. It seemed out of the question for either side to advance or retire. At that juncture the handling of the matter was transferred to Washington, where it was taken up by Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, with the State Department. This Government made some effort to maintain its original attitude and to secure a settlement that would be of some value to the American interests, but in the end was constrained to accept the German proposition that the whole matter be left to the parties directly interested for such adjustment as they might be able to reach. The State Department did not emerge from that controversy with very great éclat, and it is a fact that less important matter has not infrequently sufficed for the termination of the services of one or another diplomat.

There is also some talk about the possibility of there being another cause. Last Summer and Fall the Turkish Government was seeking a loan for railroad development purposes. This is the sort of affair that the State Department under Secretary Knox has been particularly keen about in the desire to assist the investment of American capital abroad. The Turkish loan was secured by German bankers. It has been suggested this afternoon that Dr. Hill might have been more active in furnishing information to this Government concerning that matter. The affair had been practically settled before there was an opportunity for American interests to compete.

Talk of the successor to Dr. Hill has already begun. For some time there have been intimations that Mr. Meyer, Secretary of the Navy, desired to return to the Diplomatic Service, from which he retired four years ago to enter the Cabinet of Mr. Roosevelt as Postmaster General. The Berlin post is a most desirable one, which was supposed to appeal especially to Secretary Meyer.

It was said by close and well-informed

DROWNED IN UPTURNED CAR.

Three Men Pinned Under Their Machine in a Ditch Near Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Racing in a high-powered automobile to attend the theatre in the city to-night, three men prominent in the social and business life of Glen Ellyn, a fashionable suburb, met death by drowning. Their heavy machine skidded from the roadway and overturned into a ditch filled with muddy water. Before it could be righted by persons who witnessed the accident all three passengers were dead.

The men were Frederick Kimholz, a roadmaster for the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad; H. J. Blackburn and Cloid Roush, merchants, of Glen Ellyn. They left the suburb at 6 o'clock, and were making a fast run into the city. For several hundred yards along Twenty-fifth Avenue, in Melrose Park, where the accident occurred, the roadway borders on a deep ditch which had been turned into a torrent by the recent rains.

The machine was running about twenty-five miles an hour when it approached the dangerous stretch, according to the witnesses, and the driver seemed to have it under perfect control. They can account for the accident in no other way than that the wheels struck a slippery spot and skidded.

A score of men rushed to the scene and made frenzied efforts to right the car, but their strength was unequal to the task. As they worked they could hear the imprisoned passengers struggling in the submerged tonneau. They were beyond resuscitation when taken out fifteen minutes after the car took the plunge.

CRANE, AUTO RACER, KILLED.

In Practice Test at Kansas City His Machine Turns Turtle.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 14.—Ned Crane, driving a Buick racing car in a practice test at Elm Ridge track here this afternoon, preparatory to an attempt to-morrow to establish new records, was instantly killed when his machine threw two tires and turned over.

Crane's body was not mutilated. The ninety horse power car was making a fast turn on the west side of the track when the accident occurred. The front tire burst and the machine turned over three times. Crane was thrown with great force, his head being doubled under his chest. An examination indicated his neck was broken.

Bert Dodge, his mechanician, was hurled from the car. He fell in the centre of the track several yards from Crane's body. At first it was thought he was killed, but he soon recovered consciousness. His injuries are not serious.

On half-mile unbanked tracks Crane held three records. He made a half mile in 39 3-5 seconds, a mile in 1 minute and 20 seconds, and two miles in 2:40 2-5 in Rochester, N. Y., on Aug. 6, 1910. He was a chauffeur for P. F. Collier of New York up to the time of the latter's death in April, 1909. Crane's home was in Philadelphia.

TEN YEARS HERE; DEPORTED.

Woman Who Has $105,000 Offers $10,000 for a Husband.

Interest was aroused yesterday at Ellis Island by the appearance in the deportation pen of a tall, attractive looking French woman, who wore a smart tailor made blue serge costume and a large black picture hat trimmed with white velvet and covered with ostrich plumes which she said cost $150.

The woman was Annie Gold, who was arrested in Portland, Ore., after being ten years in the country, and ordered deported at the expense of the Government as an undesirable alien for keeping a disorderly resort in that city. Annie Gold told the detectives who arrested her that she had $55,000 in cash and about $50,000 in jewels, and that she would pay $10,000 down in cash to any citizen of the United States who would marry her so that she would not have to be sent back to Europe.

In view of the excitement created at Ellis Island by her offer she will be guarded by a matron as well as two deportation officers until she sails to-day on the Hamburg-American liner Pretoria.

In all there are 219 undesirable aliens to be deported to-day on the ten steamships sailing for European ports. The Duca d'Aosta, for Naples, heads the list with 85, the Philadelphia has 23, and the Sant' Anna has 21. In order to distribute this number, which is a record for one day in the present year, the deportation officers had to work from 5 A. M. yesterday till 11:30 P. M. last night before the last batch was delivered.

MAY SUE CABINET OFFICER.

Dismissed Collector at Cleveland Prepares Papers Against MacVeagh.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 14.—Suit for punitive damages has been prepared for filing at Chicago against Secretary of the Treasury Franklin MacVeagh by Charles F. Leach, who was dismissed from the Collectorship of Customs at this port March 9. A. H. Weed and Theodore L. Strimple are Leach's attorneys, and Weed has been in Chicago to start the litigation.

A dispatch from Chicago late to-night announced Weed was on his way home, and that action had been postponed. This action may have been caused by an announcement from Washington that Leach was dismissed from the service by President Taft and not by Mr. MacVeagh.

At the time Leach was dismissed following a report of three special agents, he denied all of the charges against him and demanded an opportunity to answer them. But the Treasury Department would not let him see the reports. Leach was accused, according to the Treasury Department, of undue friendliness to importers, permitting violations of the sample laws and allowing imports on which no duty had been paid to remain in bonded warehouses.

SHOPMEN THREATEN A STRIKE

Pennsylvania Railroad Officials, They Allege, Are Unfair to Union Men.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., April 14.—A crisis is expected to be reached in the early part of next week in the relations of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the organized shopmen. General Manager S. C. Long, whose headquarters are in Philadelphia, is said to have agreed to meet representatives of the union in an effort to adjust the differences.

The men voted three weeks ago to strike unless the railroad officials cease the discriminations they allege against organized workmen, and have now decided to lay down their tools if a conference is denied or Mr. Long refuses their demands. The ultimatum has been forwarded to Mr. Long, and pending his reply, the unions will take no further steps.

Thirty-five organizers are at work along the railroad system in addition to representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the General Committee of the union.

PASS PUBLICITY BILL BY UNANIMOUS VOTE

Republican Amendment to List Congressmen's Contributions Upheld, Then Defeated.

MORGAN'S NAME BROUGHT IN

Contributed Through W. C. Beers to Democratic Fund, Says Good, Iowa Insurgent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—By 302 to 0 the House to-day passed the Rucker Publicity bill, which provides for the publication before election of campaign contributions. The occasion was made an object lesson by the Democrats to their Republican friends of how easy it is to undo and do over again a job that does not suit a majority.

With the help of fifty-two Democrats the Republicans succeeded in putting on an amendment compelling the sworn statement of a candidate for Congress of all costs prior to election, including those in the primary, under penalty of a fine of $1,000. This was a terrible blow to the Southern members, who have a system of primary nominations which is unique in that the man who desires to run for Congress must first put up with his Campaign Committee a deposit of anywhere from $300 to $1,500, and as a consequence it is only the man of considerable means who is able to undertake to be a candidate.

The amendment was proposed by Mr. Jackson, a Republican insurgent from Kansas, and it passed by 172 yeas to 131 nays, the roll call showing fifty-two Democrats voting with the Republicans. There was a loud and long salvo of applause from the Republicans when they carried their amendment. But in a few minutes the shoe was on the other foot. Judge Rucker, the hardy old Missourian, whose ability in a parliamentary situation is something to be reckoned with, moved to recommit the bill with instructions to the Committee on Election of President and Vice President and Representatives to strike out the section to which the Jackson amendment had been added.

On this vote the roll call showed that twenty-four Democrats had been whipped into changing their votes and the motion was carried, 157 to 149. Then wild and unrestrained joy broke forth on the Democratic side with desk banging, yells, and jeers and groans, while the Republicans sat in mute astonishment at the sudden reversal of their victory.

The Democratic Insurgents.

The Democrats who stood with the Republicans on the vote on Rucker's motion to recommit were as follows: Akin and George of New York; Dupree, Estopinal, Pujo, Ransdell, and Wickcliffe of Louisiana; Bulkeley, Sherwood, and Whitacre of Ohio; Alexander and Borland of Missouri; Buchanan and Stone of Illinois; Burke and Konop of Wisconsin; Cox and Gray of Indiana; Hamill, Townsend, and Tuttle of New Jersey; Goodwin of Arkansas; Hardy of Texas; Pepper of Iowa; Baker of California; Sweet of Michigan; Thayer of Massachusetts, and Wilson of Pennsylvania.

The Democrats who stood with the Republicans on the Jackson amendment but who later voted against this amendment on Rucker's motion to recommit, were Adair, Barnhart, Moss, and Rauch of Indiana; Ansberry, Bathrick, and Goeke of Ohio; Foster, McDermott, Rainey, and Sabath of Illinois; Cary and Harrison of New York; Covington, Lewis, and Linthicum of Maryland; Doughton, Page, and Pou of North Carolina; McCoy and Scully of New Jersey, Brown of West Virginia, Rucker and Taylor of Colorado, Maguire of Nebraska, Saunders of Virginia, Sims of Tennessee, and Helm of Kentucky.

A sensation was caused by a speech by Mr. Good of Iowa, one of the insurgent Republicans, who said that J. Pierpont Morgan had been one of the largest contributors to the Democratic National Committee's funds in the last election.

"Last Fall," declared Mr. Good, "when knowledge of the contributions made to the Democratic National Congressional Committee was published, I was amazed and surprised, as were the people of Iowa amazed and surprised, to learn that the man who gave double the amount that any other man did in the National Democratic Committee was Mr. W. C. Beers. Who is W. C. Beers? W. C. Beers formerly resided in my State and while residing there he was known as a poor man. He gave little or nothing in contributions to the Democratic party in those days, but W. C. Beers made a contribution double the size in amount of that made by any other Democrat in the United States the day before the election. At that time he was the confidential man of J. Pierpont Morgan and Co."

Explains Beers's Status.

The Republican side wildly applauded this reference to Mr. Morgan. Before it subsided Mr. Butler, a Republican member from Pennsylvania, was upon his feet with the inquiry:

"Was Mr. Beers ever a Republican?"

"I don't know," replied Mr. Good. "He paid little attention to politics when he lived in the State of Iowa, but I do know that when he made this contribution he was the confidential man of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co.

"If you are in earnest in your attempt to secure publicity you should try to ascertain the real source of these contributions and not be permitted to put in the names of men of that kind to the largest contributions made to your committee."

"What is Mr. Beers's official relation to J. Pierpont Morgan?" asked Mr. Stanley of Kentucky.

"He is the confidential man of J. Pierport Mongar & Co.," answered Mr. Good, "and I know of no one closer to J. P. Morgan himself than W. C. Beers of New York."

"Is he the confidential friend of Mr. Morgan or in his employ?" inquired Mr. Stanley.

"In his employ," replied Mr. Good.

"I would suggest that the gentleman from Kentucky," interjected Mr. Young of Michigan, "better apply to the Democratic National Congressional Campaign Committee, which might be better informed."

"Oh," retorted Mr. Stanley, "the Democratic National Committee is not nearly so close to Mr. Morgan as are gentlemen on that side of this chamber."

W. C. Beers's contribution to the Democratic campaign fund was $1,000. It was the largest individual contribution. The Democratic Committee expended only $27,771 to gain control of the House of Representatives.

LOST BOY DEAD IN A SWAMP.

Romano Child Had Been Missing from Hoboken Since Wednesday.

The body of four-year-old Antonio Romano, who disappeared from his home at 527 Monroe Street, Hoboken, on Wednesday afternoon, was found yesterday in a swamp at the foot of Sixth Street.

When the lad was missed a search of the neighborhood was made by his parents, but, failing to get any trace of him, they called in the police, and a general alarm was sent out.

Boys of the neighborhood playing near the swamp yesterday found a cap, which was immediately recognized as his, and a search of the swamp resulted in the discovery of the body.

CAPT. BAXTER OUT OF NAVY YARD HERE

Man Who Built the Connecticut and Florida, Transferred to the Boston Station.

FRIENDS RESENT THE SHIFT

Some Declare He Is Victim of His Own Vigilance in the Inspection of Armor Plate.

Announcement was made at the Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday afternoon that orders had been received from Washington transferring Naval Constructor William J. Baxter from Brooklyn to the Boston station. The transfer caused great surprise because of the important work which Capt. Baxter has in hand in the completion of the battleship Florida, and the laying down in the near future of the keel of the great battleship New York.

There was deep resentment in the yard, and an official there said last night that there was some talk among the workers of holding a mass meeting to discuss the change. Capt. Baxter has been highly praised for his work in the building of the Connecticut and the Florida, and the people of the yard say they can see no good reason for supplanting him with another man at this time.

Capt. Baxter has been rigid in his inspection of armor plate for the two great fighting ships he has built, and has rejected all plates found to be in the least defective. Some of his friends declare he is the victim of the resentment of the steel interests.

Capt. Baxter goes to Boston on May 1. There he will succeed Constructor George H. Rock. Constructor Rock will go to Washington to take the place of Constructor Robert Stocker as a member of the Board of Inspection and Survey. Constructor Stocker succeeds Capt. Baxter in Brooklyn.

The authority of Capt. Baxter in the local yard has in the last few months been curtailed by the authorities in Washington. In February, two years ago, he was placed at the head of the manufacturing department, a consolidation of various bureaus. Last December this department was split into two divisions, and Constructor Baxter's authority was restricted. Now he is to be sent back to a post he held twelve years ago as Commander, after large experience in important warship construction. He has been at the Brooklyn Navy Yard seven years.

At the yard yesterday afternoon it was said that an unofficial explanation from Washington as to the transfer was that it had been ordered in line with Secretary Meyer's idea that a Naval Constructor should not serve more than four years in any one yard at a stretch. The Secretary, it was said, desired to give as many of the constructors as possible experience in the building of big warships. The work of constructing the New York, which Capt. Baxter expected to begin soon, will now fall to Constructor Stocker. He is said to be well equipped for the task.

Capt. Baxter himself declined last evening to discuss his transfer to Boston. Rear Admiral Leutze, the Commandant, said:

"Naval Constructor Baxter has been a very good officer, and we are all sorry to see him go."

Another official said:

"We think it is a mistake to take Capt. Baxter from the yard at this time, and there is some talk among the men of holding a mass meeting at which resolutions may be adopted requesting the Secretary of the Navy to keep Capt. Baxter here until work on the Florida has been completed, and the keel of the new battleship New York has been laid.

"I wish it distinctly understood, however, that if anything of the kind is done it will not be for the purpose of entering any protest against the transfer, as we, in no circumstances, would think of trying to tell the Secretary of the Navy what to do, or try to influence him in any way in making changes or transfers so far as this navy yard is concerned.

"When it was learned to-day that Capt. Baxter was to be transferred to Boston great surprise and deep regret were expressed by all the employes. Mr. Baxter has been here for a longer period than any other constructor. He has made good, having built such fine ships as the Connecticut and the Florida. Now that the plans for the New York have been perfected, material for her construction has been ordered, and everybody here feels that Capt. Baxter should remain here until her keel has been laid.

"The transfer of Capt. Baxter just now might result in confusion, or at least delay, in the carrying out of the work already planned and under way in this yard. Personally, I believe in the idea that when we have a good man here he should be retained or at least kept here until the work started by him has been completed.

"I don't know, of course, the reason for the transfer, but some of us here, whether right or wrong in our opinion, believe that Capt. Baxter may have been a little too severe in his tests of armor plates and other material for the construction of battleships and that this may have made certain manufacturers of armor plate antagonistic to him."

MAY FINANCE GOULD LINE.

English Syndicate Offers to Take Kuhn, Loeb's Place in Mo. Pacific.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—There are reports among financiers here that the relationship existing between George J. Gould and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. in the Missouri Pacific will soon terminate and financing of the railroad will be undertaken by an English syndicate and Das Deutsche Bank of Berlin.

The English syndicate, according to the reports prevailing in the financial district, has assured Mr. Gould that he can have $100,000,000 for the rehabilitation of the properties, while Das Deutsche Bank has signified that it also is ready to furnish whatever funds may be desired.

After providing about $20,000,000 for reconstruction work, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. ceased furnishing money to the Missouri Pacific. All rehabilitation work on the line is delayed temporarily, but the rebuilding will be resumed as soon as the new President is elected.

ACCUSE PARSONS OF $18,000 FRAUD

Park Architect Sued by Men Who Purchased Flushing Lots on His Advice, They Say.

EXPECTED TO SELL TO CITY

Declare He Told Them Land Was to be Taken for Park Purposes—Just a Hold-Up, Parsons Retorts.

A charge that Samuel Parsons, the landscape architect of the Park Department, who is now engaged in a controversy with Park Commissioner Stover, induced Charles A. Grant and Samuel Miers to invest $18,000 in land at Flushing on the ground that the city was about to buy the land for park purposes, is made in a suit brought by Grant and Miers against Parsons to recover $18,000, alleging fraud. Mr. Parsons, who has filed a general denial as his answer to the suit, went into the Supreme Court yesterday to ask Justice Blanchard to vacate an order for his examination before trial. This Justice Blanchard declined to do.

Grant and Miers assert that Mr. Parsons came to them in 1906 and told them that he had information that the city was about to buy for park purposes a certain six and a half acres of land on the Fresh Meadow Road, at Flushing, L. I. They alleged that he suggested they buy the land for $20,000, declaring that they would make a substantial profit. He made the condition, they also declare, that he was to have half of the profits they should realize from selling the land to the city at a price above $20,000, and agreed that if they did not get $20,000 from the city to stand half of the loss. He recommended, they say, that the negotiations for the purchase of the land be placed in the hands of William B. Parsons of Flushing, whom they believe to be a relative of his.

Relying on Parson's representations about the city's intention to acquire the land for park purposes, they say they bought it for $18,000. The city never acquired title to the land, and Grant and Miers set up that they believe that Parsons was interested in the previous ownership of the land and received compensation for engineering the sale.

"The suit is simply a hold-up," said Mr. Parsons last night. "The facts of the matter, as near as I can remember, are these: Five or six years ago a man who had lost his place in the Park Department, and for whom I felt sorry, came to me and told me that a friend of his wanted to invest some money in real estate. He said that this other man wanted my advice. Then he brought Miers and Grant and introduced them to me.

"Miers and Grant asked me to tell them a good part of Flushing, L. I., to invest their money in. I told them that I wasn't in the real estate business, but that I understood that Kissena Park was going to be built in the southeast part of Flushing, and that, if it ever was built, near-by lots would become valuable. I introduced them to my cousin, William B. Parsons, who is a lawyer and real estate man in Flushing, and my cousin took them around Flushing, showing them various lots. They finally decided to buy some lots near the projected park.

"The park has never been built, and now they are trying to hold me responsible. I made no contract with them, and wasn't going to profit by their purchase in any way. They haven't lost any money on their investment, anyhow, because they still have the lots."

PANIC AT A ST. LOUIS FIRE.

Two Hundred Women Saved by a Policeman's Presence of Mind.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 14.—Fire late today, due to an explosion, the cause of which has not been explained, endangered the lives of 200 persons, mostly women and girls, in the buildings at 817, 819, and 821 Washington Avenue, lofts used principally by manufacturers of men's and women's wear.

All escaped except one youth, Robert Mayer, 19 years old, who was found dead from burns in an inclosed stairway on the fifth floor of the building at 819 Washington Avenue. A fireman, Capt. Thomas Gorman of the salvage corps, was knocked from a ladder by a falling brick and his skull fractured. He probably will die.

A patrolman, the first person outside the building to be apprised of the fire, climbed a fire escape and by bellowing threats and entreaties to the panic-stricken men and women scrambling out upon the window ledges turned them back to the safety exits.

One of the women discovered an exit to a roof adjoining on the east a few feet below the level of the seventh floor, where nearly 100 women and girls were imprisoned. All leaped to this roof and a few minutes later descended the fire escape, some by themselves and the more excited and timid assisted by firemen.

The loss to the buildings and the stock and machinery of the half dozen firms occupying them will not exceed $100,000. The owner of the building estimates that of this sum $65,000 is covered by insurance.

ANNOUNCES HIS LAST GIFTS.

Dr. D. K. Pearsons, Aged 91, Distributed $300,000—Has Given $6,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Twenty-two years of systematic giving were rounded out today by Dr. D. K. Pearsons at the Hinsdale Sanitarium by the announcement of gifts amounting to $300,000. In memory of his wife he gave $100,000 to the American Board of Foreign Missions, $100,000 to Berea College, $25,000 to Doane College, $10,000 to McKendrie College, $10,000 to Northland College, and $55,000 to other institutions of learning in small benefactions.

It was the aged philanthropist's ninety-first birthday, and a dinner was held at the sanitarium this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in honor of the event. During the twenty-two years in which Dr. Pearsons has been aiding the small colleges of the United States he has given away nearly $6,000,000. Of his large fortune only enough is left to support him in moderate comfort during the rest of his days.

With all his liberality Dr. Pearsons has been discriminating in his gifts. He has always made a point of giving only to institutions which seemed deserving, and of the forty-eight colleges which have at one time and another been the objects of his benefactions every one is doing better work as the result of his aid.

CUBAN TROOPS CALLED OUT.

Manoeuvres for Province Where Pino Guerro Is Making a Campaign.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 14.—Gen. Monteagudo, after a long consultation with President Gomez, has ordered the mobilization of 2,500 troops for a season of army manoeuvres in Pinar del Rio province, where Pino Guerro is waging an anti-election campaign.

Since the attempts to assassinate Guerro he has been closely watched. It is believed now that the manoeuvres are a mere blind and that mobilization is a precautionary measure against Guerro, who is most popular in his home province. Guerro said in his opening speech that Gomez's acceptance of a renomination would mean a revolution and much bloodshed.

EASTER WEATHER DOUBTFUL.

Forecasters Promise Cloudiness, Which May Not Include Rain.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—At the Weather Bureau to-night it was said that great uncertainty exists as to the weather the country will have on Easter Sunday.

It is raining hard here and a storm is raging in the South that takes up most of the bureau's attention, but it was said that the appearances now are that in New York and vicinity, while it will probably be cloudy, there is a chance of the day passing without rain. In Philadelphia and vicinity the general conditions will be about the same, but the bureau believes that Philadelphia is more likely to have showers.

The local weather bureau would venture no guess as to the kind of weather to prevail on Easter Sunday, except a vague forecast "increasing cloudiness." The promise is for fair weather to-day, with unsettled conditions to follow, in which rain might be included.

WIVES TO REST EASTER.

Missouri Husbands Will Prepare the Dinner for Them.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 14.—The men of the Congregational Church of Old Orchard, Mo., a suburb, announced to-day that they would relieve their wives of the preparation of the Sunday dinner on Easter. When church services are over the wives will find a repast awaiting them in the basement of the church.

W. L. Wilson has been appointed chief cook. He says Easter day is the dearest in the calendar to the feminine heart, and it is cruel on the part of husbands to compel wives to prepare a dinner when they are eager to display their finery.

ROB WOMAN NEAR FIFTH AV.

One Holds Miss Weller, While Others Take Her Money, Beat Her and Run.

A young woman who said she was Eva Weller, 22 years of age, of 511 East Seventy-ninth Street, told Patrolman Dubois, whom she met at Sixty-eighth Street and Third Avenue, last night, that she had been held up in Sixty-eighth Street, near Fifth Avenue, by three young men.

One grabbed her throat and others took $4 from a bag she carried. When she called for help the hoodlum who held her hit her in the eye. Then all ran toward Central Park.

WISHED McKINLEY A MINISTER

Bishop Neeley Says Aged Mother Was Sorry He Was Only a President.

WATERBURY, Vt., April 14.—"I think that the aged mother of McKinley was sorry her son was only a President, instead of being a Methodist minister," said Bishop Thomas B. Neeley of New Orleans, in his address to-day to the class for admission to the ministry at the Vermont Methodist Episcopal Conference in session here. Continuing, Bishop Neeley said:

"Nothing is so noble as to be a minister. Preachers should put forth less thunder and more lightning. You must train the voice to make a whisper audible. It is not necessary to shout."

AKED AT SAN FRANCISCO.

He Will Preach His First Sermon in His New Church To-morrow.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Dr. Charles F. Aked, former pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, New York, who has accepted a call to the First Congregational Church here, arrived to-day, accompanied by his wife.

He will preach his first sermon in his new charge on Easter Sunday.

HARVARD GETS LABORATORY.

$100,000 Fund for the Wolcott Gibbs Memorial Laboratory Is Now Complete.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 14.—With a fund of $100,000 in the hands of Charles Francis Adams, 2d, the treasurer of Harvard, the proposed Wolcott Gibbs Memorial Laboratory at Harvard becomes a reality.

This fund was started over a year ago by a gift of $50,000 from Dr. Morris Loeb and Mrs. James Loeb, both graduates of Harvard and residents of New York City, on condition that an equal sum be raised to complete the total necessary. This has now been done.

The new laboratory will be used for research work and physical and inorganic chemistry. The plans are rapidly approaching completion at the hands of Mr. A. Wadsworth Longfellow, the Boston architect. It is expected that ground will be broken for the building during the early Summer on the proposed site south of the Peabody Museum.

DROPS THE NAME OF LEMON.

Punsters, However, Refuse to be Kind to Illinois Man.

Special to The New York Times.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., April 14.—When Axel Conrad Lemon left the Circuit Court of Winnebago County this morning he believed he had heard the last of puns on his name, for Judge Frost had changed his name to Lemont.

The punsters, however, became even busier.

"So the court handed you one, did he?" said one acquaintance, as Lemont left the court room.

"I see the court has become a Lemon aid," chirped another.

"Well, don't get sour about it," said a third. "First thing you'll be looking seedy. No use to show the yellow and peel your eye for trouble."

TAFT SAYS WAR MUST NOT GO ON AT THE BORDER

Warns Mexican Government and Rebels That People on Our Soil Must Not Be Shot.

DIAZ'S CAPITAL IS EXCITED

Fear of Our Designs Makes the Situation Serious, Though the Government Is Conciliatory.

BRITISH FORCE IS LANDED

Attack by Rebels on San Quentin, a Lower California Port, Prevented by Detachment from a Warship.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—A situation of grave potential seriousness has arisen between this country and Mexico over the killing and wounding of American citizens at Douglas, Ariz., yesterday during a fight between Mexican Federal troops and insurrectos at Agua Prieta, just across the international boundary from the Arizona town. President Taft was prompt to act on the matter to-day when an appeal was made to him by the Douglas Chamber of Commerce, through its Secretary, E. P. Grindell, who informed the President by telegraph that thousands of Mexican bullets fell in the American town and that citizens were wounded in their homes.

By the direct orders of the President strong representations have been made to the Mexican Government in the matter, and the insurgents have been notified through the Department of Justice that there must be no recurrence of the affair. The insurgents have made prompt expression of regret and have promised that so far as they are concerned there shall be no further cause for offense. They have also declared that they will exercise great care about crossing the boundary.

By the President's direction the Acting Secretary of State, Huntington Wilson, has sent to the Mexican Government an urgent message in which it is given to understand that yesterday's outrage will be treated as an incident, but any similar occurrences will be dealt with as a National affront. The Mexicans are advised that hereafter they should make choice of such positions in military engagements as will avoid drawing fire from the insurrectos in such a way that the missiles will cross the international boundary, and that their own fire must not be in the direction of American soil, where it may cause loss of life or endanger American citizens. The President, with the situation so acute, and in the presence of a popular sensitiveness in Mexico as to American interference, does not desire to subject the present friendly relations of the two countries to any strain, but he took a positive position.

The Agua Prieta affair was the subject of a conference of the President, Secretary Dickinson, and Attorney General Wickersham, and later of the President and Acting Secretary of State Wilson, accompanied by the Solicitor of the State Department, Mr. Clark.

To Give Warning on Border.

By the President's directions the Secretary of War has ordered Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, in command of the American patrol force, where the fighting occurred yesterday, to prevent as far as possible any repetition of such menace to American citizens. When the regular forces of the Mexican army approach the boundary our army officers are to be sent to warn them against directing their fire in the direction of American soil, and also against taking any position which will draw fire from the insurrectos in that direction. As this Government can not deal with the insurrectos through the usual channels of the State Department the President has asked the Attorney General to direct the United States District Attorney and United States Marshal to get in communication through Deputy Marshals with the insurrecto forces when they get near the boundary and tell them that they must not let their fire endanger the lives of persons on this side of the line.

The following dispatch was received by the President to-day:

Douglas, Ariz., April 14, 1911.

The President, Washington, D. C.:

During an engagement between the Federals and insurrectos at Agua Prieta, Mexico, yesterday, one mile from Douglas, two Americans killed and eleven wounded, including some children attending to their own business here in Douglas. Thousands of bullets fell in our city, passing through residences and endangering life and property. Is there no way by which Americans can be protected in the peaceful pursuit of their affairs? Expect more fighting on the line at any time. Combatants fought within ten feet of American line yesterday.

DOUGLAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND MINES,
E. P. GRINDALL, Secretary.

The following reply was sent to Mr. Grindall by the President's direction:

Your telegram to the President received. He is much distressed at the situation as you have described it. He has directed the Secretary of State and the Secretary of War to take steps by which such a deplorable occurrence as that of yesterday at Douglas may be avoided in the future. In the meantime the President sincerely hopes that the Chamber of Commerce and the local authorities of Douglas may use all influence possible upon your citizens to keep as far away as possible from the scene of fighting and to avoid taking sides in order not to aggravate a situation already acute.

CHARLES D. HILLES,
Secretary.

British Force Balks Rebels.

The Mexican situation was rendered still more acute to-day by the intelligence that British marines had been landed in Lower California to give protection to a town from an insurgent attack. This news came from Mr. Schmucker, American Consul at Ensenada, who telegraphed to the Department of State that the British naval vessel Shearwater landed thirty men and a Maxim gun at San Quentin, 125 miles south of that place, to protect the town from the insurgents, but when the attack did not materialize the force was returned to the vessel, which then proceeded to Ensenada, arriving there this morning. The commander told the American Consul what he had done.

The landing of these British marines was also considered at the conference held at the White House. It is understood that this Government will not undertake to question the right of any power to land its forces on the soil of Mexico for the purpose of protecting its citizens in that country. The reason assigned for the landing in Lower California by the British has given this Government serious concern, as it appears to have been for the protection of a town against attack by insurgents, and it is not known whether there were British citizens there who were in danger or not. It is recognized that so long as the Mexican Government is not able to maintain order and this Government does not desire to interfere to restore order, there is no other course of action but to assent to the landing of foreign troops to protect the interests of British, German, or French subjects.

The Mexican Government, according to the view at the State Department, will be held accountable for the loss of life and injury to Americans at Douglas. No matter whether the fire of the Federals or that of the insurrectos inflicted the injury, it will be the Federal Government to which the United States will look for reparation.

As soon as official reports upon the fighting and the casualties sustained by Americans shall have been received, representations will be made to the Mexican Government, it is said, and in due course the claims of those injured will be presented. It is undoubtedly true, however, that in some cases Mexico will have a counter claim of contributory negligence on the part of injured Americans, who took their stand in such close proximity to the fighting as to place their lives in jeopardy. Many of the wounded sustained their hurts while in pursuit of their usual business in the streets or buildings of Douglas.

ONLY ONE GATEWAY TO MEXICO.

Rebels Burn Bridges, Cut Off Coal Supply, and Seize Trains.

EAGLE PASS, April 14.—The Laredo gateway is now the only railroad open from the United States to the interior of Mexico, rebels having cut off communication south of Ciudad Porfiro Diaz by burning six railroad bridges. This is the first serious disturbance in the State of Coahuila.

This news reached here to-day with the report that trains on the Mexican International Railroad out of Ciudad Porfiro Diaz are not operating further than Monclova. The bridge at Castano, the first station beyond Monclova, was destroyed, also five other bridges further beyond. The coal supply of interior Mexico may be affected by this crippling of the line, as large coalfields lie north of Monclova, including the Esperanzas mines.

The water supply of Monclova was cut off by the destruction of the Castano water works plant.

EL PASO, Texas, April 14.—Supt. Rutledge of the Mexico Northwestern Railway stated last night that he had received advices from Casas Grandes reporting 800 insurrectos at Guzman, sixty miles south of Juarez, where the wires had been cut. He said his advices reported the insurrectos in possession of five locomotives, several passenger coaches, and many freight and cattle cars, and it is believed a general insurrecto advance to Juarez is in progress.

A report is current here that Ojinaga has fallen, after being besieged by Gen. Sanchez for several weeks. The report emanates from operators talking over the wires. Marfa reports nothing known of the matter there, and the story cannot be confirmed.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Three thousand revolutionists, outnumbering the Federal defenders of the town by four to one, are within four hours' march of Juarez, according to a telegram received by the State Department to-day from American Consul Edwards at Juarez. The rebels are in control of the railroad's rolling stock and telegraph lines. The authorities of Juarez are preparing for an attack, and many Mexicans are sending their families to the American side.

The State Department also was advised to-day that the revolutionists had occupied Cuatla, near Puebla, and Paraiso, in the State of Tabasco.

MEXICANS DISTRUST US.

Incident at Agua Prieta Makes the International Situation Serious.

Special to The New York Times.

MEXICO CITY, April 14.—Strong representations have come from the Government in Washington, based on reports that Federal forces at Agua Prieta, in yesterday's engagement, had fired across the border into American territory, killing and wounding Americans. The answer of the Mexican Government will be most conciliatory. It can be said, however, that the international situation is most serious as a result of this incident.

Reports published here of the occurrences at Agua Prieta have caused much excitement. Information that American soldiers crossed the boundary has caused widespread comment, but judgment is suspended until clearer reports of their action shall be received. In some quarters it is believed that the incident will make for peace, but it is a fact that from the highest to the lowest, Mexicans here believe that the United States would take the country if an excuse were offered. The slightest aggressive move now would cause such feeling as to make hostilities probable. In that case Americans resident here would be in danger.

Rebels all over the republic have been cheered by the news of the capture of Agua Prieta. Among the reports that have come to-day is one that tells of renewed insurgent activity near Atlixta. Workers in the cotton factories have joined the rebels, and the mills are shutting down because they are unable to get hands. Tapia's band, which has been operating near Tuxpam, Vera Cruz, continues its depredations. In the States of Guerrero and Merelos the insurrectos are gaining in strength so greatly that they are practically having their own way.

MILITIA MEN TO THE FRONT.

Second Detail to See the Manoeuvres at San Antonio and San Diego.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—True to its promise of permitting as many as possible of the militia officers to play at the game of war now in progress at San Antonio, Texas, and San Diego, Cal., the War Department to-day designated the number of officers from each State who will compose the second detail of militiamen with the regulars for instruction purposes. These National Guard officers will go to the two Southern camps on April 25 for a stay of two weeks, relieving the first detail sent southward early in the month. Two hundred and one militia officers will go to San Antonio and 35 to San Diego, collected from the States and Territories as follows:

To San Antonio—Alabama, 6; Arkansas, 8; Connecticut, 4; Delaware, 1; District of Columbia, 3; Florida, 3; Georgia, 5; Illinois, 12; Indiana, 4; Iowa, 5; Kansas, 3; Kentucky, 4; Louisiana, 4; Maine, 2; Maryland, 4; Massachusetts, 10; Michigan, 5; Minnesota, 5; Mississippi, 3; Missouri, 7; Nebraska, 2; New Hampshire, 2; New Jersey, 8; New York, 30; North Carolina, 5; North Dakota, 2; Ohio, 12; Oklahoma, 1; Pennsylvania, 19; Rhode Island, 2; South Carolina, 3; South Dakota, 1; Tennessee, 5; Texas, 6; Vermont, 1; Virginia, 4; West Virginia, 2; Wisconsin, 5.

To San Diego—Arizona, 2; California, 11; Colorado, 4; Idaho, 2; Montana, 2; New Mexico, 2; Oregon, 5; Utah, 1; Washington, 8; Wyoming, 1.

REBELS IN FORCE HOLD AGUA PRIETA

Will Set Up a Government and Demand Recognition by the United States.

SMELTER BUSINESS SUFFERS

Closing of Port of Entry Shuts Off Ore Shipments—Important Question for Treasury Department.

AGUA PRIETA, Mexico, April 14, via Douglas, Ariz.—In full possession of 1,000 armed rebels to-night, Agua Prieta is to be made the headquarters of rebel operations in Sonora. It is openly said by the rebel commanders that they expect to establish here a provisional government for Sonora, and that the insurrecto officers are now in Douglas waiting for the word to cross the line.

With "Red" Lopez and his band holding the town, following its capture yesterday, the rebels are hurrying their troops toward this place. With their men all assembled, they expect to have a fighting force of 1,500, with which they believe they can successfully withstand any attack. The hardest fighting which the Mexican rebellion has afforded to date is expected to take place almost from hour to hour in Agua Prieta.

Reinforcements Under Garcia.

The first rebel reinforcements to arrive —400 mounted men—reached here this afternoon. They were led by Balsario Garcia, one of the best-known leaders of the insurrectos in Sonora. He had brought his force in hot haste from the Sierra Madre Mountains to lend all possible aid to hold Agua Prieta. Included in the command is a small band of Yaqui Indians. The arrival of Garcia's command, riding at top speed across the plains and raising great clouds of dust, with the firing of shots by a detachment of rebel scouts sent out to intercept them, led to the belief that the expected attack by the Federals was on. Both Agua Prieta and Douglas were thrown into a fever of excitement. In Agua Prieta the rebels made ready to resist an attack, and in Douglas the citizens, remembering the disastrous occurrences of yesterday, sought places of safety.

The apprehension was lessened a little by the knowledge that the approaching band were rebel reinforcements. Whether rebels led by Antonio Garcia, Juan Cabral, and Juan Gandalaria are marching northward and are expected to arrive in Agua Prieta within a day or two is not known here.

Federal Forces Uniting.

Several Federal forces are scattered throughout the country south of Agua Prieta, and are massing for combined operation against the town. Included in these are the commands of Col. Ojeda, Commandante Barron, Prefect Chiapa, and Lieut. Col. Diaz. The headquarters of these troops have been in Cananea, but for the last five days they have been deficient in operations against the rebels. Cananea dispatches give the total of these forces at 1,400 men.

The rebels have a temporary supply of food and hay for their mounts, which they say they can replenish from the ranches to the south. The Nacozari Railroad will be used for this transportation. The possession of this railroad from Agua Prieta to Nacozari is of advantage to the rebels. On the other hand, the rebels' control of the railroad and the closing of the Port of Douglas is a serious blow to the great mining interests of this section of Sonora.

Serious Loss to Smelters.

Until the port is opened and the rebel forces in Agua Prieta either routed from their position or recognized as belligerents by the United States the heavy shipment of ores for the El Paso and Douglas smelters must cease. This fact alone is expected to aid in the opening of the port in Douglas. If the rebels succeed in accomplishing ingress and egress to Agua Prieta and Douglas they will have accomplished a victory for their cause. It will enable them to bring practically unlimited supplies and ammunition into Mexico. The matter is in the hands of the Treasury Department at Washington. The shipment of ores from one of the places alone amounted to 350 cars per month. This is but a portion of the large total shipped in by other mines in Sonora, owned principally by United States capitalists.

Late this afternoon a young American departed in an auto for Nacozari to inform Americans in Sonora of the capture of Agua Prieta and of the closing of the Port of Douglas. The messenger carried with him a pass from "Red" Lopez, to insure himself transportation through the country.

NO CHANCE GIVEN AMERICANS.

Shot Down at Douglas in Spite of Flag—Many Dead.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 14.—Americans in Douglas are in an angry mood because American citizens who happened to be at the Nacozari railway station in Agua Prieta when the rebel train arrived yesterday were not given an opportunity to escape to a place of safety. They were caught in a corner by the suddenness of the attack, which was begun immediately with the pouring out of the rebel troopers from the coaches.

The Americans sought shelter around the station house and in a near-by house, hoisting a flag and calling out that they were Americans and non-combatants, but the Mexican garrison in Agua Prieta flanked these positions and, closing in, poured in a deadly fire on the Americans. It was at this point that A. R. Dickson was shot. Only the galling fire with which the rebels raked the Federals at this locality, killing many and causing the others to flee, prevented the shooting of many more Americans. The station house, which is American property, was riddled by the Federal bullets.

The Federal force in Agua Prieta which defended the town yesterday consisted of 104 men. When the rebel train from Nacozari arrived at Cabullona, where "Red" Lopez left his horses under guard, he arrested the telegraph operator and gave orders that the telegraph line should not be cut, as he wished to use it himself to keep in communication with his horses and guards.

While under arrest the telegraph operator surreptitiously got his hand on the telegraph key and flashed the message, "Rebels coming in on train."

The Federals in Agua Prieta thus had twenty minutes' notice before the arrival of the train, and they opened fire on the coaches before the rebels had got out at the station.

One American in Douglas was killed and eight were wounded, one mortally, by bullets fired in the combat yesterday. The loss to the engaging forces was about equally divided, and amounts to fifteen dead and about sixty wounded.

Two of the Federal officers and twenty-nine of their men fled across the international line, where they were disarmed by the American troops, and Capt. Gaujot of Troop K, First Cavalry, U. S. A., crossed the line with a message to the remaining Federals from their officers, telling them to surrender. This they refused to do for some time, but finally consented to surrender to the American soldiers and agreed that their munitions of war should be turned over to the insurrectos.

Capt. Gaujot, commanding two companies of the First Cavalry here, has asked that another troop be sent at once, pending definite action at Washington. He has received orders from headquarters at Fort Huachuca to feed and care for the Federal prisoners who surrendered to him yesterday.

Capts. Vargas and Dasuito, who fled with half their Federal force after an hour of fighting at Agua Prieta yesterday, say they will not return to Mexico.

Recruits are secretly crossing the line to join the rebels at Agua Prieta. Thirty left Bisbee last night.

MADERO, SR., TURNS BACK.

Held Two Hours in Private Car—Attempt to Arrest One of the Party.

EAGLE PASS, Texas, April 14.—Owing to Minister Limantours' inability to control conflicting authorities, Francisco Madero, Sr., to-night announced he had abandoned his mission of peace. He made this statement after having been held two hours in his private car at Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, on the Mexican side, and one member of the party had been saved from arrest only by strenuous efforts.

Although Alfonso Madero goes in an unofficial capacity to represent the insurrecto following in the United States, it is known that he carries with him an emphatic demand from them that Francisco I. Madero, Jr., shall not make peace except with the explicit understanding that Diaz is to resign the Presidency and allow the country to elect his successor. This fact was made public by Junta members to-day.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—With the appearance here of an informal peace commission of business men from Mexico City and the establishment of telegraphic communication between Dr. Vasquez Gomez, head of the revolutionist agency here, and Francisco I. Madero, the rebel leader in Chihuahua, news of definite developments toward peace in Mexico is expected at any time.

Dr. Gomez was advised to-day that his message to Madero requesting instructions in the formulation of peace proposals had reached the rebel leader, and he expected to have a reply some time to-day.

Oscar Braniff and Esquival Obregon of Mexico City in the meantime are awaiting eagerly the terms which Madero will set forth. Dr. Gomez has informed them that while he will communicate to them whatever information he receives from his chief, he is, however, unable to treat with them unless they be named official representatives of the Mexican Government. Señors Braniff and Obregon decided last week to devote themselves to the cause of peace. It is said that they conferred with Government officials in Mexico City, and while the Mexican Government was willing that they might acknowledge having had such an interview, it was pointed out that the envoys went privately and unofficially.

Señor Braniff was exceedingly reticent concerning his mission when seen to-day. "We expect to be here several days," he said.

CORRAL GOES TO FRANCE.

Vice President Says Diaz Needs Cavalry to Crush Rebellion.

HAVANA, April 14.—Señor Don Ramon Corral, Vice President of the Republic of Mexico, arrived to-day from Vera Cruz on the steamer Espagne, bound for France.

In an interview Señor Corral said that President Diaz had determined upon vigorous measures to crush the revolution in Mexico, but up to this time had been hampered by a lack of cavalry. A strong force of this branch of the army, however, was now being organized, he said, and would soon institute an aggressive campaign.

It had been reported for some time that Señor Corral was in bad health and that he probably would go to Europe to recover.

HOLD CRICHFIELD SLAYERS.

Mexican Officials Promise Vigorous Prosecution for American's Death.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The alleged murderers of George W. Crichfield, the American who was recently killed at his ranch near Tuxpan, Mexico, are under arrest and are being vigorously prosecuted by the Mexican officials, declares American Consul Miller, at Tampico, in a telegram to the State Department to-day. Mr. Miller has completed his investigation. The body of the murdered American will be sent to the United States, it is said.

Mr. Miller also reported that the men accused of the murder of William W. Fowler, an American, who was killed some time ago in the vicinity of Tampico, have been arrested and are being prosecuted.

LONDON PAPER APPROVES TAFT.

Daily Mail Says His Precautions Have Been Justified.

LONDON, April 15.—Commenting on Thursday's battle at Agua Prieta, the early reports of which received here indicated practical intervention on the part of the United States, The Daily Mail to-day says:

> President Taft's precautions have been justified. If he has intervened it has been under compulsion. It was intolerable that such a state of affairs should continue. We cannot believe that President Taft has any designs upon Mexico's independence, or that the American Government has any purpose in view except the protection of American lives and interests.

None of the other morning newspapers comments on the affair.

friends of the Secretary this evening, however, that he would not be sent there, and it was explained that the recent appointment of Gov. Guild to St. Petersburg practically precluded the appointment of another Massachusetts man to such an important place. Almost in the same breath, however, the name of John Hays Hammond was suggested, on the ground that that would be a personal selection of the President, and the objection urged against Secretary Meyer would not obtain. It will be recalled that the President offered the mission to China to Mr. Hammond two years ago before the unfortunate selection of Mr. Crane was made. But from what was said at the White House this evening it is hardly likely that the new appointment will be made for some time.

Dr. Hill was en route from New York to Washington when the announcement of his resignation was made at the White House, and on his arrival to-night he was advised that rumors were current that he had in view some high position in public life or in the academic world in which he always has been interested.

"All that I am prepared to say at this time," said Dr. Hill, "is that I have no plans or engagements."

Dr. Hill said he intended to return to Berlin about May 1 to arrange his household effects for departure between then and July 1.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 14.—The Daily Mail publishes a Washington dispatch in which it is suggested that David Jayne Hill may have resigned as Ambassador to Berlin because of his attitude as reflected in a recent series of lectures which he delivered at Columbia University, New York.

In this series of lectures, says the dispatch, he advocated the view that the "divine right of Kings" is an extinct doctrine.

The dispatch states that Mr. Hill's resignation has caused a sensation in diplomatic circles in America.

A Berlin dispatch to The London Times says that Hill's resignation is yet another example of the impossibility of a man with moderate means, with the salary which the American Government at present puts at his disposal, meeting the expenses of an important embassy.

EXPECTED IN BERLIN.

Hill Thought to Have Been Persona Non Grata for Some Time Past.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 14.—The announcement of Ambassador Hill's resignation caused no surprise in well-informed circles in Berlin, where reports have been current for several weeks that his position, for some mysterious reason, had latterly been undermined.

Circumstantial statements were in circulation to the effect that he had become persona non grata to the Kaiser's Government, which had not hesitated to reveal its change of feelings toward him in a specific and unmistakable manner. It was impossible to obtain confirmation of these reports to-night, although they were vouched for by persons usually accurately informed.

The fact that Dr. Hill's relations with the Kaiser have been always correct, but never intimate, has been ascribed to the inevitable coolness caused by the objections which his Majesty at first raised to the Ambassador's appointment in 1908. The Kaiser has never visited Mr. Hill, although he dined annually with his predecessor, Charlemagne Tower.

Ambassador Hill has conducted himself in Berlin with conspicuous tact and dignity, and socially and professionally his Ambassadorship has been regarded here as an entire success, although it is thought possible that Washington may lay at his door the American failure to achieve a diplomatic victory in the potash controversy with Germany.

DIX FOR INCOME TAX AS URGED BY TAFT

Expresses His Belief in Its Justice and Economic Soundness in a Letter to Gaynor.

DOUBTS INJURY TO BONDS

Market Value of State or Municipal Securities Wouldn't Be Affected, Says the Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 14.—Gov. Dix to-day sent his answer to the communication received from Mayor Gaynor of New York, in which the latter came out in opposition to the concurrent resolution now pending before the Legislature, which if passed would have the effect of ratifying President Taft's proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution permitting the United States Congress to levy a tax on incomes from whatever source derived. Gov. Dix tells the Mayor that he is heartily in favor of the resolution, and that he feels in duty bound to "endeavor in every honorable way" to bring about its speedy ratification.

The Democratic State Convention last Fall adopted a platform which pledged the party to the speedy passage of the income tax resolution in the event of a Democratic Legislature being elected. The Governor invokes this clause as one ground for his advocacy of the income tax resolution, but he declares also that he has a sincere belief in the "justice and economic soundness" of the Federal income tax.

Gov. Dix's letter says in part:

> For many years the principle underlying an income tax has commended itself to me. It seems axiomatic that the first duty of a citizen is to pay or contribute toward the cost of Government according to his financial ability. The measure or amount of one's income may not be an absolutely perfect or infallible standard of ability on which to assess and collect a Federal tax, but it certainly constitutes an approximation to a just standard, and is the only practicable and workable plan of a National tax other than taxes on production and consumption, which can be devised and enforced by the Federal Government.
>
> I cannot agree with those who maintain that the proposed constitutional amendment should be defeated, because of the possibility that it empowers the National Government to tax the income of State and municipal bonds. This interpretation is doubted by many authorities; but even if it were valid, the amendment, in my opinion, should still be approved.
>
> Assuming that the amendment will be ratified by the necessary three-fourths of the States and thereby become an integral part of the United States Constitution, the income tax it authorizes can be imposed only by the vote of Congress. The States are fully represented in both houses of Congress, and in the Senate equal representation and vote is given each State.
>
> How, then, can a Federal income tax be imposed which could be oppressive in its effect on State and municipal bonds, without the consent of a majority of the States? Is it possible that the States through their Representatives in Congress would vote an unjust and destructive tax upon their own credit and securities?
>
> Assuming that the broadest possible interpretation were given the amendment by Congress, and that the tax should be levied and collected on State and municipal bonds, would the burden be oppressive and the effect injurious upon the credit and bonds of the States and municipalities? The tax would be levied on the income derived from the bonds, not on their face value or their market value.
>
> The Federal income tax of 1904 provided for a tax of 2 per cent. On this basis, the Federal tax would be $2 on each $100 of income received from the bonds. The owner of $100,000 4 per cent. State or municipal bonds would receive an income of $4,000, on which his tax toward the support of the National Government would be $80—an amount so small as to make the income tax a negligible quantity in its effect on the price of the bonds.
>
> If the exemption of State and municipal bonds from a Federal income tax was financially important and gave to State and municipal securities a material advantage when compared with private and corporate securities, what would be the effect on other forms of investments, say in real estate, commercial, and financial enterprises, railroad development, and productive industries? Would there not be a transfer of capital to the favored securities that would inflict loss upon owners of other securities and property and seriously handicap business undertakings of every sort?
>
> The exemption of income from State and municipal bonds from a tax imposed upon incomes from real property, from industrial enterprises, and from private and corporate securities, might easily create a grievance that would merit attention and require a remedy. In modern States where the income tax is a settled and vital factor in the National fiscal system, incomes from Government securities are subject to tax.
>
> Fortunately, the income tax is not a partisan or political question. The amendment, in its present form, originated with a Republican President and received almost unanimous approval from Democrats and Republicans in Congress.
> I believe with Prof. Seligman that "no patriot can afford to object to conferring upon the United States a power which until recently it was always supposed to possess, and without which its prosperity—nay, even its very existence—might possibly be menaced. The pending constitutional amendment seeks to secure this result, and its adoption ought not to be impeded by arguments that place upon it an erroneous interpretation and conjure up dangers which a more careful and economic analysis show to be wholly non-existent. The pending constitutional amendment is not only legally defensible and politically innocuous, but it is, above all, economically sound. It is, therefore, from every point of view, eminently desirable."

Mayor Gaynor based his opposition to the Federal ratification of the income tax resolution passed by Congress on the ground that it contained the words "from whatever source derived," thus leaving incomes from State and municipal bonds at the mercy of the Federal Tax Collector. This was the argument used by Gov. Hughes when he sent a message to the last legislature urging that body to vote against ratifying the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution.

At the last session of the Legislature a concurrent resolution identical with the one now pending before the lawmaking body was passed in the Senate by one vote and defeated in the Assembly by the same narrow margin.

The income tax resolution will be one of the first among the important measures to be considered by the Legislature when that body reconvenes on Monday. The legislative leaders declare that they have the necessary votes to pass it.

DIX STRICT WITH JURORS.

He Vetoes a Bill Authorizing Their Exemption from Duty for a Year.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 14.—Gov. Dix vetoed to-day the bill, introduced by Majority Leader Smith of the Assembly, which increased from three months to one year the period for which a juror might be excused from service for proper cause.

In his veto message the Governor points out that the bill would facilitate efforts to escape jury duty. Any person excused to a time after the day in September when the jury lists are made up would, on the strength of his excuse for one year, the Governor argued, escape jury duty for two years.

LIBRARY NEEDS $1,000,000.

Dr. A. S. Draper Declares That Is Necessary to Restore State Institution.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 14.—Dr. A. S. Draper, State Commissioner of Education, discussed with Gov. Dix to-day plans for the restoration of the State Library. Dr. Draper said that at least $1,000,000 should be made available in the next two years for the purpose.

Dr. Draper has been advised that the E. Dwight Church Library, which was recently purchased by Henry E. Huntington, is not available for the State Library. The State would not want to take over the entire library, and those sections of it which the State could use are not on the market.

HEIRESS SECRETLY MARRIED.

Briarcliff Schoolgirl, 17, Taken Home by Her Mother.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 14.—Stoutly denying that they had been married, although a license had been taken out yesterday, Miss Lillian Huntington of Elmira, O., a grand-niece of William Marsh Rice, the New York millionaire alleged to have been murdered by Attorney Patrick some years ago, and Noysrand Dawley of Charleston, W. Va., both 17 years old, left here to-night for Elmira, accompanied by the young lady's mother.

After their departure the Rev. L. T. Hipp admitted that he had performed the marriage ceremony yesterday evening. He said the young couple had requested him to keep the marriage secret. The families of the bride and bridegroom are wealthy and prominent socially. The bride, who appeared to be about 15, was in a girl's school at Briarcliff, N. Y., until a few days ago. She is wealthy in her own right.

HOLD COCHEU FOR PERJURY.

Friend of the Late Tom L. Johnson Involved with a Notary in a Land Sale.

Fred C. Cocheu, a Brooklyn real estate operator, was indicted yesterday for perjury, based on his testimony in a partition suit. In the same case Louis H. Meht, a notary, was indicted on a similar charge, and both pleaded not guilty before Judge Dike in the County Court.

The suit had to do with the sale of some property in Bay Ridge, and Cocheu, on Sept. 12, testified that the deed was executed on Sept. 11, 1900. It is alleged that the paper on which the deed was written was watermarked "1903." Meht, it is alleged, was the notary who executed it.

Cocheu lives at Fort Hamilton Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street, and has operated extensively in realty. He was interested with the late Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland in the building of the Nassau Electric Railroad system in Brooklyn, and was for a time Secretary of that company.

THOMAS SHEILS. LOWENFELD & PRAGER.

DENY ALBANY BRIBE TALE.

Both Persons Named in a Story of a $10,000 Offer Declare It False.

SEA CLIFF, L. I., April 14.—Assemblyman Henry A. Hollman, when a published report that a bribe of $10,000 had been offered to him to vote for William F. Sheehan for United States Senator, and that another offer of $10,000 had been made if he would enter the Democratic machine caucus two weeks ago last Monday and vote for the candidate favored by Murphy, said to-day:

"I have no statement to make other than to deny that a bribe was offered to me."

He added that he had had the pleasure of meeting Senator O'Gorman in Washington. "He is an estimable man," said the Assemblyman, "and in my opinion the State of New York is well represented in the United States Senate.

Benjamin F. Spellman, of the law firm of Towne & Spellman, who it was suggested in yesterday's report approached Assemblyman Hollman of Nassau, sent this telegram yesterday to Speaker Frisbie and Leader Smith of the majority in the Assembly:

> American of this morning contains story of alleged attempt by me to bribe Assemblyman Hollman in connection with the Senatorial election. Unless he at once repudiates charge I demand immediate Legislative investigation. The charge is absolutely false.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—When the attention of Representative Martin W. Littleton of New York was called to-day to the charge that a member of the New York Assembly had been offered a bribe of $10,000 to vote for Mr. Sheehan for Senator in the recent Senatorial contest he said:

"What I knew of that matter at the time came to me from a client, and I must hold as a confidential statement. I have not since then thought of it seriously as the election is past and gone, and the question I have been disposed to regard as a closed incident. I should not be willing to discuss it at all or to say a word about it."

NEW ZEALAND PREMIER HERE.

Stops at the Waldorf a Few Days Before Sailing for England.

Sir Joseph George Ward, K.C.M.G., Premier of New Zealand, arrived yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria, accompanied by Lady Ward, on his way to England to attend the coronation of King George V. on June 22. The Premier of Britain's most distant colony said that he was here twenty months ago when he was on his way home and was very much pleased to spend a few days in New York again. He sails on the Cunarder Lusitania on Wednesday.

In speaking of New Zealand, where he was born, Sir Joseph said that only one quarter of 1 per cent. of the population of the two islands was illiterate and they were mostly persons beyond sixty years, who were drawing an old age pension from the Government.

"What about woman suffrage?" he was asked.

"We have had it for seventeen years and to the surprise of all the men it worked very well," he replied. "At first it was thought that the vote given to women would create new parties, but the wives voted the same as their husbands and the daughters followed the lead of their parents when they reached twenty-one years of age and were entitled to vote.

"Several of the towns have had women Mayors who have attended to their duties and filled the office with success. The Maoris are the most intelligent colored people in the world and have four representatives in the New Zealand Parliament."

Sir Joseph George Ward has been Prime Minister of New Zealand since 1906, previous to which he was Minister of Finance, Postmaster General and Minister of Lands. He was created a baronet in 1901 by the late King Edward VII.

TALKS HIMSELF TO PRISON.

Prisoner's Abuse of Magistrate Results in Six Months' Sentence.

Dominick Hearns, 22, a waiter living at 93 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, talked himself into the workhouse early yesterday. He was charged with telling Patrolman Wubnig, at Grand Street and the Bowery, that he did not like his face, and threatened to punch it. The policeman advised him to go home. Then Hearns made a low tackle, and Wubnig found himself sprawling in the gutter. The two rolled in the street until another policeman rescued Wubnig. Magistrate House fined the prisoner $10.

"What!" screamed Hearns. "Ten dollars! Why, you four-eyed galoot, you'll wait a long while for that."

"That fine is remitted," said the Magistrate. "Workhouse, twenty days."

"Double it," retorted Hearns.

"One month."

"Aw, 'tain't enough," said the prisoner.

"Ninety days."

"Dat's easy: Come again," sneered Hearns.

"Six months."

It took three policemen to drag Hearns from court.

"I wish I could have made it a year," sighed Magistrate House. "Unfortunately, six months is my limit."

NOT TO BLAME FOR WEATHER.

Landlord Need Not Pay $500 Verdict to a Woman Who Fell on an Icy Stoop.

Official weather reports were accepted by the Appellate Term of the Supreme Court yesterday in setting aside a $500 Municipal Court judgment against Alessandro Delle Paoli, obtained by Amedo Gianopalo for loss of his wife's services. Mrs. Gianopalo slipped and injured herself on the icy stoop of one of Delle Paoli's tenements. Justice Lehman, in writing the opinion of the court, declared:

"The testimony showed that the stoop was full of ice for two days. The official weather reports show that for two days the weather had been inclement and sleet and rain were falling. This was not the fault of the landlord."

FEW NOVEL EXHIBITS IN JUNIOR SALON

American Artists, However, Have, as Usual, a Very Creditable Representation.

MONOTONY DOMINANT NOTE

French Portraitists Attract Marked Attention by Ultra-Refinements of Color and Line.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 14.—Frankly speaking, this year's exhibition of the Société des Beaux Arts, which opens its doors to the general public on Monday, is only a clear demonstration that the reason for the existence of a "new Salon" has ceased. There are no ultra-modern works, no new ideas, and nothing very prominent in it, although there is a certain unity of purpose, which, however, results only in monotony. The general tendency is toward smaller canvases, some enormous decorations by Besnard and Mesnard being among the few exceptions.

As usual, the foreign element is well represented. American painters are conspicuous by their good work. Frederick Frieseke shows some cheerful studies of sunlight and green leaves and a large canvas with two girls at a dressing table, which is very refined in color. Walter Gay's supply of furniture seems inexhaustible, and his skill at painting it increases yearly. Myron Barlow sees his figure compositions this year in tones of mauve, while in 1910 they were revealed to him in blue. From both points of view they are charming, although a trifle monotonous.

Eugene Paul Ullmann has two small pictures, very cleverly treated. Elisabeth Nourse shows four. One, an interior, with a figure reflected in an open window, is especially interesting. Florence Este, in "Un Horizon Breton," presents one of her characteristic compositions of sky, water, and trees, the ensemble showing intense poetical feeling. Walter Gay, Miss Nourse, and Miss Este exhibit also some clever water colors.

Among the miniaturists Elsie Dodge Pattee's study of a little girl sewing is very conspicuous for charm and originality. A good portrait is shown by Miss Frances Lea.

The work that is sure to attract most attention is Besnard's ceiling decoration for the Comédie Française. It is of colossal proportions, and presents Adam and Eve and the serpent in human form in the bough of a giant elm, watched by a crouching figure in red on one side and a mocking, meditating woman on the other. The second half of the canvas is lighter in scheme, with two whirling spirits, symbolic of Genius, floating in the air and falling at the feet of Racine, Molière, Corneille, and Victor Hugo, who preside in the background over the destiny of the house.

One picture which has already been discussed for several days in the press is a portrait of Paderewsky by Charles Giron, which on the "hanging day" was cut across with a penknife by an unknown vandal. Although the painting, representing the musician in a garden, his hands resting on a green chair and his white tie floating in the wind, is a fine piece of work, the greater part of its popularity is undoubtedly due to public sympathy with the artist on account of the outrage put upon him.

Portraitists abound more than usual in the Salon. Boldini has a series of female portraits, each of them expressing very forcibly the individuality of this clever but eccentric artist. All of them are gray compositions, wherein elaborate coiffures, jeweled chains, and silk stockings play a prominent part. Lagandra has an imposing figure in pink satin, flanked by two portraits of men. Jacques Blanche, victim of the present craze for the Russian ballet, has an alluring portrait of the dancer Vaslaw Nyinski and several still-life studies of Russian costumes. La Touche is represented by four canvases, the smallest of which is destined for the library of Mrs. Dougall Hawkes of New York.

Many are the landscapes exhibited. Perhaps the most noteworthy is a collection of garden scenes, with flowering nasturtium in clusters of browns and yellows, by Abel Truchet. Their richness of tone gives the sensation of actual sunlight

Aman Jean shows two portraits and three decorations in his usual graceful style. "La Saltambanque," a young woman in a mauve harlequin costume, is especially attractive in line and color. Caro del Vaille has this year only one exhibit, a procession of pagan lovers, bringing offerings of fruit and flowers to the altar of Eros. The tone of this painting is extremely beautiful. Le Sidanier is at his best in six moonlight themes, full of subdued color. Alfred Rott, President of the society, depicts the liberator, José de San Martino, on horseback. This work is to be reproduced in Gobelin tapestry for presentation to the Argentine Republic. A symbolic picture is supplied by Alfred Agache, a scarlet draped figure, with an enigmatic expression, in the act of lifting one of the many masks which it holds ready under a cloak. The allegorical woman perhaps represents mankind. The title, "More Masks Than One," is amply justified.

The last of the few canvases likely to collect a crowd of onlookers is by Louis Gillot, known as "the French Turner." It is called "The Factory," and with its roaring furnaces, its weird effects of steam and smoke upon water in the background, is a forcible expression of activity, strength, and life.

The sculpture section, while harmonizing with the pictures in a general lack of real interest, is dominated by the genius of Rodin, who exhibits an impressive group representing an "Expiring Youth." Bourdelle has a bronze figure of a boy, treated in his familiar antique style. Injalbert, Saint Marceaux, and Lenoir have a series of busts, breathing the classical spirit so dear to cultivated Frenchmen.

While last year only one American sculptor exhibited, this time several sent good works, which were accepted. Miss Alvina Hoffmann has a bust of Richard Hoffmann. It is noticeable that a life-size portrait of Robert Astor Chanler's wife, Mme. Cavalieri, dressed in a harem skirt, which was painted last month by La Gandara, has not been shown, although it was announced that it would be. Mrs. Gertrude Whitney, daughter of Cornelius Vanderbilt, shows a good study of a Spanish peasant, with plenty of life in it. W. Jewett's bust of Grieg is lifelike.

Among other Americans represented in the sculpture section are A. C. Robinson, E. R. Zettler, and Mesdames Irene Prahar, Elsie Ralph, and Bessie Vonnoh.

Among the etchings one of the most remarkable represents the Flatiron Building in New York. It is by Walter Hale, and is much appreciated.

A Real Event in the World's History is the Golden Jubilee celebrating the founding of the Safe Deposit Co. of New York—the first in the world. April 17th to 22d, at 140 Broadway. You are cordially invited.—Adv.

FLEAS MAY CARRY PLAGUE.

Dr. Petrie Finds Them on a Species of Marmot in Manchuria.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 14.—A Peking dispatch to The London Times says that Dr. Petrie of the Lister Institute, the British delegate to the plague conference, who is at Mukden, has discovered thirty-six fleas of a very large size on twelve marmots. This is an important discovery, and provides the probable explanation of the method by which the plague infection is conveyed from the marmot to man.

In an article commenting on the dispatch The Times says: "All the medical experts on the spot agreed that the plague epidemic originated among a species of marmot which exists in great numbers in the country traversed by the Manchurian Railway. If the marmot theory was correct it became important to discover how the infection was originally transmitted to human beings. Dr. Petrie has now demonstrated that the marmot is the host of fleas, presumably as a prelude to seeking to establish that in Manchuria the marmot flea has to a limited extent played the same part as the rat flea in India.

"The discovery was not unexpected, but it was by no means a foregone conclusion. There are over 400 known species of fleas, moreover, and only one or two of these species up till now has been proved to disseminate the plague."

ARRESTS IN CHAMPAGNE WAR.

Paris Anarchists Said to be Involved in a Plot.

EPERNAY, France, April 14.—Calm prevailed during the night throughout the Department of Marne, the scene of three days' riotous outbreak on the part of the discontented wine growers, and the authorities this morning are hopeful that the rioting is over. The vote of the Chamber of Deputies in nullifying the action of the Senate with reference to the delimitation of the champagne districts and the expressed intention of Premier Monis to refer the whole question to the Council of State for settlement served in a considerable degree, it is believed, to appease the excited populace.

The army corps sent to quell the outbreak and prevent the further destruction of property remains, however, for the time being in the disturbed area.

A force of gendarmes just before daylight this morning proceeded to Venteuil, one of the wine depots upon which the manifestants especially directed their operations, and where they had destroyed wine presses and champagne in bottles, and arrested two of the ringleaders. While the gendarmes were escorting these men to the police station women rushed into the streets and tried to tear incriminating documents from the arms of the public prosecutors.

Military aeroplanes played a prominent rôle in the manoeuvres of the troops when the rioting was at its height.

To-day was taken up with trials of wine growers who were arrested during the disorders of several days past. The summary jurisdiction courts here and at Rheims sentenced several persons from one week to two months imprisonment each. Two of the prime movers in Wednesday's riots at Epernay were arrested to-day.

It is said that the police found documents in the possession of ringleaders which establish the existence of a plot in which Paris anarchists participated.

BAR-SUR-AUBE, April 14.—Thursday's vote in the Chamber of Deputies, which nullified the action of the Senate with reference to the delimitation of the Champagne district, and placated the riotous wine growers at Epernay, has fanned the smouldering discontent of the people of Aube.

To-night a demonstration was started which might have had serious consequences but for the presence of the troops, who prevented an attempt to attack the sub-prefecture. The mob, however, relieved its feelings by stoning the soldiers, a number of whom and a police commissary were hurt. The demonstrators were dispersed at midnight.

JAPANESE LOAN TO CHINA.

Five Million Dollars Advanced to Restore the Peking-Hankow Railway.

SEATTLE, April 14.—A topic of discussion in Japan when the steamship Kamakura departed from Yokohama on March 28 was the loan of $5,000,000 by Japanese banks to the Chinese Communications Department, the money to be expended for railway purposes. The issue price of the loan was 95 and the rate of interest 5 per cent. The money will be used to pay for the Peking-Hankow Railroad, wrecked under pressure by the Chinese Government.

Lawlessness continues in Manchuria. Six Japanese were killed recently in a village on the Chinese Eastern Railway. While a party of Russian soldiers was proceeding along the border near Harbin it was fired at by 200 Chinese troops. The Russians fled.

TWO MORE AVIATORS FALL.

Lieut. Byasson Killed and M. Delange Seriously Injured in France.

CHEVREUSE, France, April 14.—Lieut. Byasson of the navy, while making an aeroplane flight here to-day, fell with his machine and died of his injuries.

RHEIMS, April 14.—A monoplane driven by M. Delange collapsed when at a height of 100 meters to-day, and the aviator was seriously injured.

4,000 IN RELIGIOUS PARADE IN LONDON

Spectacular Procession to St. Paul's, in Which Clergy and Laity Join.

FIRST TIME IN 400 YEARS

People of All Classes Led by Bishop and Priests to Singing of Old-Time Hymns.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 14.—The British capital witnessed to-day a religious ceremony which has no precedent in the annals of Protestantism.

After the Reformation the Anglican Church abandoned the practice of street processions, probably with a view to differentiating the reformed religion from that of Rome, and until to-day there had been no example since the time of Henry VIII. of the Bishop of London calling the clergy and the public together and leading them in ceremonial parade to St. Paul's.

To-day, with chants and hymns, 4,000 men marched from Trafalgar Square to St. Paul's Cathedral. The clergy were in white surplices, preceded by the processional cross. Following the clergy were all classes of laymen—city men, in frock coats and top hats; artisans, in their Sunday best, and portly church wardens, with massive gold chains. About the middle of the long procession the Bishop of London walked, preceded by a priest, carrying the crozier. One part of the Strand and Fleet Street remained open for traffic, and the contrast between the procession and the file of vehicles, among which were lumbering motor 'buses and tooting taxicabs, was somewhat incongruous.

The procession was preliminary to a solemn service of supplication for the nation in this coronation year, which was held in St. Paul's. Many comparisons were made by onlookers with the Eucharistic procession held by the Catholics in Westminster two years ago.

GOOD FRIDAY DIFFERENT HERE

Open Saloons and Theatres Surprise a Visitor from London.

Herbert M. Winston, an English barrister visiting America, expressed yesterday much surprise that Good Friday was not observed here as it is in England, where all places of amusement are closed, the same as on Sunday.

"Every one abstains from meat on Good Friday in England," said Mr. Winston, "irrespective of their religion. The chief diet for all is salt codfish, served with egg sauce, which creates a thirst, especially among the British workmen, and as the saloons are only open from 1 to 3 P. M. and from 6 till 11 P. M., they have dinner early, to give them time to imbibe sufficient beer to last during the closed hours.

"On Good Friday," continued Mr. Winston, "pieces of fried fish and bread may be purchased for a penny, with hot cocoa, tea, cake, or lemonade. On Easter Monday the chief delight of the London coster is to take his 'doner,' in her new hat or bonnet, out in a donkey cart, and revel in periwinkles, shrimps, beer, tea, and usually the penny saveloy, similar to the frankfurter that is sold at Coney Island."

SIR ELZEAR TASCHEREAU DIES

Ex-Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, April 14.—Sir Elzear Taschereau, ex-Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, died to-day at the age of 75. He was appointed to the Supreme Court bench in 1878 and Chief Justice in 1902. He retired in 1906. He became a member of the Imperial Privy Council in 1904.

Chief Justice Taschereau was author of several important legal works. His death followed a stroke of paralysis three weeks ago.

FOUR FLEW 54 MILES.

Lanser in Aeroplane Is Accompanied by His Three Sisters as Passengers.

BRUSSELS, April 14.—The aviator Lanser flew to-day in an aeroplane from the aviation field at Kiewit to the Belgian capital, carrying his three sisters as passengers.

The distance flown was 87 kilometers, (nearly 55 miles.)

PITTSBURG'S NEW HOTEL.

It Will Cost $1,000,000 and New Yorkers Are to Control It.

PITTSBURG, Penn., April 14.—James Doak & Co. of Philadelphia have been awarded the contract for the new $1,000,000 hotel to be erected on the site of the old Second Presbyterian Church, Pennsylvania Avenue and Seventh Street, and which is to be completed Sept. 1, 1912.

The hotel is to be put up by the Pennsylvania Real Estate Company, and has been leased for sixty-three years at an annual rental of $135,000 to a company of New-Yorkers in which Frank H. Wiggins of the Hotel Imperial is prominent. It is understood he will manage the new house.

HIGH BAIL FOR YEGGMEN.

Important Capture of Bank and Post Office Robbers in Ohio.

The William J. Burns National Detective Agency, the headquarters of which is in the Park Row Building, received information yesterday of the arrest in Toledo and Hamilton, Ohio, of a dozen well-known yeggmen who have been operating in the Middle West for several months, robbing banks and Post Offices. Some of the recent jobs attributed to the gang are bank robberies at Riga, Mich., and Winfall, Ind., and Post Office robberies at Coleman, Chelsea, and Gahanna, Mich., and Powell, Ohio.

John Norton, alias "St. Louis Slim," was arrested at Hamilton, Ohio; William Clark, alias "Gerard Ressch"; Charles McCarthy, alias "Walluver," and George, alias "Slim," Caruthers, were arrested early yesterday in Toledo. They were armed and had complete yegg outfits. Felix Brock, Earl Redman, Billy Haggerty, and John Bunker were arrested at 111 Avondale Avenue, Toledo, Thursday night. J. H. Hamilton, alias "Ham Dempster," was arrested at 914 Washington Street, Toledo, and John Martin and two others were picked up at 224 Huron Street, Toledo.

The men had been under surveillance by agents of the Burns Detective Agency ever since they made the mistake of robbing a bank that was a member of the American Bankers' Association, which is protected by the Burns agency. The prisoners were taken before the United States Commissioner at Toledo and held in $5,000 bail each.

ARREST A HOLD-UP GANG.

Negro Suspects in the Conklin Murder Believed Responsible for Many Crimes.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 14.—In the arrest of half a dozen negroes by the Deputy Sheriffs of Westchester, who have been trying to run down the murderers of Station Agent Charles H. Conklin at Croton Lake on Sunday night, the authorities say they have a gang of "hold-up" men who have been robbing workmen for a long time along the Catskill Aqueduct and the New York City watershed.

More than a dozen hold-ups occurred in the northern part of Westchester County previous to the slaying of Conklin, and in nearly every instance the bandits answered the description of the men now in the White Plains Jail.

Efforts were made to-day to get a statement from the two negroes, Green and Knight, arrested last night in Manhattan, but they refused to answer questions. They have been identified by a woman of Valhalla, N. Y., who says they attacked her several weeks ago. They were seen near Croton Lake on the day of the shooting.

William Amis, who is accused of figuring in the shooting of Conklin, also is accused of robbing laborers near Croton Lake. The conflicting statements of the prisoners lead to the belief that all took some part in the killing of Conklin, but which one fired the shots which ended his life is not known.

Knight has a wound in his right arm, and insists that he received it in New York City. Sheriff Scherp is sure it was made by a bullet fired by Conklin.

DOUBT MRS. HYNDMAN'S WILL

It Is Forged, Say Counsel for Hamilton Hyndman of Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 14.—The first step in the legal battle involving approximately $250,000 in property in Hamilton and Butler Counties, Ohio, was taken today before Common Pleas Judge Cushing, of the Hamilton County Courts. David Davis and Frank Wood, counsel for Hamilton Hyndman of Philadelphia, have declared that they will seek to show that the will of Mrs. Lizzie Hyndman of New York City, which is now being contested, was never signed by her. They will maintain that both the signature and the date of the signature are forgeries.

One half of Mrs. Hyndman's estate, they will urge, should go to their client and the other half to a granddaughter of the dead woman. They also say that instead of receiving a large portion of the estate Dr. Samuel N. Hyndman of New York City, her husband, should inherit but a small dower share. It is contended by them that Mrs. Hyndman left no will whatever, and that this one was forged after her death.

Dr. Hyndman will come here to attend the trial. He will endeavor to prove that the will was drawn and executed by Mrs. Hyndman before she died.

WOUNDS ON BODY IN RIVER.

Probable Victim of Murder Apparently Had Been in Water Two Months.

The body of Salvatore Orlando, a young barber, was found in the Harlem River yesterday near 133d Street, and was picked up by a police launch and carried to the Harlem Morgue. The body had been in the water apparently for two months, and in the head were two bullet wounds. The police believe that the man was murdered, and the Italian Bureau at Headquarters has started an investigation.

The man was identified by a letter from his parents in Italy which was found in his pocket. J. Nicolosi, a barber of 1,675 Lexington Avenue, said he had received Orlando's mail for him, but had not seen him since Christmas time. Orlando had come from Italy about to years ago, Nicolosi said, and had paid a visit to the old country last year. Since his return he had seen little of him.

NINE CENTS A DAY TO LIVE.

Editor Who Made His Home in His Office Burned to Death.

CLAREMONT, N. H., April 14.—Samuel Henry Story, editor of The Narrative, a weekly publication, met a tragic death today. While apparently asleep on a sofa in his apartment fire from an overheated stove communicated to the furniture and burned him to a crisp.

Story lived alone in his newspaper office, and, according to his own statement, lived on 9 cents a day. He was one of the oldest publishers in the State, having been born in 1833.

COUNCIL STANDS FIRM AGAINST CZAR'S WILL

Despite Arguments by Stolypin, Interpellation on Zemstvo Bill Is Maintained.

ALMOST TWO-THIRDS VOTE

Premier Held That Monarch Is Sole Judge of Circumstances Justifying Arbitrary Decree.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 14.—The Council of the Empire to-day heard Premier Stolypin's explanations with regard to the interpellation attacking the Government which the council adopted in solemn session April 6, following a discussion devoted to criticism of the Government's action in promulgating the Zemstvo bill by imperial prerogative during an artificially created recess of the council and the Duma.

Keen interest was displayed in the diplomatic and the Grand Ducal boxes as the Prime Minister, in a forty-minute speech, denied the right of the legislative bodies to examine into the nature of the extraordinary circumstances which were the motive of the issuance of legislation by imperial prerogative in accordance with Paragraph 87 of the fundamental laws of the empire.

The determination of such circumstances, M. Stolypin declared, was subject to the sole competence of the monarch based on the representations of the Cabinet. The Government contends that extraordinary circumstances may precede dissolution or adjournment of the two legislative chambers, which is an indisputable prerogative of the Crown, the Premier continued, and the Government maintains that the interpretation placed on Paragraph 87 of the fundamental laws by the Council of the Empire is wrong and inacceptable.

Returning to the circumstances obliging the Government to resort to Paragraph 87 when imperial legislative measures were threatened, M. Stolypin said that the rejection of the Zemstvo bill by the Council of the Empire meant the wrecking of the Russian national policy.

After Premier Stolypin had concluded his speech an order of the day, declaring that the thesis of the interpellation had not been shaken by the Prime Minister's explanations, was passed by a vote of 99 to 53. The vote just failed of a two-thirds majority, which would have imposed submission of the matter to his Majesty.

Count Olsufieff, in closing the debate, which was lacking in dramatic features, declared that it was useless to enact laws if the Ministers played cards with them.

Pugilists Prefer Jail to Fine.

When given their choice of paying a fine of $25 each or going to jail for thirty days five pugilists found guilty in the Court of Special Sessions, Brooklyn, yesterday, decided to save their money. They were Samuel Cook, John Schiro, Joseph Doyle, Frank Neal, and Frank McFadden, who were arrested last February in the Brighton Beach Athletic Club, Coney Island. Their lawyer will apply to the Supreme Court to-day for writs of habeas corpus.

Suicide from Homesickness.

Bessie Saughman, who came from Ireland six years ago, and until a month ago was a chambermaid in the Savoy Hotel, was found dying yesterday by her sister, Mrs. Mary Baxter of 2,472 Marion Avenue, the Bronx, with whom she had lived since leaving the hotel. The girl had swallowed lysol and died in a few minutes. It is supposed that homesickness for the old country caused her suicide.

Ex-Senator Young Goes Home.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Lafayette Young, former Senator from Iowa, left Washington to-day for his home in Des Moines. The services of Mr. Young as Senator ended when the Iowa Legislature elected W. S. Kenyon on Wednesday. So long as Mr. Kenyon remains in the service of the Department of Justice Iowa will have only one representative in the Senate.

EFFICIENCY IN NAVY PRAISED BY EXPERTS

Unequaled by Any Industrial Plant, Say Business Engineers Who Inspected Atlantic Fleet.

MARVEL AT MARKSMENSHIP

Longer Range and Quicker Shots Than in Spanish War, Yet the Hits Are Ten Times Greater.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The four experts in scientific management engaged by the Navy Department to study the business methods of the navy yards and report on possible methods of improvement, have recently expressed in personal letters to officers of the navy the profound impression made upon them by the efficiency of the navy as manifested in the battle practice of the Atlantic fleet.

While their investigation has nothing to do with the efficiency of the fleets as fighting machines, Secretary Meyer thought it a good idea to let the investigators see the Atlantic Fleet in operation so that they could judge of the navy as a fighting organization before reporting on the business part of it alone. They accompanied the Secretary on the Mayflower and watched the operations of the fleet at close range.

The experts are Frederick W. Taylor, Henry L. Gantt, Charles P. Day, and Harrington Emerson. They are still at work, going from one navy yard to another, in their preliminary investigation. Their report is not yet ready, and is not expected for some time. But their personal opinion of the navy, after seeing the Atlantic Fleet in operation, is that nowhere in the world, so far as efficiency is concerned, have they seen "either in an industrial plant or any other operation anything that begins to equal the navy."

They were particularly impressed with the close division of labor arrived at in handling the big guns. Thirty men are needed to aim and fire the largest rifles, and these have the work divided into listed movements reduced to terms of fifths of a second. The experts found that the speed of the big gun fire had been multiplied by four since the Spanish war, while the accuracy of fire had increased almost beyond calculation.

In that war one shot in four minutes was the record, while as against the 120 hits out of the 9,000 shots fired at the Spaniards at the battle of Santiago, targets at greater distance than the battle range were hit nearly every time. The experts figured the thing out to a point where they reached the conclusion that at a range of four times as great, with guns fired four times as fast, the mark was hit ten times as often.

In the routine operation of coaling—always an important point with the heavy battleships—the investigators found the same sort of improvement had been made. Thirty tons an hour was the old record for coaling a ship, but this has lately worked up to 500 tons an hour. In many minor matters has the fighting or steaming radius of the ships been increased. Improved methods of self-repair and greater economies in fuel and space have added greatly to the efficiency of the fleets.

TELEPHONES FOR RANGERS.

Adopted as an Aid to Fighting Forest Fires.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Rangers in the National forests will be supplied with portable telephone sets with a special flexible wire which can be easily and quickly run along the ground to isolated places in the forests. The telephones will be of use in summoning help to prevent a repetition of the disastrous conflagrations in the Northwest of last August.

The adoption of these telephones is the result of experiments made since last Summer with sets similar to those used by the Signal Corps.

Prevention of large fires has been furthered since last year through lengthening trails and extending permanent telephone lines. When the fire season arrives an extra force of rangers will protect the isolated parts of the forests, laying their telephone lines along the ground as they go. Metal boxes containing fire fighting implements, together with a supply of food, have also been distributed along the many trails where they will be easy of access.

CHANCES FOR DIRECT VOTE.

Senate Expected to Pass the Resolution in Some Form.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The resolution submitting to the States the Constitutional amendment in favor of the popular election of Senators will reach the Senate at its next sitting on Monday and be at once referred to the Committee on the Judiciary. The resolution is in the form reported from the committee at the last session, and as the changes in the committee's personnel brought about by the retirement of Senators Depew, Warner, and Piles can serve only to strengthen the resolution's chances, it is safe to assert that it will be reported out in short order.

Mr. Brown, a Nebraska insurgent, will have a place on the committee, and as he is one of the fathers of the resolution on the floor of the Senate, it will have his full support in committee. There is now little doubt that the resolution in some form will pass the Senate and be submitted to the States. It failed of the needed two-thirds vote in the last Senate by a margin of only four, and ten of the opponents of the measure have left the Senate. Practically all of the new Senators are committed to the general proposal indorsed by the resolution.

Representative James T. McDermott of Illinois, the only Democrat recorded as voting against the amendment providing for popular election of United States Senators in the House yesterday, changed his vote to-day.

"I did not mean to vote 'No,'" said Mr. McDermott. "I see that I am so recorded. If I answered 'No' when my name was called, it was a mistake. I am not opposed to the amendment, and want to be recorded as voting 'Aye.'"

BOSTON, April 14.—Direct election of United States Senators found favor in the lower branch of the Massachusetts Legislature to-day. A resolution favoring the calling of a Constitutional Convention for the framing of an amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for such election passed the House by a vote of 166 to 33.

AMBASSADOR CUTS NAME.

Economical Both in Ink and Time, Says Mexico's Representative.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Custom among Spanish-speaking peoples has dictated that surnames be composed of the family names of both father and mother, but the inconvenience of being addressed by one's mother's name, which is written last, has led the new Mexican Ambassador to drop the final name of his signature. He will be known hereafter as Manuel de Zamacona instead of Manuel de Zamacona y Inclan.

"When I was National Treasurer in Mexico some years ago," said the Ambassador to-day, "I found it economical both in ink and time, when signing bonds, to use merely my father's name. Americans are so apt to consider the last part of a Spanish name as the surname proper that I think I shall dispense with it."

ASKS TAFT ABOUT JAPANESE.

Raker of California Demands Facts Relating to Immigration.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Representative Raker of California to-day introduced a resolution calling on the President for all correspondence in his possession of the Secretaries of State and War relating to Japanese immigration to the United States and its possessions.

The resolution also asks the President to inform Congress what is being done by the Executive department of the Government to restrict the further immigration of Japanese coolie labor. It also provides that the President shall notify Congress as to what he knows of Japanese immigration into Canada and Mexico, and thence into the United States.

Hawaii, Guam, and the Philippines are mentioned in the resolution as the possessions in regard to which specific information on this question is desired. The President's correspondence with California and San Francisco authorities during the past five years is specifically called for.

MAY CURTAIL LEAVE TO PRINT

Representative Would Rightly Label Undelivered Speeches in Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Democrats in the House are considering the advisability of curtailing the time honored "leave to print", or "leave to extend remarks in The Record" when the speeches or extensions have not actually been delivered.

Representative Sherley of Kentucky has introduced a bill which he said to-day he will urge, with the support of a number of Representatives on both sides of the Chamber, requiring that where a member inserts a speech in The Record without delivering it on the floor, that fact shall be stated in plain black face type. Only speeches actually delivered will be printed without this notice.

TREASURY HONORS HEROES.

Official Thanks for a Sailor, Who Nursed a Comrade Through Smallpox.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Two heroes were rewarded by the Treasury Department to-day. Joseph M. Monks of 120 Madison Street, New York, rescued a little girl from drowning off Pier A, in the North River, last December. A silver medal of honor has been given to him.

Seaman William Seymour of the revenue cutter Algonquin volunteered to nurse a shipmate who had smallpox, while the Algonquin was sailing to Porto Rico a few days ago. The law provides no reward for such gallantry as this. Assistant Secretary Bailey has written a letter commending him highly.

The medal awarded to Monks is the second that he has received for the same rescue, the Volunteer Life Saving Association having sent him one last Tuesday. Five-year-old John Hreaha of 349 Furman Street, Brooklyn, was the youngster he saved. The little lad fell from the pier on Dec. 18. Monks heard the shouts of the crowd and dived into the cold water after the child, whom he rescued.

Misses' Dresses, Suits, Coats.
$15 to $25 Values, at $9.98.

WHY SHOULD YOU BE ABLE TO BUY for $9.98 a Suit just like one that somebody else buys for $25?

In this case the answer is that the Suits were samples—that, although there are numerous styles, there are but one or two Suits of a style. Same with the Dresses and the Coats.

There are about a hundred altogether, including one piece Dresses of challis, silk eoliennes, serges and choice woolens. There are tailored two piece Suits of handsome spring fabrics and the coats lined with peau de cygne. There are a few spring coats of cloth.

Not one would be less than $15 if bought in full size ranges, and many would be $25. All to-day at $9.98 apiece. None C. O. D., credited or on approval.

GIRLS' NEW SATIN COATS AT $7.98.

The vogue for satin finds no prettier expression than in these charming new Coats of black satin with loose back, and with large sailor collar and revers of moire silk or black satin. They are fastened with three large fancy gilt buttons and fully lined with mercerized sateen. Sizes 6 to 14 years.

Second Floor, Elm Place.

Balance of Wm. Thomson's Books.

TO-DAY WE SHALL OFFER THE BALANCE OF the Books remaining from our purchase of the William Thomson stock, and to anyone interested in buying Books the opportunity presents a most unusual chance.

Concerned are Books of poetry, history, biography, novels, Nature Books and a number of first editions and rare Books.

10c., 15c., 25c., 35c. and Higher Prices.

We cannot give list of titles because for the most part there are but limited quantities of each, and the range is too broad.

You will be sure to find something in the lot to interest you and the chance to secure it at a very little price.

Main Floor.

For Men Who Wear Soft Shirts.
$1.50 to $3.50 Shirts, $1.15.

THESE COME FROM THREE of the best makers—surpluses and samples of spring Shirts that we bought for a fraction of what we usually pay.

Of the finest mercerized fabrics, plain and striped. Also of silk and linen and of silk. Made with neckband or with attached soft collar. All with the soft cuffs. Two-thirds of these are $2.50 and $3.50 Shirts. Sizes 14 to 17.

Main Floor, Elm Place.

These Remarkable $4 Parasols at $2.98.
A Bit of Special Easter Good Luck.

SOME OF THE VERY PRETTIEST PARASOLS we have seen anywhere at $4 have just come into our hands, by reason of a maker's desire for ready cash, at a figure that enables us to let you have them at a little less than three-fourths of their value.

Very pretty colors, pale blue, red, reseda, green, Dresden, Persian, natural Shantung, etc. Some have Persian borders, others have insertions of Persian; some are tucked, others are severely plain. All have brass frames, and the handles are especially choice, carved, etched, slip handles for the hand, severe mission styles, etc.

Remarkable values at $2.98; wonderfully good for Easter gifts.

Main Floor, Bond Street.

Easter Sale of Silk Petticoats.
$5 to $10 Values, $3.50.

SUCH A SALE AT ANY TIME will be extraordinary. Such a Sale at Easter time is altogether beyond precedent.

We have 145 of these handsome taffeta silk Petticoats in the most charming spring colorings and black. There are many models—indeed, the fact that there are so few alike was one reason for our purchase so far below the market.

Most are with deep flounces and silk underlay. Some with shirring, others with space tucking and others with plaiting on the ruffle. Altogether just the right Petticoats for now and later and amazingly little priced at $3.50 apiece.

Second Floor. None C. O. D. and No Mail or Telephone Orders.

CANAL IMPROVEMENT BONDS BRING 104.30

Sale of $10,000,000 Issue of 4 Per Cent. Gold Bonds Proves State Credit Is High.

OVERSUBSCRIPTION IS HEAVY

Aggregate Offers from 115 Bidders Amount to $115,000,000—Ten and a Half Times More Than Is Needed.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 14.—By far the most successful bond sale by the State of New York was conducted to-day by State Controller Sohmer. It was for $10,000,000 4 per cent Canal Improvement gold bonds, tax exempt, and the price realized was better than 104.30. There were 115 bidders, whose aggregate bids amounted to $115,000,000, thus oversubscribing the issue ten and a half times. The sale attracted a number of bidders from without the State, which shows the high credit in which the bonds of New York State are held.

The bonds were then awarded.

The committee appointed by the Barge Canal Terminal Conference to draft a bill carrying out the recommendations of the Terminal Commission will meet in New York next Wednesday to perfect the terminal bill for introduction in the Legislature. The measure will provide for a bond issue of $18,600,000, and if it passes the Legislature it must be submitted to the voters for ratification.

SAVINGS BANK INVESTMENTS.

They May Loan Funds on the Pledge of First Mortgage Railroad Bonds.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 14.—Attorney General Carmody has advised the State Banking Department that savings banks Trustees may loan the available funds of a saving banks, or any part thereof, upon the pledge of first mortgage bonds of railroads prescribed in the banking law.

The amount loaned, however, must not exceed 90 per cent. of the cash market value of the first mortgage pledged.

INVESTIGATE NAVAL SOCIETY.

Congressman Wants Inquiry Into Peculiar Social System at Annapolis.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—An investigation into social life at the Naval Academy has been set on foot at the request of Congressman Korbly of Indiana. He asked the Secretary of the Navy to inquire into "that peculiar social system at the Academy that makes unwelcome at a social function an estimable and talented girl who happens to be earning her own living."

This refers to the alleged snubbing of Miss Mary H. Beers, daughter of Prof. Beers of Yale, at a hop. The matter was referred to Supt. Bowyer of the Academy, who reported on the facts. This report was forwarded to Lieut. Tarrant, of whose household Miss Beers was an inmate, and who is now on the Michigan, for a statement as to the status of the young woman in his family. Lieut. Tarrant's reply has not yet reached the department.

WOULD ABOLISH NEGRO VOTES

Georgia Representative Wants Fourteenth Amendment Repealed.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—A bill has been introduced in the House here to-day by Representative Hardwick of Georgia providing for the repeal of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

The measure seeks to prevent Congress from limiting the representation of the Southern States because of disfranchisement of the negro, which curtails the voting population of the States.

RECIPROCITY DEBATE

Expected to Take Three Days—Underwood Commends Taft.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Canadian Reciprocity bill was formally laid before the House just before adjournment to-day, and after general debate it will be passed.

While no time was fixed for general debate, a motion was adopted dividing whatever time is consumed between Mr. Underwood, who reported the bill, and Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania, the Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee who will lead the opposition to the measure.

Mr. Underwood announced on the floor that he would yield five hours of his own time to Representative McCall of Massachusetts, author of the reciprocity measure which passed the House last session, and of which the pending Democratic measure is a counterpart. Mr. Underwood will partition the time he controls among Democratic friends of the Canadian agreement, and Mr. McCall will apportion his five hours among the Republican friends of the measure. Mr. Dalzell's portion will be used by opponents of the reciprocal agreement in both parties. It is expected that the debate will last about three days.

In the report of the Ways and Means Committee recommending the passage of the bill Chairman Underwood said:

"There has been no delay or suggestion of delay on the part of the President in connection with this legislation pending the collection of statistical data by the Tariff Board. On the contrary, the President has urged immediate and favorable action by Congress, naming reasons fully in accord with long-established Democratic principles."

HASTEN PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

House Committee Considers How They May Be Constructed More Quickly.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds to-day decided to hasten if possible the construction of public buildings, once the money for them has been appropriated by Congress. Under the present system it takes from three to four years to reach a building after the appropriation has been authorized.

The committee also decided to make a comprehensive investigation of the facilities now provided in the Federal public buildings for protection against fire, for the safety of records, and for the comfort and safety of employes. This was agreed upon at the instance of Chairman Sheppard, whose resolution was prompted by the recent destructive fires in the State Capitol at Albany and in an office building in New York, which were both supposedly fireproof.

Julius Kayser & Co. Makers New York, N.Y.

No, Madam, No

Quite a number of women are beginning to ask how we prepare our spaghetti.

Requests for the recipe will come to us by the thousands unless we take steps to prevent it.

So we make this announcement.

The recipe is secret. It has never been written down.

Our chefs spent two years in working out this harmony of taste. The result is an asset of our concern.

We'll cook the dish for you and supply it for less than it would cost you to make it. You get it ready to serve by simply heating or baking.

But we can't tell the proportions of the 17 ingredients which produce this perfect blend.

The main materials are:
Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same superlative tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork & Beans.

The result is spaghetti, Italian style, better than Italy ever knew.

It is so delicious, so conspicuously perfect, that every woman guest will ask you how you made it.

Please don't wait. Try this new dish while it's new. Ask your grocer for it.

CHARGES FOOD TRUST IN JEWISH QUARTERS

Small Grocers Forced to Hold Up Prices or Face Intimidation, Declares Lawyer.

AFFIDAVITS FROM VICTIMS

Dealers Tell of Threats Made by Harlem Hebrew Retail Grocers' Association—District Attorney Has Case.

The District Attorney's office is investigating an alleged food trust which, it is charged in complaints made to Assistant District Attorney George A. Lavelle, controls about 800 small retail grocers in Harlem, the lower east side, part of the Bronx, and Brownsville in Brooklyn. No action has been taken by the District Attorney's office, and Mr. Lavelle declined last night to discuss the case.

It is known, however, that several affidavits have been submitted to Mr. Lavelle charging that the Harlem Hebrew Retail Grocers' Association is a combination in restraint of trade; that it has throttled competition by fines and intimidation, and has exercised a boycott to force recalcitrant members to do its bidding in the matter of maintaining a fixed standard of prices.

The attention of the District Attorney's office was called to the alleged trust by Bernard H. Sandler, a lawyer who has spent more than five weeks in gathering evidence in support of his assertions and in preparing it in affidavit form for submission to Mr. Lavelle. In his possession now, it is said, are several checks drawn to the order of an officer of the association and bearing his indorsement. These, Mr. Sandler alleges, were given by members of the association in payment of fines, and he declares also that at the present time there is more than $1,000 in the treasury of the organization for use in establishing rival stores where it may be deemed necessary to discipline a member to the extent of retiring him from business. Several grocers have suffered such a penalty, says Mr. Sandler, for their refusal to abide by the edicts of the organization in the matter of prices.

In his affidavit, now in Mr. Lavelle's hands, Mr. Sandler declares that he was retained in February of this year by Harry Eisenberg, a wholesale butter, egg, and milk dealer, and Max Korner, an ex-member of the Harlem Hebrew Retail Grocers' Association. He commenced the investigation then which led to his appeal to the District Attorney three weeks ago, since when Mr. Lavelle has directed the inquiry.

An affidavit by Max Korner is among the papers supplied to Mr. Lavelle by Mr. Sandler. In it the grocer asserts that he joined the association in March, 1910, and on the 19th of last March was called to a meeting of the association at 225 East 104th Street.

"The President, J. Brill, said that a charge had been made against me that I was selling foodstuffs for less than the prices fixed by the association," continues Korner's affidavit. "I informed Brill that I could not sell the goods according to the association prices, as I had opened up a corner cash store, and that I was buying my goods for cash in big quantities, was getting liberal discounts, and could therefore afford to sell cheaper and make better prices.

"The officers informed me then and there that unless I took down the prices I had posted up in my window, offering goods for sale at prices lower than the schedule of the association, they would supply my neighboring grocers with funds sufficient to undersell me and put me out of business. I told them to go ahead and try it; that whoever was stronger would win out. I was notified that I was expelled from the association."

After telling of a visit by Vice President Cohen of the association, when his price lists were removed from his windows against his protest and he was cautioned not to put them up again, Korner in his affidavit continues:

> The next day after the visit of the said Cohen, the driver of Meyer Herbst, the baker, who supplied me with bread, informed me that in the future he could not deliver any more bread to me, as he had obtained orders from his employer that the Harlem Hebrew Retail Grocers' Association demanded that no bread be supplied to me, and that I could not get any more.
>
> I went to Herbst to his place of business, and asked him why he did not supply me with bread, and he informed me that he had been visited by the officers of the Harlem Hebrew Retail Grocers' Association, and also by the Bakers' Union, and warned that if he persisted in supplying me with bread all the members of the said association would stop taking his bread, and that the Bakers' Union would call a strike of his employes.
>
> I then asked Harry, a driver in the employ of Abraham Mischler, a baker of 305 East 102d Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, whether I could not obtain bread from him. He informed me that he could not supply me with bread; that he was being watched, and that his employer had been notified that I was not to obtain bread from his concern. During this period I had obtained my daily supply of rolls from Solomon Baer, a driver for Henry Hughes, a baker of Thompson Avenue, Long Island City, and he informed me that in future he could not supply me with any more rolls because Berstein and J. Brill of the Harlem Hebrew Retail Grocers' Association had informed him that all the members of the said association would stop buying rolls of the said Hughes unless he discontinued my daily supply.
> My customers left me, my business has fallen off considerably, and I am facing ruin, owing to my inability to obtain bread and rolls for my customers to enable me to carry on my business.

Meyer Goldstein, manager of the Lieberman Dairy Company, 234 East 117th Street, supports Korner's testimony to the extent of admitting that to prevent all his trade being taken from him he was compelled to submit to an order of the association forbidding him to supply Korner with milk.

Harry Eisenberg, whose place of business is at 240 East 111th Street, tells in an affidavit how he had been approached with the demand that he pay $75 to the association and how, on his refusal, his bread supply had been cut off. He obtained some, however, and says:

> It was on a Wednesday morning after I had received my supply of bread at 3:30 o'clock. I sat at my window, and looking out saw about ten men collect in front of my store. I waked up my son, Mike Eisenberg, and I went downstairs to the store. When I reached the store there was no one to be seen. The bread I and my son carried into the store and placed it in the show window.
>
> At that time the milkman brought my milk and set it down on the sidewalk, and I took it into the store. I feared that some one would overturn the can. As I sat there with my son a man approached and announced himself as a delegate of the Harlem Hebrew Retail Grocers' Association, also representing the Bakers' Union, and demanded to know whose bread I had in my window. I ordered him away. He set up a cry of distress. Suddenly twenty or thirty men rushed toward my store. I feared they would do me bodily harm, and procured my revolver and warned them not to enter my store and cried for assistance, calling my oldest son Morris to my assistance. Many people stuck their heads out of the windows. A man approached me and asked me to join the association. Fearing to create a riot and not wanting to discharge my revolver, I told him I would.

In summing up his discoveries, Mr. Sandler, in his affidavit, declares that the association has levied tribute on various wholesalers, stating:

"An instance of this is a circular calling a special meeting of the association for Wednesday, March 29, 1911, which circular is in my possession, and which sets forth that a certain firm of bakers has made a substantial donation to the association, and therefore all members of the association should patronize the firm."

Mr. Sandler adds:

"It was with great difficulty that the affidavits herein were obtained because the signers of the affidavits have expressed themselves in constant fear of personal violence from the officers of the association who, when calling on an offending grocer, are usually accompanied by a great number of rough-looking men who intimidate and threaten the grocers."

Assistant District Attorney Lavelle declined last night to tell what his own investigation has revealed or how soon some action would be taken by his office.

REGRETS SELLING BUSINESS.

Buyers Were to Pay for It Out of the Profits, Which Have Been Large.

Edward Ermold, living in the Belnord apartments, in Broadway and Eighty-sixth Street, has begun an action to oust Hans Kaltenhouser of Jersey City and Fritz Beeker of Long Island City from possession of a bottle labeling plant at 652 and 664 Hudson Street, Manhattan, and the defendants in their answer tell how the business was turned over to them by Mr. Ermold and under their management is now bringing in $200,000 a year. For many years Kaltenhouser had been business manager and Becker foreman in the machine department.

Mr. Ermold wanted to retire, and as a result of his conference with his two employes he entered into an agreement to sell them the business for $250,000. This was in 1907. It was agreed that they should pay for the business out of their profits, and in the following September they entered into possession of the property, which has since become unusually profitable.

Up to March 18 of this year they say they had paid in interest to Mr. Ermold $30,150 and $60,000 on the principal, and they allege, without any cause, Mr. Ermold caused them to be ousted and has since brought an action to set aside his contract with them on the ground that it was executed without consideration, that it is unconscionable, and is null and void. In the meantime his son-in-law, Watson A. Guthrie, is in possession of the plant. Kaltenhouser and Becker have retained Attorney Eugene N. L. Young of Long Island City, who in his answer sets forth that the agreement in which Mr. Ermold turned over the property to the defendants was drawn by his own attorney, former Judge John P. Schuchmann. The defendants demand a specific performance of the contract and ask that the courts appoint a receiver. In event of a failure to enforce specific performance they ask for $250,000 damages.

MAY ARREST MORE BLACK HAND SLEUTHS

Post Office Inspectors Confer All Day Over the Perkins Detective Agency.

PERSECUTION, SAY ACCUSED

They Declare Their Rivals in Business Have Charged Them Falsely—Officials Will Not Discuss the Case.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., April 14.—"I bet $1,000 I'll make them change their tune," said Post Office Inspector George V. Craighead to-day in answer to the declarations of innocence made by Gilbert B. Perkins, head of the Perkins Detective Agency, who with his son, Walter, was arrested yesterday in Indianapolis by Government agents. They are charged with having instigated the sending of Black Hand letters to Charles H. Strong, a wealthy business man of Erie, in the hope of getting $50,000 from him. These letters, it is alleged, referred to the sensational story that the mausoleum of William L. Scott, the railroad President, in Erie, was entered and robbed of its bodies last February. The Government officials declare confidently that they have the "goods" on the Perkins, and more arrests are expected at any time.

"In a few days there will be sufficient light to clear up the situation considerably," United States District Attorney John H. Jordan declared to-day.

Although this was a legal holiday, Mr. Jordan was in constant consultation with a force of Post Office Inspectors, and it is said indictments in the Perkins case are being prepared. The District Attorney was in communication with Washington to-day by telephone. The charges against the detectives may be presented to the Federal Grand Jury, which will begin its sittings in Pittsburg in the first week in May.

Gilbert B. Perkins arrived at his office, in the Fitzsimmons Building, Fourth Avenue, this afternoon from Indianapolis. He stoutly denied knowing what all the trouble was about.

"I never wrote an anonymous letter in my life," he said. "It will be found that the Government agents have proceeded on information received from rival detective agencies. This is persecution, that is all."

Harry H. Perkins, manager of the Pittsburg Agency, has recently been discussed as a successor to Supt. Thomas McQuaide of the Pittsburg police and detectives.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—According to Indianapolis dispatches received here, the real purpose of the Perkinses was to obtain from Strong a commission to locate and arrest the writer of the Black Hand letters demanding $5,000 from Mr. Strong.

The Government is attempting to keep the arrest of Franklin a secret. When the detective was asked about it, he refused to confirm or deny his arrest, and referred inquirers to the Federal authorities.

The arrest of Perkins and his son Walter was brought about by Post Office Inspector E. E. Hutchins of Urbana, Ohio, according to a reliable informant here. When the Inspector arrived here he was requested to work with the Perkins detectives, but is said to have premptorily refused to do so. The case has been in Hutchins's hands for some time.

It is also said here to-night that at the suggestion of Perkins, Mrs. Strong's fears as to the safety of her grandchild, Thora Strong Ronalds, were aroused, and a private detective was engaged to guard her. Shortly after this man had been appointed the Perkins men were dismissed by Mr. Strong.

TELL HOW GANGS OPERATE.

Those Who Have Suffered from Bands of Hoodlums Before Grand Jury.

The special Grand Jury which is investigating the so-called crime wave, examined about a dozen witnesses, mostly policemen, yesterday. The members took special interest in stories told about the operations of the "car barn gang" in Harlem last Summer. Several policemen were up on charges at Police Headquarters for clubbing members of this gang, and the Grand Jury members wanted to know just how far it was necessary for the policemen to use clubs.

Capt. Corcoran of the East 104th Street Station, in whose district the gang operated, testified how his men were worried by the gang's operations and threats against the policemen sent out to round them up. Patrick Hogan, a patrolman of the East Eighty-eighth Street Station, exhibited several ugly scars to show how he had fared. Albert Matthews, representing Arthur Weisbecker, a grocery dealer and butcher of 263 West 129th Street, reported that Mr. Weisbecker had suffered greatly from the activities of another gang which stole wagons. He told how five wagons belonging to the firm had been stolen, and how one was recovered in Astoria and the horse in Connecticut.

Charles F. Guyon, a lawyer of 100 William Street, testified to the operations of still another gang which assaulted and robbed persons in the neighborhood of Forty-ninth Street and Sixth Avenue. Thomas P. Burke, Dr. Wenner, and J. W. P. Jones, representing the West Side Taxpayers' Association, told the Grand Jury that the police were not efficient in suppressing disorder and crime in their neighborhood. Mrs. Rose Murphy of 19½ Cherry Street told how she had been beaten and robbed by a gang of hoodlums, who invaded her store on Thursday.

First Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss, who is conducting the inquiry, said that the jury would probably take up on Monday the case of Inspector John J. O'Brien, under suspension for allowing Coney Island to remain "wide open" last Summer.

BOOKING OFFICES LOSE.

Can't Enjoin Mayor from Acting Under Employment Bureau Law.

Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday filed an order denying the application of the United Booking Offices of America that Mayor William J. Gaynor and Herman Robinson, Commissioner of Licenses, be restrained from proceeding with any action or entertaining any complaint against the Booking Office for violation of the State Employment Bureau laws, pending the final determination of a suit in the Federal Courts to test the constitutionality of the law.

This application was made through the attorneys of the United Booking Offices, a combination of vaudeville managers, some weeks ago. In it the association asserted that the nature of their business demanded a certain freedom in the amount of commission they might charge for placing vaudeville acts, and that it did not conduct an employment bureau in the sense of the law.

SPEER STILL IN SENATE RACE.

Denver Mayor Confident He Will Be Elected—Assails Patterson.

DENVER, Col., April 14.—Mayor Speer of Denver to-day wrote a letter to each of the twenty-eight members of the Legislature who have been supporting his candidacy, thanking them for their support and asking its continuance, as he said he was more than ever confident of election "in spite of the campaign of villification" that had been directed against him.

In his letter the Mayor bitterly denounces ex-Senator Patterson.

Anti-Speer Democrats again switched to-day in the vote for United States Senator, casting their ballots for ex-Gov. Alva Adams. Republicans voted for F. O. Roof. No election resulted.

The vote: Democrats—Adams, 31; Speer, 27; Maupin, 1; Ward, 2; Martin, 1. Republicans—Roof, 32. Necessary for choice, 51.

CAUGHT BY FINGER PRINTS.

Marks Left by a Safe Robber Lead to the Arrest of a Negro Employe.

After examining the finger prints of 250 employes and comparing them with marks found on a safe which had been looted, detectives yesterday arrested Joseph Roberts, a negro porter, of 2,154 Fifth Avenue. The safe looted was in the office of Abraham Steinhardt & Brothers, manufacturers of novelties and belts, at 512 Broadway.

The safe was robbed between 6 o'clock and midnight Wednesday. When the first employes arrived yesterday they found that the safe had been broken into, and Inspector Russell was notified, and an investigation was started.

The safe had been opened by the combination, which afterward had been broken off. The inner cash drawer was smashed, and from it $683 and a gold watch and chain had been taken. The drawer used by the cashier in an adjoining room had been broken open, but there was no money in this.

Concluding that the burglary was an "inside" job, Inspector Russell sent Lieut. Faurot to investigate. The Lieutenant found three finger imprints, one on the safe cash drawer and the other two on the combination.

Faurot then took finger prints of the employes, and after working nearly all night comparing the imprints of the employes and those found on the safe, he found that those of the porter agreed in detail with those on the safe.

When every employe except the porter appeared for work yesterday detectives arrested him. The negro denied knowledge of the crime, but was taken to Police Headquarters. When searched no money was found in his possession or in his room.

EXPENSIVE INDIAN STUDY.

E. S. Curtis Tells Lotos Club of Gathering $1,500,000 Worth of Information.

Edward S. Curtis, once an active member of the Lotos Club, lectured before that club last night on the North American Indian. When he told of the Hopis' nine-day snake dance, in which he participated with a blue racer wound four times around his neck, and showed pictures of the dance on a screen, the realism of the picture visibly impressed his hearers.

Mr. Curtis explained that he was in the fourteenth year of a twenty-two-year contract to gather first hand information about the Indians of America, Alaska and the frozen North. His research when completed will have cost $1,500,000, and his information will be contained in twenty volumes of text, one hundred volumes of field notes and pictures, and 10,000 lantern slides and phonograph records depicting the life and songs of the aboriginal tribes. All of the original notes, he said, would be given over to one of the great libraries of the country.

Apache mythology was the main topic of the lecture. Mr. Curtis said that the Kuterastan, Chugannai Skhin and Stenatlihan, representing in Biblical history, God, Adam and Eve, preceded all other forms of religion known. "The Indian religion," he said, "antedates all mythology and theology of the ancient ages."

COSTS $11,690 TO PAY $115.

Commissioners' Fees from City for Figuring Subway Damages Approved.

It will cost the city $11,690 in Commissioners' fees to pay out $115 for damages to light, air, and easements on the Van Cortlandt Park extension of the Broadway arm of the Subway.

Supreme Court Justice Blanchard approved the bills of the Commissioners yesterday. They were: William George Foster, $2,870; James W. Hyde, $5,110, and William W. McLaughlin, $3,710. The Commissioners' report fixing damages at $115 was filed a week ago Thursday.

Gets $20,000 for Lost Leg and Toes.

Susan B. Coyle, whose left leg and several toes on her right foot were amputated as a result of being run over by a trolley car at First Avenue and Eighty-first Street on Dec. 2 last, won yesterday from a Supreme Court jury a twenty-thousand-dollar verdict against George W. Linch, receiver of the Second Avenue Railroad Company. Mrs. Coyle, who is still confined to Flower Hospital, was brought to court on a stretcher to testify.

TO REPAIR PRINZESS IRENE.

Liner Rescued from the Bar Goes To-day to Newport News to be Drydocked.

The North German Lloyd liner Prinzess Irene will leave her pier in Hoboken at 7:30 A. M. to-day for Newport News, where repairs will be made to her rudder and stern frame, which were damaged during the eighty-three hours she spent on the bar off Fire Island. The tugs John W. Timmins and John Nichols will tow her to Sandy Hook, whence she will steam slowly toward Newport News, where she will be met by two tugs to-morrow morning.

As her rudder is out of commission two wrecking tugs will escort the liner on her trip, one acting as a rudder astern and the other towing ahead to steady her. An examination yesterday by divers showed there would be no risk of damage to the hull by allowing the Prinzess Irene to use her propellers.

Capt. F. von Letten-Peterssen is still in command of the vessel, and will take her to Europe on her next sailing for the Mediterranean on May 27.

TO SELL MRS. HILL'S COAT.

She Served Three Days in Tombs for Smuggling It In.

United States Marshal Henkel, acting for the customs authorities, will sell on April 28 in the Federal Building the $6,000 Russian sable coat, which Mrs. Roberta Menges-Corwin-Hill smuggled into this country in January. Two gold rings, which the young woman brought in at the same time, will also be sold. Mrs. Hill served three days in the Tombs and paid a fine for her attempt to evade duty.

On Tuesday the Marshal will sell the three diamond rings and an opal and diamond pin, which William Rind, first officer of the American liner St. Paul, smuggled in. Rind is serving a year's imprisonment for his offense.

On the same day will be sold a collection of ten rings, five settings for rings, and twenty-four packages of unset stones seized on board the White Star liner Cedric.

BROOKLYN ADVERTISEMENTS. BROOKLYN ADVERTISEMENTS. BROOKLYN ADVERTISEMENTS. BROOKLYN ADVERTISEMENTS.

A Demand for Good Faith.

There were interesting transit developments yesterday, thanks to disclosures made by the President of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. Two weeks ago that corporation took the bull by the horns, supplementing its offer of extensions in Brooklyn, Manhattan and Queens by including the Tri-borough subway in its proposal. It complied with a request to keep this offer secret for the time being, but since then conditions have arisen that prompt publicity. Hence the statement by the President, Colonel T. S. Williams.

It holds nothing in reserve. It is a clear, straightforward presentation of what the corporation for which he speaks is prepared to do. And it is in marked contrast with the fashion in which the Interborough purports to deal with the city. Never has there been furnished the least reason for supposing that the Interborough will do anything of its own volition. From the beginning its preferences have all been in the direction of "standing pat." Every concession, so called, it has made has been the result of pressure.

There is a difference between the display of a spirit such as this and the attitude of the Rapid Transit Company. It was somewhat tardy in entering the field, but when it made its appearance, it created the impression of sincerity. Soon came rumors to the effect that competition was more seeming than real—that it was acting in concert with the Interborough, but conclusive proof to the contrary has been forthcoming. Nothing is surer than that the Interborough, for the best of reasons, would like to see it retire from the field altogether.

The conditions precipitating disclosure are significent. What is said in conference is, of course, a matter of record, plus what is done. But the subway situation has always had an "atmosphere," sometimes comparatively rarefied; at others thick enough. Usually, there has been more than sufficient warrant for the supposition that the situation was controlled by the Interborough, that what were called the "interests" dominated, but with a new administration came a new hypothesis.

To be frank about it, this "atmosphere" has not disappeared. To be still franker, the Mayor is said to be partial to the Interborough. He is credited, justly or otherwise, with a preference. Statements to this effect are not made vociferously, but they persist and they do not appear to be altogether unsupported by events. Then there are "indications." To the Rapid Transit Company they seem to justify the apprehension that it is being used merely to force the hand of the Interborough, or as a club to assist the city in its negotiations with that company. So, Colonel Williams concluded that secrecy might have disadvantages as well as compensations.

As to one phase of the rapid transit case, there are no differences of opinion. There is a strong prejudice against strengthening the grip of a monopoly. For that prejudice the Interborough is almost wholly responsible. Longer platforms, side doors and other innovations have come upon nothing short of compulsion. The company has created a sort of clamor for competition, and, even if other things were somewhat unequal, the public would welcome it. For that the Interborough has itself to blame.

Nor are there any differences of opinion as to another phase of the case. There is no necessity for comparing the two offers. Colonel Williams tells no more than the truth when he says that no objections have been raised to his proposition as a transportation plan. And he is not demanding too much when he insists that it be dealt with upon its merits, rather than as a means to coerce a corporation now in possession of part of the field. This, he delcares, would be a breach of good faith and a marked disregard of the interests of Brooklyn.

The latter point cannot be too strongly emphasized. From all sections of Brooklyn have come unqualified indorsements of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit offer. And it may be added that the Broadway route, in Manhattan, is especially attractive to residents of this borough. According to accounts, the Interborough has intimated that it will stop negotiations should any other corporation be permitted to invade that territory. Assuming this to be true, it is characteristic of the Interborough attitude, a synonym for which is arrogance.

Brooklyn can ask for nothing better than has been proposed, but there is far more than that to be said. As far as is practicable the offer consults the interests of all other localities of the city. All the delay was worth while to have such a proposition forthcoming, and so was all the discussion. It is so far ahead of any projected solution of the rapid transit problem that other plans may be dismissed as negligible quantities. And too sanguine by much more than half are those who suppose that, even considered as a mere club, it will provoke anything better from the Interborough. That is not among the possiblities.

Upon the merits of the case, pure and simple, let the matter be determined. With anything less than that the public will not be satisfied. And with anything short of it Brooklyn will have fault to find in terms sufficiently unequivocal to be clearly understood. It now has an opportunity to "come into its own." It has had more than enough of "atmosphere," and a plethora of partiality. As to the insistence that good faith shall characterize the course pursued officially, well, it seconds the motion.

O'REILLY RELEASED UNDER $5,000 BAIL

Counsel Sure His Innocence Will Be Made Clear After He's Seen Grand Jury Minutes.

MORE ARRESTS EXPECTED

Lawyer's Alleged Connection with the Bancroft Robbery Set Forth by a Police Official.

Daniel O'Reilly, the lawyer who was indicted by the Grand Jury on Thursday on a charge of receiving stolen goods in connection with the robbery of $87,000 in securities from Aaron Bancroft in a corridor of the Produce Exchange on March 6, was arrested yesterday morning a few minutes after he had surrendered himself to Assistant District Attorney Emory R. Buckner at the Criminal Courts Building.

O'Reilly was taken before Judge Rosalsky and released under $5,000 bail, the bond being signed by George Considine, proprietor of the Metropole Hotel in West Forty-third Street. The hotel property, in which Mr. Considine said he had an equity of $175,000, was put up as security. Next Wednesday was the time fixed by Judge Rosalsky for pleading to the indictment.

Abraham Levy of 61 Park Row, with whom Mr. O'Reilly has been associated in several famous murder cases, appeared for him. Mr. Levy said he had advised his client not to talk about the case, and no statement would be made until he had had time to examine the Grand Jury minutes. When that time comes he intimated that Mr. O'Reilly would be able to explain fully his connection with the Bancroft case.

"I cannot say too emphatically that Mr. O'Reilly is absolutely innocent of any criminal action," said Mr. Levy. "He has made no statement of his case to anybody, and none will be made until we have had an opportunity to examine the Grand Jury minutes. When Mr. O'Reilly was informed last night that he had been indicted by the Grand Jury he had an excellent opportunity to escape if he wanted to. Instead of doing this he remained at home, got up practically from a sickbed this morning, and came to my house."

Immediately after Mr. O'Reilly was released Inspector Russell of the Detective Bureau had a long conference with Assistant District Attorney Buckner. Later the Inspector said that he expected to arrest Charles Ross, also known as Charles Murphy; Chester C. Yates, known as "Cy" Yates, alias George Wright, and a former employe of Mr. Bancroft's office, all of whom have been indicted. The Inspector refused to reveal the identity of the former Bancroft employe, but he shed some light upon the records of Yates and Ross.

Ross, he said, was arrested last September for stealing $79 worth of fountain pens from Arthur R. Wornworth of 2,792 Broadway and sentenced to the penitentiary by Judge Malone, where he served one year.

Yates was sent to Sing Sing for four years and nine months last November by Justice Dowling for stealing $6,100 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Carmen C. Campbell, a widow, of 3,704 Hartford Street, St. Louis, who was stopping at the Hotel Cumberland in this city. He was paroled from Sing Sing on Aug. 4, 1910, and he and Ross rented rooms from Frank Plass, who is in the Tombs under indictment in the Bancroft robbery, in West 145th Street. According to Plass, when Yates was released from Sing Sing he promised to turn over a new leaf. He kept to his promise a few weeks, but one day, according to Plass, he said he had an opportunity to "turn another trick" and get enough money on which to live comfortably. Ross, Plass said, agreed to go in with Yates. The "trick" was the Bancroft robbery.

Inspector Russell said yesterday that he was sure to get both Ross and Yates within a short time. A general alarm has been sent throughout the country for them. Lawyer O'Reilly's alleged connection with the robbery was explained by a police official yesterday as follows:

On March 16 or 17 O'Reilly called up George Dougherty, Superintendent of the Pinkerton Detective Agency, and said that he wanted to open negotiations for the return of the Bancroft securities. O'Reilly was referred to William L. Sullivan, attorney for Mr. Bancroft, at 35 Nassau Street. He called up Mr. Sullivan and told him that he could turn over the bonds, and asked to be retained as counsel with a $50 retainer.

This offer was refused by Sullivan, and O'Reilly then told him, it is charged, that the securities could be returned for $6,000. O'Reilly, according to the police official, called up Sullivan the next day and was informed that $5,000 would be paid for the return of the securities. This, with a retaining fee, it is said, was accepted by O'Reilly, and the two met at the Astor House, where Sullivan was introduced to a man named "Francis," who later turned out to be Plass.

The three got into a taxicab and Sullivan said to O'Reilly, according to the police official: "Mr. O'Reilly, you are a member of the bar, and I will put myself in your charge." To this O'Reilly is said to have replied: "You will be perfectly safe."

Plass then, it is said, handed a package to Mr. Sullivan, and Mr. Sullivan handed Plass $5,000. When he examined the securities in the envelope Mr. Sullivan is said to have found $22,000 in bonds of a smelting company missing. When he mentioned it to O'Reilly the latter is alleged to have replied: "On my word as a lawyer you will get all of the stuff."

According to Inspector Russell Plass was formerly a bartender, and lately has been an itinerant jeweler.

LEMON PROBLEM FOR CURTIS.

Treasury Official Studies Question of Inspection of Cargoes Here.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury J. S. Curtis spent yesterday in discussing with Collector Loeb, Surveyor Henry, and Francis W. Bird, the new Appraiser, administration problems at this port. Late in the day he returned to Washington, accompanied by Mr. Bird.

One of the questions Mr. Curtis has taken up is the allowance for rot in assessing the duties upon imported lemons. It had been the intention of Mr. Curtis to inspect a lemon cargo, but none was being handled here yesterday. He will return to New York next week when an importation of lemons arrives.

The California lemon growers want the Government to inspect entire cargoes of lemons rather than 10 per cent., which is the rule at present. It is on the basis of the 10 per cent. examination that the allowance for rot in assessing duty is arrived at. The California growers demand the examination of all crates in a cargo. The importers declare that the unpacking of boxes injures the lemons, and boxes so broken into have to be sold at a discount. The duty on lemons is 1½ cents a pound.

Another matter which engages Mr. Curtis's attention is the automatic scales. Twenty of them have been ordered for this port. Nine are now in operation and two are ready for delivery. Only one of the working scales, however, has been accepted, and that after exhaustive tests. Mr. Curtis has been in Boston, where the scales are being installed, and he wants to see something of the actual working of them at this port.

Mr. Curtis was asked whether he had advised the new Appraiser to be guided by Collector Loeb.

"In Washington, from the President down, we are all willing to be guided by tips from the Collector," he replied with a smile.

ARGENTINA ADMIRAL HERE.

Will Oversee the Building of Two Dreadnoughts for His Country.

Among the passengers arriving yesterday on the Cunard liner Lusitania were Rear Admiral Onofre Betbeber, former Minister of Marine of Argentina, who has been abroad supervising the construction of a number of torpedo boats, four in Germany, four in France, and four in England.

In the course of his duty he has visited many shipyards in Europe, and he has come to look after the building of two 26,000-ton Dreadnoughts being constructed in this country. One of the Argentine warships is being built in the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company at Quincy, Mass., and the other by the New York Shipbuilding Company of Camden, N. J. He will remain in this country about eighteen months.

"With the completion of the craft now under way Argentina will have a fleet sufficient to protect her interests," he said. "We are not hurrying the work with any idea that there is to be war. We want the fleet in the interests of peace."

The Admiral was accompanied by his wife and children, Isabel, 7 years old, and Manuel, 6; Carlos, the youngest, and Marco and Jorge, twins.

MAYOR TO JOIN IN QUEENS GRAFT HUNT

Finds No Justification for Ruling of Justice Maddox and May Ask for Special Trial Judge.

FOSDICK COMPLAINS TO HIM

Commissioner Had Handwriting of Phillips, Which Court Rejected as Evidence, Acquitting the Prisoner.

Mayor Gaynor intimated yesterday in a letter to Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick that he will ask Gov. Dix to designate a special Supreme Court Justice to hear the graft cases in Queens County. The matter was brought to the Mayor's attention a few days ago by Commissioner Fosdick after Justice Maddox, sitting in Queens, refused to admit certain evidence taken by the Commissioner in one of the graft cases. This is what the Mayor wrote to the Commissioner:

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR.

April 14, 1911.

Sir: Your favor of April 12 is at hand. I do not wonder that you feel discouraged when your work is frustrated by a judicial ruling such as you describe. I do not know a single justification for it, nor have I been able to get a suggestion of one from any competent person. If the witness had claimed his constitutional privilege before you that he could not be compelled to incriminate himself, you would have stopped there, as the law requires. But he made no claim of privilege whatever. That being so, everything he said and did before you was competent evidence against him on his trial under the indictment. Please look at the case of The People against Cahill in Volume 126 of the Appellate Division reports, and Volume 193 of the New York State reports.

I shall take under consideration the suggestion that I ask the Governor to convoke an extraordinary term of the Supreme Court in Queens County, with a presiding Justice to be designated by him, to try the large number of indictments for official misconduct still pending there. Very truly yours,

W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Raymond B. Fosdick, Esq., Commissioner of Accounts.

Commissioner Fosdick's letter to the Mayor read:

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF ACCOUNTS.

April 12, 1911.

Hon. William J. Gaynor, Mayor.

Sir: On May 27, 1910, I reported to your Honor a matter which had been discovered in connection with our examination of the Borough of Queens. It appeared from the records that in 1909 a city warrant for $422.80 had been made out in favor of one William H. Allen, a plumber, for services in connection with certain repairs in the Queens County Jail. Allen testified before me under oath that he had never received the warrant; that the indorsement was a forgery, and that the bills attached to the voucher were false. He further testified that he had made certain repairs at the Queens County Jail at the request of the then Under Sheriff, John M. Phillips, for which Phillips had paid him $85. The address given on the billheads to which the warrant had been mailed was 449 Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, the headquarters of the John M. Phillips Association. The bill appeared to be made out in the handwriting of Phillips.

On May 27, 1910, I subpoenaed Phillips as a witness. During the course of his examination the following testimony was given:

Q.—I will ask you to write your name, please. (Witness does as requested.)

Q.—Now write the words, "Office, 449 Jackson Avenue, Long Island City". (Witness does as requested.)

Q.—Now, will you write the words, "William H. Allen"?

A.—No, I will not.

Commissioner Fosdick—You can refuse to do it, but you will put yourself in a bad position. (Witness writes as requested.)

Handwriting of witness was put in evidence and marked "Exhibit 7, May 27, 1910. A. C. W."

At no time during the examination did Phillips claim his constitutional privilege to refuse to answer on the ground of incrimination.

As a result of our investigation of this case the Grand Jury of Queens County on Nov. 22, 1910, returned two indictments against Phillips, one for grand larceny and one for forgery. The case on the first count came to trial on Monday, April 10, 1911. On that day I appeared as a witness for the District Attorney to identify the handwriting of Phillips, which had been obtained as above stated.

It was the purpose of the District Attorney to use this handwriting as a standard, it being the only handwriting of Phillips that could be secured. The learned Justice presiding, the Hon. Samuel T. Maddox, after a personal examination, refused to admit my evidence on the ground that I had failed to notify Phillips that his testimony given before me would be used against him. In spite of the fact that the proceedings instituted by the Commissioner of Accounts are not criminal proceedings, he ruled that the constitutional rights of Phillips had been violated, and that the handwriting in question had been obtained under duress. He further stated that the Commissioner of Accounts might as well have asked Phillips to put his hand in his pocket and hand over his valuables. As no other handwriting of Mr. Phillips could be obtained, the People were obliged to rest their case, and the court directed a verdict of acquittal for the defendant.

I deem it my duty to report this matter to your Honor, because it illustrates in a striking way the difficulties of this office in making its investigations effective. As a result of our examination in Queens County last Spring ninety-six indictments were returned by the Grand Jury. But two convictions by a jury have as yet been secured. Many of the indictments have been dismissed by the courts. It is probable that not more than two or three men at the most will suffer any serious inconvenience as a result of the Grand Jury's work. Respectfully,

RAYMOND B. FOSDICK,
Commissioner of Accounts.

It will be remembered that the Mayor has testified in the Queens cases in behalf of Borough President Gresser. There would doubtless be much objection to taking the prosecutions out of the hands of the regular judges of the borough.

Father O'Conor's Silver Jubilee.

The Rev. James Francis Xavier O'Conor of the Society of Jesus, President of the Brooklyn College, will celebrate the silver jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood on Sunday, April 23, at St. Ignatius's Church, Nostrand Avenue, Brooklyn. Father O'Conor was born in New York in 1852.

CONTESTS COUSIN'S WILL.

Miss Crawford, Only Kin of Adelia Benjamin, Was Cut Off.

Adelia A. Crawford started a contest yesterday of the will of her cousin, Adelia Eliza Benjamin of 69 West 130th Street, who died on March 20, leaving a will which disposed of $25,000 realty and $12,000 personalty, and which failed to mention Miss Crawford, her only kin. The will gave $1,000 to the Rev. Walter E. Bentley of 129 Kent Street, Greenpoint; $500 to Dorothy Dunning of Los Angeles, $500 to Mrs. Georgianna Kelso of 76 West 131st Street, $3,000 to Mrs. Alice Mason of Brooklyn, and left residue interests of $16,000 each to Laura A. Calvert of 69 West 130th Street, and to Dr. Duncan A. Doble of 545 West 111th Street, who was named executor of the will.

Undue influence and all the other statutory objections which may be urged by the contestant of a will are pleaded by Miss Crawford.

GIANTS WILL PLAY ON HILLTOP TO-DAY

Accept Offer to Use American League Park Until Fire Damage at Polo Grounds Is Repaired.

Coroners Issue Warning Against Wooden Stands—Steel One Not Likely to be Built on Present Grounds.

The playing schedule of the New York National League team will not be interrupted by the burning of the stands at the Polo Grounds early Friday morning, because yesterday the Directors of the New York National League Club decided to take advantage of the offer of President Frank J. Farrell of the New York American League Club to use American League Park while the Yankees are playing away from home. Brooklyn will play on the hilltop to-day, the game beginning at 3:30 o'clock.

To bring this arrangement about it was necessary to get a two-thirds vote of the National League Presidents, and President Thomas J. Lynch of the National League obtained this vote by wire. All the Presidents sent condolences over the misfortune to the Giants, and readily consented to have the National League teams play on the grounds of the American League, which presents a new situation in major league baseball.

Early yesterday President Charles H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn team, which is playing in Boston, wired President Brush offering Washington Park to the Giants for their games. Mr. Ebbets's telegram was:

> Words fail me to adequately express my feelings for your great loss. I am confident you will rise, Phoenixlike, above it all. It goes without saying that Washington Park is at your disposal.

As the Brooklyn series begins with the Giants to-day, the National League decided that it would be fairer to each team to play the games on neutral grounds. If the Giants did accept the Brooklyn offer, they could play there only until April 20, because on that date the Superbas open the season with Boston. Boston plays the Giants in New York on April 25, when Brooklyn opens with Philadelphia in Brooklyn. Beginning on April 29, the New York team plays at Brooklyn and after that goes to Boston for a series, returning here, to play Chicago, St. Louis, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, and Philadelphia, going on the first Western trip on June 1.

The New York team will play at American League Park until further notice, as none of its games conflict with the schedule of the New York Americans at the same park. President Frank Farrell was in Atlantic City when he heard of the destruction of the stands at the Polo Grounds, and he dispatched Secretary Thomas Davis to this city with the offer to use his ball park.

Loss May Reach $250,000.

The total damage resulting from the fire may reach $250,000, according to conservative estimates of fire adjusters. The grand stand was completely destroyed, but the open stands were saved. The Interborough Railway Company, whose repair shops and elevated terminal abutted the north end of the grounds, suffered about one-third of the loss.

Harry M. Stevens, the caterer at the Polo Grounds, was a heavy loser. He had just put in his stock for the season, and his storeroom was completely wiped out by the fire. His loss is estimated at $25,000.

Another serious loss, at least to the ball players was the stock of bats. Ball players are superstitious about the bats they use. Over 100 bats, belonging to all members of the team, were burned, and not a single stick was left. It was a sad lot of players who journeyed to a sporting goods house yesterday, and spent several hours looking for new bats. Many of the players lost bats which they have used for years.

No Rebuilding Plans Made.

The Directors of the New York Club held a long conference yesterday, but it was announced that nothing had been decided about rebuilding. One of the officials said it was not likely that steel and concrete stands would be erected, because the lease which the club has on the property from the Coogan estate has only a few years to run, and the city contemplates building streets through the property.

President John T. Brush did not take part in the meeting, for he is ill, and the loss of the baseball plant which he has taken so long to build up and in which he took a great deal of pride, was a hard blow to him.

Secretary Gray said that the club officials had been so busy arranging for the transfer of the games to American League Park that little thought had been given to rebuilding. It is believed that if the club could obtain another good site a substantial baseball plant would be erected on it.

Superintendent of Buildings Miller said yesterday that if the fire had occurred during a game there probably would have been loss of life. The Board of Coroners went further and last night gave out a statement not only making it known that they consider it very fortunate that the fire occurred when there were no persons in the stands, but in which they called the attention of the Building Department to the danger of rebuilding the frame structures.

"To make our protest still stronger," one of the statements reads, "we issue a warning to the owners of the grounds and also to the officials of the New York Baseball Club that in case the stands are rebuilt of anything but fireproof material and there is another fire, this one resulting in the loss of life, we are going to hold these owners and the New York baseball officials without bail. We, the Coroners, say that the public must be protected."

Supt. Miller said a reconstruction of the wooden stands was permissible. The Building Code says the construction of stands, sheds, or buildings for fairs and amusement places, whether temporary or permanent, is left to the discretion of the Superintendent.

Many theories as to the cause of the fire were offered yesterday. John F. Higgins, a retired fire Captain, who is custodian of the grounds, declared that an incendiary was responsible for the blaze.

"I don't like to say that any one deliberately set fire to the Polo Grounds," he said to Deputy Fire Marshal McGregory, "but there is no other explanation.

"There isn't a drop of oil or gasoline or any other inflammable material on the ground. The oil for the watchmen's lanterns is stored far from the scene of the fire and could not possibly have caused the blaze. Nor is it possible that a smoldering blaze could have started in the daytime. Twenty-eight watchmen were going the rounds all day just to watch for such fires, and none of them saw an inkling of smoke."

Deputy McGregory went over every inch of the fire-swept area and subpoenaed five of the employes to appear before Fire Marshal Beers this morning at Fire Headquarters.

"My investigation tells me, however," he said, "that the fire was not of an incendiary nature. In the first place, the fire started far from the high fence which surrounds the grounds. It could not have been started by any incendiary hand or by a fagot of fire pitched over the high fence. In the second place, the barbed wire above the fence would have made it impossible for any one to get into the grounds, even at night. It is my opinion that a smoldering fire among the peanut shells and other débris, fanned by the brisk southeasterly wind, was responsible for the fire."

All day the crowds continued coming to see the ruins, and it required several platoons of reserves to hold them in check. No one was permitted to go above 155th Street or into the grounds without a pass. A dense smoke hovered over the ruins until the rain put out the last trace of fire.

While working on the north side of the grand stand three firemen attached to Engine Company 8 were caught in a cave-in of charred lumber and were rescued by three men of their company. They were John Powers, John Harrison, and Frank Krantz. They had fallen a distance of twenty feet and suffered bruises and slight burns.

Other Baseball Park Fires.

Conflagrations at baseball parks in the past have been numerous. Until recent years steel and concrete stands were unheard of.

The worst year for grand stand fires in the history of the game was in 1894, when four National League plants were burned out. These fires occurred in Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, and Chicago. At that time the Chicago and Philadelphia fires were believed to be of incendiary origin.

The wooden grand stands in Boston caught fire on May 14, 1894, in the third inning of a game. The blaze started in a pile of rubbish under the middle of the stand and spread rapidly. The stands were completely destroyed and the fire spread to the adjacent buildings, until 164 of them were in ashes. The fire loss was estimated at over $1,000,000, and the loss to the Boston Club was $75,000.

On Aug. 5 of the same year the Chicago stands caught fire in the sixth inning of a game with Cincinnati. The blaze started in the fifty-cent seats, and in the stampede that followed forty persons were injured. In front of the stands were rows of barbed wire, and when the cry of "Fire!" went up the people in the front rows were driven into the wire and several were badly hurt. The loss to the Chicago Club was $20,000.

In the same year, on Aug. 6, in Philadelphia, a plumber's stove set fire to the stands at the National League Park one morning while the ball team was practicing on the field. The stands were empty. The entire establishment was wiped out, the loss being $80,000.

At St. Louis, in 1908, the grand stands at Sportsman's Park caught fire in the second inning of a game with Chicago. A wild rush for the exits followed, and several persons were hurt in the jam. The plant was destroyed. In 1909 the baseball park of the Toronto team, on Hanlan's Island, was completely destroyed by fire, while the team was away from home.

Only a few weeks ago the stands at the Washington baseball park were burned, nothing remaining after the conflagration except some of the bleacher seats. The Washington management acted quickly, and a record in construction was made by erecting a steel and concrete stand in eighteen days.

FLED FROM ASYLUM; BACK SANE AND RICH

FRIEND BRINGS HIM HOME

Former Brooklyn Man Finds $27,730 Awaiting Him Here—Returns to New Virginia Home.

Ralph A. Clarke, a clothier in Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, five years ago, who was then declared insane by the courts and put in an asylum but escaped, returned to Brooklyn yesterday a wealthy man to be declared sane by the Supreme Court and receive another fortune, which had been held in trust for him in his absence. For most of this time Clarke had lived in Virginia, where in the City of Richmond he was known as B. R. Benton.

Clarke's story of how he built up his health, principally through hard out-door work, and amassed a fortune while his relatives in this city and the courts regarded him as insane, interested Justice Blackmar, before whom the proceedings to have him declared sane and restore him his fortune were brought.

Upon the application of Mrs. Adelaide Johnson of Canada, his sister, and Walter S. Clarke, his brother, Justice Dickey found Clarke insane in June, 1906, and committed him to the Amityville Asylum. Mrs. Johnson was made the committee of Clarke's person and estate, which was converted into cash, amounting to $25,000, and put in trust with the Hamilton Trust Company. Interest increased it to $27,730.

Clarke was moved about from one institution to another, and in the Fall of 1906 was removed to the Knowles Sanitarium, 200th Street and Broadway, Manhattan. He escaped through a window on the night of Sept. 20. All the money he had in his possession was a nickel, and this enabled him to reach Third Avenue and Fourteenth Street by a car he boarded at Spuyten Duyvil. He pawned his watch for $15, and hid in a cheap lodging house for four days. Then he left town.

His cash enabled him to reach Perryville, Md. Afraid of being detected if he obtained work in the clothing trade, he looked to another field for employment. A contractor who was building a bridge gave him work, for which he got $2.50 a day. He mingled with the other laborers and lived their life. Up to his knees in mud and water he worked long hours every day until he was seized with rheumatism. He quit for a short time and then went back at the same job. It was this severe life that produced a physical change in him which the doctors say practically restored him to a sound mental condition.

Clarke gave up the bridge-building work after a few months and went to Richmond, where he was employed in a shoe factory. His first week's wages was $5. This was later increased to $11 a day. His fellow-workmen never suspected, he said, that he was anything else but sane. He often thought of going back home to claim his estate, but he was afraid to make the venture, as he feared that a prison term awaited him for his escape from the asylum.

While at the shoe factory he devised a new germicide and induced a number of wealthy men to organize a company to manufacture it. He was put in charge of the factory, which was installed at 124 to 130 Virginia Street, Richmond. All this time he was known as B. R. Benton. His business prospered, and in the course of time he got married and determined to live in his adopted city. He practically made up his mind never to reclaim his old name or his fortune.

Mr. Clarke often met former friends from Brooklyn who came to Richmond on business or pleasure trips, but he refused to recognize any of them. He was questioned many a time by some of them, but to all he insisted that he was B. R. Benton, or that he might be the double of Ralph A. Clarke of Brooklyn. One close friend, Rolland J. Symmes, was more persistent than the others. He was convinced that Benton and Clarke were one person. Clarke finally admitted his identity to Symmes, and the latter quickly returned to Brooklyn to inform Clarke's relatives what he had discovered.

The family became interested, and through the efforts of Bernard J. York, Clarke was induced to come as far north as Philadelphia, where he was examined by experts and declared sane. After much persuasion, Mr. Clarke was finally induced to come to New York to be declared sane legally. This he did a few days ago and in Mr. York's office in Manhattan met his mother and brother and sister for the first time in nearly five years.

After the papers were signed yesterday removing his sister as the committee of his person and estate, Mr. Clarke of Brooklyn, also Mr. Benton of Richmond, went back to Virginia to his home and business.

HIT CONTROLLER'S PLUMS.

City Civil Service Board Put 100 of His Clerks on Their List.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission has adopted resolutions putting nearly 100 places in the Department of Finance, heretofore filled by the Controller, in the competitive class. Nearly half are cashiers and auditors. The Controller will oppose their being taken out of his jurisdiction on the ground that they are confidential places and that in view of the heavy bond which he is under he must be allowed to fill them.

The action of the Municipal Commission must be approved by the Mayor and the State Civil Service Commission before it becomes effective. The Mayor declined to state his position, but it is doubted about City Hall that the Democratic State Civil Service Commission will agree to the giving up of this patronage, despite the fact that the present Controller is a Republican.

NORTHERN BANK DIVIDEND.

Depositors Will Receive Checks for 50 Per Cent. Next Week.

Several thousand residents of upper Manhattan and the Bronx who have had their savings tied up in the Northern Bank since Dec. 28 will receive checks for 50 per cent. of their deposits next week. It will be the first dividend declared by the State Banking Department, which is acting as receiver. Eventually the Northern Bank's depositors are likely to be paid in full. Assets of more than $7,000,000 have been revealed, and the bank's liabilities amount only to about $6,150,000.

The order for the first dividend was granted yesterday by Justice Blanchard. The corridors of the County Court House were crowded in the morning with Northern Bank depositors. Many of them are tradesmen who have been put to great expense in getting loans to tide them over until their deposits are released.

Justice Blanchard decided to send all disputed claims to Ernest Hall, as referee, and then granted the motion to pay depositors 50 cents on the dollar.

No action has as yet been taken by the Creditors' Committee of the Carnegie Trust Company on the two offers received by Banking Superintendent Cheney to take over the Carnegie's assets. It was said yesterday that the offer of the syndicate of bankers to take over the Carnegie's assets is so contingent upon certain duties to be performed by the State Banking Department that nothing may come of the proposition. One of the conditions is that the State Banking Department collect the loan of $200,000 from George L. Dyer of 42 Broadway, and the loan of $400,000 from the Carnegie Safe Deposit Company, as well as several other loans which the Banking Department is having difficulty collecting. Then, too, the plan is that the large depositors in the Carnegie agree to accept certificates of participation which will run two years, subject to renewal at the expiration of that time provided all the slow assets have not been realized on.

Gov. Wilson to Speak at Dinner.

The Free Synagogue, of which the Rev. Stephen S. Wise is at the head, will hold its fourth anniversary dinner in the Hotel Astor on Monday evening, April 24. Among the speakers will be Gov. Wilson, whose subject will be "Politics and Morals"; Senator Borah of Idaho, "The Future of American Institutions"; Judge Julian W. Mack of the United States Court of Commerce, "The American Jew." Isaac N. Seligman, Abram I. Elkus, and Drs. Hall and Holmes will speak on the question of immigration.

DR. FRANCIS BROWN'S FAITH.

His View on the Bible Questioned as Well as Prof. W. Adams Brown's.

PITTSBURG, April 14.—It developed to-day that the Rev. Dr. Francis Brown, President of the Union Theological Seminary, New York, also is named in the overture introduced last Tuesday before the Pittsburg Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church against Prof. William Adams Brown of the same institution, asking for an investigation of certain alleged statements on theology.

The overture was brought before the Pittsburg Presbytery by the Rev. Dr. M. L. McEwan, a prominent minister of this city. The Pittsburger objects to views held by the New York ministers on the Bible and miracles.

The Rev. Dr. Francis Brown, President of the Union Theological Seminary, said last night that he was not familiar with the objections to his teachings or statements on the Bible and miracles raised by the Rev. Dr. M. L. McEwan of Pittsburg before the Pittsburg Presbytery. Until he is acquainted with them formally, he added, he would prefer to make no public statement.

SHOT BY A MINE BOSS.

Fatal Ending of a Quarrel Between Americans and Foreigners in Kansas.

PITTSBURG, Kan., April 14.—In a fight between Americans and foreigners in West Mineral, a mining camp southwest of here, to-day, James Raffio, a Syrian, was fatally shot by Jerry Hagar, a boss in a mine. The fight started from a trivial quarrel. Raffio and three of his countrymen, it is said, angered Hagar.

Following the shooting Hagar surrendered to the authorities.

Accuracy of Gas Meters Improving.

The number of gas meters in use in Manhattan and the Bronx during March was 807,152. One hundred and seventy-six meters were the subject of complaint by consumers and tested by the Public Service Commission. Ninety-three of the 176 were correct, 35 were 2 per cent. or more slow, 47 were 2 per cent. or more fast. One meter did not register.

ZUCCA IS ACQUITTED.

Jury Finds ex-Coroner Not Guilty of Customs Frauds.

A verdict of not guilty was returned yesterday before Judge Hand in the United States Circuit Court by the jury which has been hearing the evidence in the second trial of ex-Coroner Antonio Zucca for defrauding the United States in connection with the importation of cheese. The jury was out for an hour.

When the verdict was returned a crowd of Zucca's friends started a demonstration of cheers and handclapping, which Judge Hand quickly suppressed. The jury disagreed on the first trial.

Favors United Art Building.

The National Sculpture Society has unanimously adopted a resolution favoring the plan put forward by the National Academy of Design for a United Art Building. The idea is that all the art organizations of the city should unite in an effort to obtain one building for the use of all. It would contain adequate exhibition galleries and offices for the different societies. The site has been selected, but the National Sculpture Society is inclined to one just north of the Grand Central Station in Park Avenue, which was suggested by the New York Central authorities some time ago.

TO SHOW ARMY CHARGERS.

West Point Officers Make Entry for the Brooklyn Horse Show This Month.

The class for officers' chargers at the Brooklyn Horse Show, April 25 to 28, has interested the army officers stationed at West Point, and they have decided to make several entries. They will show their horses, not only in the event for chargers, but also in the saddle and jumping classes. It is expected that at least twelve horses will be entered and ridden by officers. The horses will be transported from West Point just before the show opens and be quartered at the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club stables. The entertainment being planned for the visiting officers includes a dinner at the Montauk Club, Brooklyn, to be given by William N. Dykman, President of the Riding and Driving Club, Friday night, April 28.

While it is not definitely decided, the class for officers' chargers will probably be judged the last evening of the show, Friday, April 28. The class specifies that horses are to be ridden by members of any branch of the army or militia in full-dress uniform, without side arms; style of saddle optional. Capt. Guy V. Henry, U. S. A., will judge the chargers.

THE TRANSIT QUESTION

From the Brooklyn Citizen, April 14, 1911.

So far as the proposals of the Interborough and Brooklyn companies are concerned, it looks to an outsider as if the Commissioner who cannot distinguish between them must be blinder than the proverbial bat. They cross at one or two points, but in the main they do not in the least resemble each other. There is no conceivable grant to the Interborough company that would meet the wants of Brooklyn, nor is there any Brooklyn want that would not be met by an acceptance of the Brooklyn company's offer. The Interborough proposal has obvious merits from a New York point of view, and from that point it deserves the most business-like treatment, but it is the merest folly to pretend that if it were accepted the case of Brooklyn would be disposed of. There must, we do not hesitate to say, be a nigger in the fence to account for all such attempts to mix up propositions that are so manifestly wide apart. It should have been made clear before this time by the two boards that, whatever may be done for the Interborough company in New York and the Bronx, nothing less comprehensive than the offer of the Brooklyn company deserves consideration on this side of the river.

HARVARD ATHLETES FLOCK TO THE SOUTH

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 14.—There was a general exodus of Harvard athletes from Cambridge to-day, when a party of seventy-five, including sixty-five candidates for the baseball, lacrosse, and track teams, and ten trainers and managers, started South for Spring practice during the Easter college recess. The athletes will go direct to Baltimore, where the track team will train for a week, and where the baseball and lacrosse teams have games to-morrow, before going to Annapolis for competitions with the navy teams. The baseball party comprised twenty-nine players, the athletic association allowing Coach Sexton to take the largest squad that ever has gone South from Harvard. Potter, the veteran second baseman, is really the only man whose place on the team is determined, and as the material is all very green and untried, the coach advocated taking all of it along. The nine will play its first game against a college team to-morrow on the Johns Hopkins grounds in Baltimore, and after one day's practice at Annapolis will play the navy nine next Tuesday. The remainder of the week will be spent at Annapolis, but there will be no other games.

The work that the track team will do in Baltimore next week will be in preparation for the dual track meet, with the Middies on the Navy's field Saturday, April 22. Yesterday's class games did not show a great deal of promising material, and the trainer anticipates much trouble for Harvard to win. Only two men have been taken for each event.

The lacrosse team has the biggest schedule of all the teams while away from home. The first game will be played against Johns Hopkins to-morrow and Monday the team will meet the Mount Washington twelve just outside the city. Tuesday will be spent at Annapolis, where there is a game with the Navy Wednesday, after which the players will go to New York to prepare for a match against Stevens Institute, which will be played at Hoboken, N. J., April 22. While all these men are away athletic activity will not stop at Cambridge. The track men not taken South will work out under Trainer Quinn, and will hold a set of games late in the week.

The association football team, which now has only to play Cornell, and hopes to win the championship because of victories over Columbia, Yale, and Pennsylvania, with a defeat by Haverford, will work for this final match. There will be something of a let-up for the oarsmen, however.

Harvard's Spring football practice ended to-day. In three weeks Coach Haughton had a chance to look over much of his material for the Fall, and in the scrimmages this week he worked out several new attacking formations that will be developed when the men get out in September. So many 'Varsity football men were engaging in other sports this Spring, that the football practice did not amount to as much as the coach had hoped, and expected it would.

Arrangements have been made for the Harvard and Yale dual track meet which will be held at New Haven May 13. Capt. Kilpatrick of the Yale team was in Boston yesterday, settling matters with Capt. Foster of Harvard.

FOWNES' IN GOLF MATCH.

Oakmont Men Opponents in Semi-Final To-day at Pinehurst.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 14.—Victories in the first and second rounds of the third annual mid-April golf tournament to-day bring Henry C. Fownes of Oakmont and W. C. Fownes, Jr., the National amateur champion, together in to-morrow morning's semi-final. In the bracket below them are W. L. Milliken of Indianapolis and P. S. MacLaughlin of Wykagyl. Other features of the day's keen play were a twenty-two-hole battle between J. V. Hurd of Pittsburg and J. E. Kellogg of Alpine, which the Pennsylvanian won, only to lose his afternoon match. Summary of play in the first division:

President's Cup.—First Round—W. C. Fownes, Jr., Oakmont, beat L. D. Pierce, Brae Burn, 8 and 6; A. H. Finlay, Dyker Meadow, beat W. L. Hurd, Oakmont, by default; S. A. Hennessee, Cooperstown, beat F. B. Wing, Boston, by default; H. C. Fownes, Oakmont, beat R. F. Kellon, Mount Tom, 6 and 4; W. L. Milliken, Indianapolis, beat E. A. Guthrie, New York, 1 up; J. V. Hurd, Pittsburg, beat J. E. Kellogg, Alpine, 1 up, (22 holes;) P. L. Lightbourne, St. George, beat N. S. Hurd, Oakmont, 2 and 1; P. S. MacLaughlin, Wykagyl, beat E. A. Schmidt, Beaconsfield, 6 and 4.

Second Round—W. C. Fownes, Jr., beat Findlay by default; H. C. Fownes beat Hennessee, 5 and 4; Milliken beat Hurd, 5 and 4; MacLoughlin beat Lightbourne, 2 up.

Evans Sends Golf Entry to Prestwick.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Charles (Chick) Evans, Western open golf champion, will compete in the British Amateur Championship at Prestwick, Scotland, next June. Evans's entry has been sent in and unless rejected because of the technicality which has been brought up by some of the British because of the fight between this country and the St. Andrews Club, he will sail from New York on April 29.

Rugby at Van Cortlandt Park.

Rugby football of the type played in the British Isles and on the Continent will be seen this afternoon at Van Cortlandt Park, when the Irish Club team lines up against the Scottish Americans. These teams have been granted special permission to give a demonstration of the game, and from the make-up of the respective teams a fine exhibition should ensue. Among the members of the first-mentioned team are some former Irish international players and Irish trial men, as well as former collegians who have participated in some of the important intercollegiate events in Ireland and Scotland.

Dartmouth Nine at South Orange.

The South Orange Field Club baseball team, which has many former college stars in its line-up, will play the Dartmouth team at South Orange on Monday, April 17.

Boxing Lid Off in Missouri.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 14.—The "lid" on boxing, which had been nailed down for years here, was raised last night, when two contests were held. An organized club presented the bouts, and there was no interference by policemen. Encouraged by not being interfered with, the promoters are planning for other contests in the near future.

Fairmont A. C.'s Show To-night.

Freddie Welsh, the English lightweight, will be the chief adviser of Boyo Driscoll this evening at the Fairmont Athletic Club. This will be Driscoll's first appearance this year, and as he is going to make his home in this country he will try and beat Biz Mackey as soon as possible. Mackey seems not a bit worried. There will be four six-round bouts. In one of them Jimmie Smith will box Frank Admous.

Langford Home from Europe.

Sam Langford, the pugilist, returned to America in the second cabin of the Lusitania after a three months' trip abroad. He is on his way to Weymouth, N. S., where his father is ill. Sam is anxious to get a match with Jack Johnson and also with Al Kaufman and Carl Morris. He was intensely amused and laughed heartily when told that Jack Johnson had been sent to jail for violating auto speeding laws in San Francisco.

La Salle's Fighting Mayor.

David Stewart, one of the many "white hopes" has been recently elected Mayor of La Salle, Col. He was considered such a strong candidate for his new job that no one was brave enough to run against him. He is known as the "fighting Mayor" and is the only public official probably who actually was notified of his election while in the prize ring.

Just as Stewart stepped into the ring at the Academy Hall in Greeley to fight Tommy Smith, the heavyweight of Omaha, the master of ceremonies announced the election results throughout the county, showing that one of the heavyweights in the ring had been elected Mayor for the next two years. Stewart got only a draw in the ring.

Friends of Stewart do not anticipate that he will follow pugilism professionally while acting as Mayor, but they say he is a comer in the heavyweight class. While he may not participate himself, the fighting Mayor will be Smith's second when he fights at Milliken the latter part of this month.

Stewart has appeared in a number of fights in Northern Colorado, but usually under an assumed name. It is a peculiar coincidence that his real name was used for the first time in the fight he participated in on election night.

Stewart is popular in La Salle, and it is thought that his connection with the administration may result in making the Colorado town the mecca of Northern Colorado in fistic circles.

STATEMENT BY McFARLAND.

Cites Figures of Former Lightweights to Prove His Right to a Match.

Another chapter was added to the Wolgast-McFarland tangle yesterday in the shape of a statement from the Chicago boy to the much-mooted question of weight, the technicality on which Wolgast's manager called off the bout. McFarland contends that Wolgast has no right to demand 133 pounds ringside, and asks by what authority such a rule has been made. Neither the London nor Queensberry rules set 133 pounds ringside as the limit for the lightweight class, and McFarland sees no reason for Wolgast naming any figures.

Packy's statement, which is quite long, shows that he has been doing considerable searching into old ring records on the question of lightweight fighting. He says that only three fights have taken place in America for the lightweight title at this so-called lightweight limit, 133 pounds ringside. Battling Nelson figured in all three—two with Joe Gans and one with Wolgast. He also contends that if it is impossible for a man to win the lightweight title at a figure above 133 pounds ringside, how is it possible for a man to lose it while weighing under this figure. He cites that Joe Gans weighed 131½ pounds when he lost the title to Wolgast.

Delving into past history, McFarland shows that Jack McAuliffe defended his title at from 135 to 138 pounds. Kid Lavigne fought Dick Burge for the lightweight championship of the world at 138 pounds. When Lavigne lost the championship to Erne at Buffalo they fought at 135 pounds, weigh in at 3 o'clock. Lavigne also fought Griffo, McPartland, McFadden, and other good men at 135 pounds or more. When Erne and Gans fought for the championship at Fort Erie the champion made the weight 136 pounds at 7 o'clock. Nelson was the first to name 133 pounds ringside in his first fight with Gans. After citing all these cases, McFarland asks if any one ever disputed the right of McAuliffe, Lavigne, and Gans to the leightweight championship, although won and defended at figures above 133 pounds ringside. In closing Packy says:

"I will give or take two pounds from any man in the world. Why should not a champion do the same. Is it not a fact that a man who insists on a weight that he knows will weaken an opponent seeks an unfair advantage? In order to assure absolute fair play, should not every man go into the ring at a weight that will enable him to do his best? I do not mean that any should concede several pounds to an opponent, for that would be foolish. But I insist that a man who will not give or take two pounds seeks an unfair advantage. In conclusion, I insist that I have as good a right, as far as the weight is concerned, to contest for the lightweight title as any man in the world. I already have beaten a man who held the lightweight title of England, and I believe I can defeat the man who holds the American title. Let us have fair play in the matter of weight. McAuliffe, Lavigne, Erne, and Gans met all comers at almost any desired weight, but the latter-day champions seem to have only one idea, and that is to bar out a man who may weigh sixteen ounces above the alleged 133 pounds ringside."

TOM ANDREWS HOME AGAIN.

Boxing Authority Back from Trip Abroad—Says Corri Will Start Suit.

Tom Andrews, a well-known Western newspaper man and authority in the world of fistiana, arrived from England yesterday on the Lusitania, accompanied by Ray Bronson, the Indianapolis lightweight, and Jimmy Clabby, the Milwaukee welterweight, who injured his right hand last month at the Olympia Annexe in his bout with Harry Duncan.

Andrews was the mentor for the invading band of American boxers which went to Australia last September, and which included beside those named above Cyclone Johnny Thompson.

Andrews is authority for the statement that most of the reports in connection with the Langford-McVey fight are erroneous, as the Boston black did not win in any such easy fashion as announced in some quarters. Just before leaving London Andrews saw Eugene Corri, the referee of the bout in question, and witnessed the sending of papers to Corri's lawyers charging a writer on a Paris newspaper with libel because of the published announcement that he had agreed with the promoter of the bout not to disqualify either fighter, and that he had said that neither man had tried to win.

Corri asserted to Andrews that the complete statement was a falsehood, and that no such agreement had ever been broached or agreed upon by him or the promoter, Hugh McIntosh. Corri's idea of the battle was that while Langford was apparently the master of the situation, he had failed to make the most of his opportunities, and when he wanted to go through his man found himself unable, and McVey too strong to be beaten down. Corri's work has always been above suspicion, and his standing in the world of sports unquestioned, and while the quoted statement did not gain any ground where the referee was known, he thought it best to take action against the purveyor of the article.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

A great list of boxers will appear to-night at the Long Acre A. A. week-end show. Among them are the winners of the two previous entertainments, who will be pitted against each other in their respective classes. These include Paddy Stern, Johnny Mitchell, Tom Ward, Young Donnelly, Frankie Moore, Joe Jordan, Artie Franklin, Young Allen, Young Sullivan, Paddy Dealy, Bobby Lynch, Walter Hickey, Joe Peyers, Lee Tracey, Tommy King, Dan McGrath, and Tony Gerhardt.

An amateur boxing tournament under the auspices of the Mott Haven Athletic Club is scheduled for April 20 and 22 at the Fairmont Athletic Club. Bouts in all classes will be decided, including bantam, 105 pounds; feather, 115 pounds; special, 125 pounds; light, 135 pounds; welter, 145 pounds, and heavyweight. Diamond rings will be given to winners in the respective classes, and gold watches to the second men, respectively.

The New West Side Athletic Club will hold its regular monthly boxing series to-night at the clubhouse in West Fifty-fourth Street. The star bout will show Dick Peters and K. O. Smith for ten rounds. There will also be four preliminaries.

Johnny Daly and Jack Sayles will shape up to-night at the Sharkey Athletic Club in the main attraction at ten rounds. Another ten-round go will call out Johnny Lore and Jack Lango.

Packey McFarland's training camp is a Mecca for fight fans these days, and many journey to Cannon's Road House to see the Chicagoan in his preparation for Tommy Murphy. This pair will face each other at the Fairmont Athletic Club Tuesday night, one of the conditions being that they must weigh in at 135 pounds at 5 o'clock on that afternoon.

Paddy Sullivan and Dick Howell are slated as the principal attraction next Wednesday night at the Sharkey Athletic Club. Howell is a Canadian and a boxer of the rough-and-ready kind, who is expected to attend to the case of Sullivan. Two "hopes" will entertain the members as a preliminary bout.

Ad Wolgast's arrival in New York, which was scheduled for Sunday, was delayed by a visit to the champion's home in Cadillac, Mich. Wolgast has announced that he intends to make his home in California, and he will sell all his real estate holdings in Cadillac as soon as possible. In an interview with the champion, which he has just given out, he announces that he will defend his title against anybody in the world at 133 pounds, but this limit must be strictly adhered to. This evidently is for the benefit of Packy McFarland.

Eugene Corri, the noted English referee, will accompany Hugh McIntosh and James Edward Britt when the London promoters visit America. They are expected here during the next few weeks. The bout between Britt and Nelson, which Philadelphia Jack O'Brien offered to stage, will be held late in May if Nelson is willing. Britt has already agreed to a match, and is quite anxious to get in the ring with his old rival.

Another white hope will receive his tryout Sunday in Australia. Jack Lester, the protege of Tommy Burns and said by such men as Jimmy Coffroth to look promising, will fight a twenty-round bout with Tommy Burns at Sydney, Australia. Allowing for the difference in time, American followers should know the result of the fight Saturday afternoon. In the East little is known of Lester, but on the Coast there is considerable interest in the coming battle. Lester is built on the same lines as Burns, weighs about 180 pounds, and he has shown strong punching power in his few bouts. If he is as good as Burns thinks he is, Lang should not cause Lester much trouble.

According to Manager Tom Jones, Ad Wolgast will get a rest of four months after his bout with Owen Moran at San Francisco July 4. By that time he will have figured in seven fights within five months, and traveled more than 9,000 miles. Wolgast will have enough money after the bout with Moran to be independent for life, but he figures that he will be good for several more bouts, and will begin another active campaign in November. Wolgast fights Frankie Burns of Oakland at San Francisco on May 27. Jones has come with a flat refusal to allow Wolgast to fight Packy McFarland unless Packy can make 133 pounds ringside, which means no fight.

Battling Nelson, now taking things easy at his old home in Hegewisch, has written to New York friends that he has heard nothing about the scheduled match with Dummy Decker at Baltimore next month. According to the ex-champion the fighting game is not causing him much worry these days.

CLARKE AND MULDAUR WINNERS WITH CUE

Amateurs Play Well in Fifth Day's Competition for Class B Tourney.

G. P. R. Clarke and J. M. S. Millette were the contestants in the fifth night's play at Paul's Riverside Billiard Academy last night in the amateur 18.2 billiard tournament for Class B players, and the former was victorious over his opponent by the score of 300 to 260. The game required 54 innings, in which the victor made an average of 5.56, with high runs of 83, 24, and 17, while Millette's average was 4.81 with runs of 25, 18, and 17.

Clarke's play showed a marked improvement over his previous work, and, although it was of the see-saw nature, he managed to keep in the lead almost the entire game, in which he held his opponent safely with good margins.

Millette played a much steadier cue, and ran along in his regular form, making ordinary tallies, while his rival played up and down the board.

Millette was first to go to the table, but failed to get a score, and Clarke then made his high run of the game, 83 points. The play went along on easy terms until the tenth inning was reached, where both players had a fine session. Millette was favored with good placement, and after making a good side-rail shot on his fourth tally ran out a string of 17 that gave him his first lead over Clarke, who had held the lead upon the ninth period, when his score read 45.

When Clarke resumed his play in the tenth he settled down to accurate playing and tallied 24 which again sent him to the fore. From this time on he gave a good exhibition of the game and steadily corralled the ivories with good score, reaching his first century in the eighteenth inning, while Millette's score was only 62.

Millette did not pass his hundred mark until he made 8 in the twenty-fifth inning and raised his score to 107. Clarke came in for the first real applause in the twelfth frame when he made a long rail or cushion shot and ran out with 16 after missing on a corner cross shot of easy nature.

In the nineteenth inning, by some clever placement, Millette made his high run score of 25 by juggling the spheres for some time in the corner without letting them get out of range. Again in the eighth he made a brilliant long-cushion follow shot and ran out with 8.

Again, in the thirty-second inning, Millette took the lead for the second time, but this, like his first opportunity, was only short-lived. Clarke's score read 159 against Millette's 168, and he held the premier position for two frames, when he was forced to relinquish it by four points. This was the last time that Millette was able to show in front, as Clarke played consistently to the end with only one safety and one blank score, the remainder being goodly tallies to the end.

The most spectacular shot was seen in the thirty-ninth inning, when Clarke made a long bank shot on his fourth tally and continued excellently from the rally of the crowd until he had ran out with 15. In the forty-first frame Millette made two fine cushion carroms, and slipped up, after scoring 18, on an easy corner bank shot.

After his forty-first time at the table Clarke, who only made a single tally, left the ivories in a very difficulty position, and rather than take a chance Millette passed up the play with a safety, and when Clarke again resumed play he negotiated 6 points. In the fifty-fourth inning Clarke settled down and ran out with 16, which gave him the game.

The afternoon game was between Mark Muldaur and Dr. E. C. Beck, in which Muldaur was victorious by the score of 300 to 165. The game was one of the best seen since the tournament started, and had it not been for his falling down in the last six innings Muldaur would have probably made a new average for the tournament, as he had averaged 10 up until the twenty-third inning of the forty-five-inning game. In the sixteenth inning he made four remarkable massé shots, which he followed with a long cushion drive, which netted him 16 points. The scores:

SUES CHAS. H. PHELPS FOR DIVORCE ABROAD

Wife Makes Fact Known in Answer to His Suit for Half of Her $38,000 Income.

CHARGES UNDUE INFLUENCE

John A. Pell's Daughter Says Husband Forced Her to Give Up Rights, Though Living on Her Father's Bounty.

Mrs. Eleanor Livingston Pell Phelps filed yesterday her answer to the suit of her husband, Charles Harris Phelps, to compel her to continue to pay him half of her $38,000 annual income from an estate left her by her father, John A. Pell, under an agreement signed by her in November, 1888. The answer reveals that Mrs. Phelps is suing her husband for divorce in France.

She admits she signed the paper on which her husband sues, but declares that it was obtained from her by "fraud, duress, and undue influence," was without consideration and is void. She admits that she paid him not only one-half, but all of her income from her father's estate from 1888 till late in 1910, and declares that her husband did not allow her more than $12 a week of her own money. She asserts that the United States Trust Company, as trustee of her father's estate, paid the money to her husband under "directions extorted from me."

At the time of her marriage to Mr. Phelps on Feb. 6, 1878, she was 20 years old and he was 32. Then she says "he obtained over me by reason of his strong will and dominating and masterful disposition and character complete control; and dominated me in every action; and obtained undue influence over me so that my will was subject to his own. He was harsh, cold, and cruel to me both in his moral and mental attitude toward me and also by reason of his physical cruelty inflicted upon me."

Mrs. Phelps says that her husband's behavior forced her to leave him in September, 1884, and she joined her parents in the South of France. Shortly after this separation her father suffered a stroke, and Mr. Phelps induced her to become reconciled to him, to accompany him to New York, and to bring about the appointment of a committee to manage her father's property. He left their son, a two-year-old boy, with the family of friends in Maidstone, England. At the time the committee was appointed for her father's estate she says an allowance was made to her husband, who since their marriage, she declares, lived on her father's bounty.

The agreement on which her husband sues, Mrs. Phelps says, was signed by her solely for the purpose of seeing her child, who was separated from her. "He told me my child was ill, and it wrung my heart so that I would submit to his terms," she says.

"He was a lawyer, shrewd and astute," she continues. "It was under the compulsion of these conditions that I, being at the time worn, worried, and sick with trouble and unhappiness, my child hid from me, and my heart and mind wrong beyond any power of resistance, signed this paper. The same was not my willing act, but was obtained by fraud, chicanery, undue influence, and wicked and unlawful scheming to obtain possession of my property, or a large part of it."

Since 1880, Mrs. Phelps says, her husband has not earned a dollar. From her money, Mrs. Phelps declares, he bought a half interest in a seven-hundred-thousand-franc house and stable at 7 Rue de Presbourg, Paris, and the building and land at 912 to 918 Broadway. He has in his possession, also, she alleges, jewels belonging to her valued at $30,000.

In his complaint Mr. Phelps declared that the agreement to pay him half of the income of the estate of her father was made to compensate him for abandoning a lucrative law practice to manage the interests of the Pell family.

JAIL LIMITS FOR MERCHANT.

Pato Tries It, but Finally Pays Judgment—Missed Thief, Shot Woman.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., April 14.—Finding that it cost him more to do nothing than it would to pay a judgment, Frank Pato, a well-to-do merchant of this city, who has been on the "jail limits" for two weeks, has made a settlement and returned home.

Mr. Pato was attacked in his store by a stranger, and to save his life drew a revolver and fired several shots. One bullet flew across the street and struck Mrs. Angeline Deluco, inflicting a slight wound. The woman sued and got a judgment of $50, which Mr. Pato refused to pay.

"Going on the jail limits" means that the man gives a bond to remain within one mile of the county jail for three months, after which he is discharged. Leaving his grocery store in charge of clerks, Mr. Pato remained within the limits for two weeks, living at the best hotel, but finding that his business required his attention he made a settlement to-day.

FOR LOSS OF A SEA TARGET.

Commander of the Supply Ship Glacier Is Tried by Court-Martial.

SAN DIEGO, April 14.—The loss at sea on March 25 of the big navy target which the United States supply ship Glacier was towing from Mare Island Navy Yard to San Diego, for use in practice by the ships of the Pacific fleet, has caused the trial by court-martial of Commander Harold K. Hines, who was in charge of the Glacier, for neglect of duty.

The target, a huge and almost submerged raft weighing many tons, was a derelict off the coast between Los Angeles and Santa Barbara for more than a week and constituted a serious menace to navigation until it was recovered by the torpedo flotilla.

Major Charles S. Hill, fleet marine officer, is judge advocate of the court-martial, and Lieut. Commander C. P. Owens and Lieut. Commander Hillary Williams, both of the cruiser West Virginia, are conducting the defense.

Shirt and Comb Factories Close.

LEOMINSTER, Mass., April 14.—Cluett, Peabody & Co.'s shirt factory, employing 1,500, was closed to-day, and will be idle until April 20. The Royal Comb Company has shut down its factory for one week. Other factories are running on short time. Many of the unemployed men will be given work on a new town road soon to be constructed.

The Untamed

By George Pattullo.

THESE are robust tales of the call of the wanderlust to the tamed, thus placing them in the category of the untamed, from Ol' Sam, the outfit mule that joins the band of outlawed mustangs that range the valleys of El Toro, to Come-a-Seven, the calf which escaped coyotes to grow up a lusty range steer.

Others that figure are a coyote, a roping horse, a wolfhound, a range cow, a mountain lion and a mountain cow horse. Range life is pictured in the pages and through illustrations by Charles Livingston Bull, Haydon Jones, C. M. Russell and H. F. Dunn, N. Y. Sun.

GRAIN OF DUST

David Graham Phillips

Love is the keynote of Mr. Phillips's new novel—thrilling, maddening, overwhelming love—love which wrecks men's careers and then rejuvenates them and spurs them on to greater achievements. The hero is the most powerful lawyer in New York, a man accustomed to rule; the heroine is a gentle, timid, shrinking, little stenographer—a veritable grain of dust. The love story of these two is a masterpiece.

AMONG THE AUTHORS

MRS. INEZ HAYNES GILLMORE, author of "Phoebe and Ernest," has undertaken to write another book about a youngster named Janey. On her title page she has this description:

> Being the record of a short interval in the journey through life and the struggle with society of a little girl of 9, in which she repudiates her duties as an amateur mother, snares the most blundering of birds, successfully invades Grub Street, peers behind the veil of the seen into the unseen, interprets the great bard, grubs at the root of all evil, faces the three great problems—birth, death, time—and finally, in passing through the laborious process of becoming 10, discovers the great illusion.

"GEORGE WEMYSS," author of "The Secret Book," is the nom de plume, it is intimated, of a veteran and successful author who is trying his (or her) hand in a new field in fiction.

MRS. ATHERTON, who has spent some weeks in London, has left for the Continent, where she intends to work on her new book, finishing it before she returns to this country in November to attend the rehearsals of Mrs. Fiske's production of her play. While in London Mrs. Atherton has studied the suffrage question, meeting the leaders of the movement. She writes that "they mean business."

CAROLINE DALE SNEDEKER is a Hempstead woman. "The Coward of Thermopylae" is her first novel.

MRS. BELLOC LOWNDES, author of "Barbara Rebell," etc., whose new novel, "Jane Oglander," will be published in the latter part of this month, is coming to be one of the best-known novelists in England. The daughter of M. Louis Belloc, a French barrister, and of Bessie Rainer Park, she is descended from Dr. Joseph Priestly, and is a sister of Hilaire Belloc, M. P., the well-known writer. She was educated at Mayfield Convent in Sussex, and has made a special study of French history, contemporary literature and biography. In 1896 she married Mr. Frederic S. Lowndes.

DR. HENRY SMITH WILLIAMS, author of the recently published "Science of Happiness," stands six feet, five inches in his stocking feet, weighs 225 pounds, and has a muscular development of corresponding proportion. He is quite the man from whom one would take advice readily. Brought up as the son of a physician, whose views on the use of alcohol are reflected in his own writings, the author was naturally not brought into contact with alcoholic beverages.

PROF. A. W. BICKERTON, who in 1878 started out to explain the phenomenon of temporary stars and developed finally a theory of the way in which worlds and systems are formed, very strongly urges the need of a society in which astronomers and physicists could meet and compare views.

> We want [he says] a home of union, where the wondrous discoveries of each specialist shall have their places allotted in the great conception of the complex structure of the whole creation. There the military student of projectiles will meet the civil and mechanical engineer; the expert spectroscopist meet the astrophysicist.

Before devoting himself to pure science Prof. Bickerton studied as an engineer, and his training in the latter capacity helped him greatly to work out the theory which he has explained in "The Birth of Worlds and Systems," just published.

MR. FRANK E. WALLIS, the architect, has insisted that industrial buildings should and could express architecture of the highest type. His theory is that a commercial group might be as dignified and beautiful as a college group. A large Middle West industrial corporation, taking Mr. Wallis at his word, has commissioned him to design a group of buildings fulfilling the conditions outlined in "How to Know Architecture."

A great many, many readers will feel, as they turn the last page, that here is a truly wholesome and charming story that does one good to read.

"The Encyclopaedia Britannica is a witness to the unity of the human race. This work, to which twenty-one countries have contributed—this work, to which not Christendom alone, but Japan and India and Turkey have also made their contribution—all civilized lands have helped to make. Here Frenchmen and Germans forget Sedan; here Italy and Austria forget Sadowa; here England and America forget the Revolution; here Roman Catholics and Jews and Christians forget their divisions and hostilities. We are one in our desire to know the truth. We are one in our desire to communicate the truth."—Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott in his speech at the dinner given by the Editor of the 11th Edition to the American and Canadian contributors.

Ideal In Its Motive

IF it be conceded that the crying need of the intelligent person of to-day is to be emancipated from the intellectual isolation imposed on him by his enforced ignorance of all but the merest fraction of modern knowledge, it would be difficult to conceive of a work of which the purpose serves a loftier ideal than that which the editors of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica held before them. Having as its scientifically calculated purpose the authoritative presentation in intelligible language of (1) the pivotal facts, (2) the latest exegesis, (3) the constructive viewpoint in every field of enquiry which can possibly interest a civilized people, it constitutes a universal standard whereby the general reader can adjust his mental compass and bring his individual outlook into harmony with that wider outlook which we have in mind when we think of the modern man as a child on the giant's shoulders.

Into how many homes this great work is destined to bring relief from the intellectual provincialism of a too narrow environment; for how many minds it will define and satisfy the vague aspiration after wider mental horizons; to how many original and even creative intellects its pages will afford the first indication of their true vocation it is impossible to foretell; but it can at least be reasonably claimed that the ideal its writers set before them measures the whole width of the gulf which separates the evils of comparative ignorance from the blessings of general knowledge.

The 11th edition comprises 28 quarto volumes of text, each containing 960 to 1060 pages, together with an Index volume containing 500,000 references. Its contents are divided into 40,000 articles aggregating 40,000,000 words, while the authority of the text is confirmed by 7,000 text illustrations, 450 full page plates, 169 plate maps, as well as some 400 maps in the text. The aggregate cost of production before a single copy was published was $1,150,000.

A SIMULTANEOUS RE-SURVEY OF ALL KNOWLEDGE

THE magnificent impulse of co-operative scholarship of which the product is the 11th Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica is remarkable not only on account of the number of specialists (1,500) engaged and on account of the number of countries (21) represented, but perhaps most of all on account of the systematic and orderly manner in which such a vast array of talent was organized and directed to an essentially practical end. From the moment when, after a searching examination of the whole field by the permanent editorial staff, the contributors were put to work, to the moment when the last contribution was received, the one aim of the editors was to produce a work in which there should be no omissions and no overlapping and in which each article while complete in itself should appear as an integral part of an adequate and articulated whole. As easily consulted as a dictionary and as exhaustive as the eminent scholars who wrote it could make it, as it stands, the new Eleventh Edition is a demonstration of the adequacy of the encyclopaedic method to meet every modern requirement. It is the only modern work of universal reference in which the needs of the systematic student and the needs of the general reader have been co-ordinately met.

INDIA PAPER FORMAT

Volumes of 1,000 Pages Each But One Inch Thick

If the manner of its production makes the new Encyclopaedia Britannica a more valuable possession than were any of its predecessors, the new edition is marked also by a material improvement which will render the work many times more useful. By the use of India paper, it has been found possible to replace the ponderous quarto of former editions by a thin, light and flexible volume measuring one inch in thickness as against nearly three. And this without sacrifice of legibility or strength, for while the opaqueness, the whiteness, the toughness, and the hard printing face of the India paper page are all that could be wished, the new format can be safely handled in a way which would quickly disintegrate its massive predecessor.

A distinguished clergyman says: "The change from the ponderous, forbidding volumes of the past to this charming India paper issue represents nothing less than an inspiration of genius."

ADVANCE-OF-PUBLICATION PRICES SOON TO BE WITHDRAWN

All subscribers who register their applications before May 31st will effect a substantial saving and will acquire the foremost work of reference at a price which has never before been possible.

THE PURPOSE OF THE PUBLISHERS (the Press of the University of Cambridge, England) in offering the new Britannica at advantageous prices to all who should register their applications in advance of publication, was to ascertain the proportions in which the various bindings and the two formats (India paper volumes one inch thick, and ordinary book paper volumes 2¾ inches thick) would be required by the public. THAT PURPOSE HAVING BEEN ACHIEVED, the manufacture of the work is proceeding on a scale altogether without precedent in publishing. Vols. I to XIV are now being delivered to early subscribers, and Vols. XV to XXIX will soon be in the binders' hands. Complete publication will therefore shortly be effected, and the "advance-of-publication" terms must be withdrawn on May 31st next.

Illustrated prospectus (40 pp.,) 56 specimen pages on India paper, 4 specimen plates, and form of application showing the special advance terms, will be sent upon receipt of request.

THE ARIZONA CONSTITUTION.

We hope President TAFT will stand like a rock against the admission to the Union of the Territory of Arizona, so long as the people of that Territory shall refuse to strike out that un-American and monstrous section of their proposed Constitution which provides that Judges may be removed from office by a new election held in pursuance of a recall petition signed by not less than 25 per cent. of the voters. The enabling act passed by both houses of Congress and approved by the President June 20 last provides that the Constitution ratified by the people of Arizona shall be submitted to the President and to Congress, "and if Congress and the President approve said Constitution, and the said separate provisions thereof, if any, or if the President approves the same and Congress fails to disapprove the same, during the next regular session thereof," then the President shall certify these facts to the Governor of Arizona, who shall issue a proclamation for an election of State and county officers. President TAFT has already approved the proposed Constitution of New Mexico. He disapproves of Arizona's Constitution because of the provision for the recall of Judges. In a letter to Representative FLOOD of Virginia, Chairman of the House Committee on Territories, who had proposed that the enabling act be amended to permit the admission of Arizona on the approval of Congress alone, thus relieving the President of responsibility, Mr. TAFT has replied that to consent to this amendment would be to approve the recall provision, which is repugnant to him. He therefore declines to assent to such an amendment of the enabling act.

We have more than once pointed out the demerits and the positive vice of this provision for the recall of Judges, which is vicious, also, though in a less degree, as applied to other elected officers. To make Judges upon the bench subject to gusts of popular passion and to the unreasoning impulses of a body of voters very few of whom can have an intelligent understanding of the principles involved in their act, and who, without deliberation or without opportunity for proper discussion and examination of the matters involved, would vote off a Judge's head, is to subvert the foundation principle of the American system of government. If such a practice is to prevail, we shall have not a Government of laws, but of the mob, a Government under which fearlessness and independence and with them judicial competence would speedily disappear from the bench.

"Our American liberty, allow me to say, has an ancestry, a pedigree, and a history," said DANIEL WEBSTER once in an argument before the Supreme Court. Much of the current discussion of changes and reforms is carried on by persons who have as little respect for the ancestry of our liberty as they have knowledge of its pedigree and history. It is worth while to quote further, and somewhat at length, from this argument of DANIEL WEBSTER, which was made before the Supreme Court in January, 1847, in a case growing out of the Dorr rebellion in the State of Rhode Island. In that State, in the years 1841 and 1842, as will be remembered, there were two Governments, the old or charter Government, and a new Government formed by a convention made up of delegates not elected under the laws of the State, but springing from so-called suffrage associations and mass meetings. Of this Government THOMAS W. DORR was the head. When the Dorr Government had disappeared and measures were taken to punish the participants in the escapade, suits arose which by appeal were taken before the Supreme Court. Mr. WEBSTER represented the interests of the charter Government. But his argument went far beyond the immediate issues of the case before the court, and set forth with all the force and logic of his great mind principles that in these days of agitation and innovation are little considered, if not generally forgotten. And, be it said, these principles apply with quite as much force to the nostrums of the initiative and the referendum as to the yet more objectionable recall. Said Mr. WEBSTER:

> Having agreed that all power is originally derived from the people, and that they can confer as much of it as they please, the next principle is that the exercise of legislative power and the other powers of Government immediately by the people themselves is impracticable. They must be exercised by representatives of the people. * * * The power is with the people; but they cannot exercise it in masses or per capita; they can only exercise it by their representatives. * * * I have said that it is one principle of the American system that the people limit their Governments, National and State. They do so, but it is another principle equally true and certain, and, according to my judgment of things, equally important, that the people often limit themselves. They set bounds to their own power. They have chosen to secure institutions, which they establish against the sudden impulses of mere majorities. All our institutions teem with instances of this. It was their great conservative principle in constituting a form of Government that they should secure what they had established against hasty change by simple majorities. * * * It is one remarkable instance of the enactment and application of that great American principle that the Constitution and the Government should be cautiously and prudently interfered with, and that changes should not ordinarily be begun and carried through by bare majorities. * * *
> We are not to take the will of the people from public meetings nor from tumultuous assemblages, by which the timid are terrified and the prudent alarmed, and by which society is disturbed. These are not American methods of signifying the will of the people, and they never were. * * * Is it not obvious that men cannot get together and count themselves and say they are so many hundreds and so many thousands, and judge of their own qualifications and call themselves the people, and set up a Government? * * * Why, another set of men forty miles off, on the same day, with the same propriety, with as good qualifications, and as large numbers, may meet and set up another Government. * * * What is that but anarchy? What liberty is there but a tumultuary, tempestuous, violent, stormy liberty, a Government of South American liberty, without power except in its spasms, a liberty supported by arms to-day, crushed by arms to-morrow. Is that our liberty?

The orderly, the well-sanctioned, the American procedure in respect to the removal of public officers is embodied in the Arizona Constitution in the very sections immediately following the pernicious recall provision. It is in the sections relating to impeachment, which provide that "the House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment." Impeachments of the judiciary are provided for in that section. Then why set up a bad and odious method of removing a Judge when the only proper method is established in another section of the same Constitution, as it is in all State Constitutions? What Mr. WEBSTER says of the impracticability of legislation by the people in masses or individually, applies with equal, we think with yet greater, force to the recall of Judges by the rough process of a popular vote. To remove a Judge is a grave matter. It should be considered gravely, and considered by bodies of men selected with some regard for their competence for public duties, bodies not too large for deliberation. The Arizona recall is at war with the foundation principles of American Government set forth in Mr. WEBSTER'S argument. Of that argument the Supreme Court has said, in Chief Justice FULLER'S opinion in DUNCAN vs. MCCALL, that it "took a wider sweep and contained a masterly statement of the American system of Government, as recognizing that the people are the source of all political power, but that, as the exercise of Governmental powers immediately by the people themselves is impracticable, they must be exercised by representatives of the people."

The removal before the end of his term of an incompetent or unfaithful public officer is a function not to be performed directly by the people at the polls, but one to be intrusted to the wisdom and the judgment of their representatives in legislative or executive office. So we have held and practiced in the past, so we shall, if the light of reason guides us, hold and practice in the future. In withholding his assent to the admission of Arizona into the Union, so long as this obnoxious provision remains in its Constitution, President TAFT will be recognized and applauded as a defender of American institutions, and of American liberty, both of which, after all, though the light of that truth has not yet broken upon the minds of some of our people, have an ancestry, a pedigree, and a history.

THE FRUIT OF THE WAR.

A British friend, who was in sympathy with the Union cause during our war, writes, apropos of the current series of half-century anniversaries: "We who were called 'Yankee Britishers' and 'nigger-lovers' had a hard time of it in England fifty years ago. Your people disappointed us sadly that first year; first, in not making emancipation your avowed purpose, and then in your lack of prowess and what you call 'push.' Even at the end we felt that you had won by sheer force of numbers, and that Providence must have come a little reluctantly to the side of your 'heaviest battalions.'"

Those who can remember the flame of indignant patriotism that swept over the North after the flag was fired on at Sumter and the weary, costly, wasting struggle that followed until Vicksburg fell and the Confederate invasion was turned back at Gettysburg can understand the feeling thus expressed as to the work of the Northern armies. In the East, at least, their record was largely one of great sacrifice and little gain, of tremendous energy unused or misdirected, of desperate groping for leadership, with many and disheartening failures, of a contest in which the North—professedly and necessarily pursuing an aggressive aim—was again and again put upon the defensive. It is not surprising that our friends across the water were disappointed, or that they should find the final victory to have been due, as in fact it practically was, to "force of numbers." That is a conclusion to which those who won and those who lost, since they are to live together welded in a strong and enduring Nation, may with equal self-respect and mutual respect assent.

The war for the Union, in principle defensive, was from a military point of view essentially aggressive; and aggressive warfare along a line of more than a thousand miles, against a brave and united people, is a vast undertaking. It is to be noted that the signal reverses of LEE, great Commander as he was, came when he abandoned the defensive. And, further, it is to be noted that political considerations of prime importance hampered both sides in turn. The capture of Washington by one, the loss of it by the other, would have meant, in all probability, European intervention. That consideration interfered with the plans of more than one Union Commander, and tempted, or forced, LEE to risks he would not otherwise have taken. Beyond all specific elements in the problem, however, was the controlling fact that each party to the struggle felt more and more, as it went on, that it must be a "fight to a finish," and each party learned, by varied experience, its own resources and how to use them. Neither was at first prepared for the vigor, the persistence, the resourcefulness of the other, and when the knowledge was gained, both, by sheer momentum, were compelled to go on to the end.

It is not unreasonable now to say that it was better so. In no other way could the North and the South have been made so completely and so intimately to understand each other. Especially in no other way could they be made so thoroughly to understand that the unity of the Nation is and must be impregnable. Both came to know with a knowledge as perfect and firm as instinct that no other attempt to disrupt it would ever have the shadow of such a chance as that the South had had, and each, after its own fashion, was proud of the fact. The South roughly felt that it had exhausted the last possible means of resistance, and only then had yielded. The North felt that it had achieved a task that never again would be presented. On that basis, and on the mutual respect that sprang from it, the new birth of the Nation rested.

As for slavery, undoubtedly the sympathy of England and of the more generous-hearted in other countries would have been prompter and more active had emancipation been made the avowed purpose of the war on the part of the North. One thing prevented. Emancipation was not the real purpose. The North took arms to preserve the Union swayed by a resistless, half-conscious impulse of nationality. Slavery perished mainly because it inspired the mad attack. The contest was so long and desperate because slavery had made the South, in feeling, a separate people, and the motive force, on either side, was essentially the same half-conscious impulse. When the decision came, with the exhaustion of the South, that process, to which we have referred, without precedent in history, began. The contending peoples, moved by a common longing, and drawn to each other by the sense of common courage, endurance, and fidelity, grew together, and through the entire frame ran increasingly the vital sap of nationality.

THE SITUATION IN MEXICO.

The killing of non-combatants across the border line in the battle at Agua Prieta, in Sonora, between Mexican insurrectionists and Federal troops, is a serious matter, of which our Government cannot fail to take some sort of official cognizance. The rebels may have purposely enticed their opponents as close as possible to the border line, but the responsibility for the slaughter of American citizens in their own land must rest with the Mexican Government. The interference by our own troops and the seizure of the arms of the combatants recall an incident of the Franco-Prussian war when French soldiers invaded Swiss soil, at Neufchatel, and were compelled to surrender their arms.

The newspapers of Mexico City continue to predict an early peace, but obviously the insurrection is gaining daily. There is now only one line of railway communication open between Mexico and the north, by way of Laredo, the insurgents having blown up bridges on the Eagle Pass route, while the El Paso route has been practically closed for some weeks. With disturbances between the capital and Vera Cruz, such as the recent outbreaks in Tlaxcala and Puebla, the situation is becoming desperate. There is already more or less vague talk of a recognition of the belligerent rights of the revolutionists by the United States Government, which would have seemed preposterous a month ago.

BAD FOR THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The Board of Education is too large, it should be made smaller. But it should not be a paid board. Its function is essentially that of representative laymen consulting with the paid administrators of the public school system upon matters, not of administrative detail, but of general policy. The consideration of policies by a small board would be public and conspicuous, where it is now, under a large board, confused and obscure. The small Boards of Education created in Boston, St. Louis, Indianapolis, and Cleveland have been eminently successful in conferences with their respective Superintendents of Schools and Associate Superintendents, in approving or disapproving general school regulations and laws according to their knowledge of public demands and the needs of the educational specialists. They are not reappointed by each new Mayor; only a part of each board goes out of office at a time; its well-matured plans are continuous, and may not be brushed lightly aside. The City Superintendent, the Board of Superintendents, and the District Superintendents and Examiners, also, acquire efficiency by long experience without fear of political invasion of their offices.

The proposed new Charter, sanctioned by Mayor GAYNOR, provides for a paid Board of Education. If paid little, such a board would be filled by little politicians and failures in other walks of life. If paid much, it would merely duplicate the present work of the City Superintendent and Board of Superintendents, and even then it would be difficult or impossible to fill it with successful men, who would know that their tenure was short. The actions of this paid board would be entirely under the control of shifting city administrations. The licensing of teachers would be in its hands, with power to exempt from examination certain classes of applicants, thus nullifying a safeguarding requirement of the civil service. The professional experts and teachers who now have the curriculum of the schools in their charge, as well as the nomination and promotion of teachers, would be deprived of all initiative in these respects. Could a worse measure for the administration of the public schools be conceived?

The answer to that question may be found in Pittsburg, which is giving up an educational system, with its concomitant scandals, inefficiency, and "graft," identical with that now proposed for this city. To adopt such a system would be a step backward; it would be bad for the schools.

BOSTON WAKING UP.

Boston is planning a series of new harbor piers, long enough to accommodate the largest vessels afloat, and equipped with all the latest mechanical appliances for freight handling. There is no danger whatever of Boston supplanting New York as a port, but a larger share of the freight business may go to Boston, if its plans are carried out, and New York does not awaken to the needs of the situation. Our Dock Commissioner has been urging the city to build big, new piers on the Brooklyn side of the Bay. That seems a more practical plan than the proposed removal of any large part of the business of this port as far eastward as Fort Pond Bay.

President MELLEN'S speech at the Boston Chamber of Commerce dinner Thursday night was in accord with growing sentiment among the Boston merchants. New facilities for docking, discharging, distributing, and repairing Boston is bound to have, if the mood holds. New York, in the circumstances, cannot remain passive. We are far behind the times in pier facilities. London has been learning its lesson, and a transformation of London Docks, and the piers down Tilbury way, is now under way. New York, too, should wake up.

DENMAN THOMPSON.

DENMAN THOMPSON will not be remembered as a great actor, but he will be remembered agreeably and with gratitude. His histrionism was narrowly limited, he had practically no repertory, he was not versatile, but the portrayal of the New Hampshire farmer, Joshua Whitcomb, had photographic accuracy, was not deficient in pathos, was full of natural humor, and its execution denoted a measurable command of stage technique. Whitcomb was a characterization as distinct and as human as JEFFERSON'S Rip Van Winkle, which can be said without instituting any sort of comparison between the art of THOMPSON and the broader, finer art of JEFFERSON.

It was often said that THOMPSON was, off the stage, precisely the personage he depicted on the stage, but that was never exactly true. It was also said that "The Old Homestead" was not a play, but that was always preposterously untrue. It was a play as truly as "Hamlet" and "The Concert" are plays, it pictured "a slice of life," it comprehended a conflict of human passions. To be sure, much of its popularity was doubtless due to its pictorial qualities, much to the antique and silly clowning of its second act. But there remained the simple, natural portrayal of the shrewd, kindly, affectionate old farmer, devoted to his erring son, and this was no copy of previous impersonations of rustic character, but a sound and true histrionic study founded on observation of real life.

THE LIFE DRILL.

Ample proof was given of the value, and the priceless value, of fire drills in the soap works on West Thirty-sixth Street, which went up in flames so swiftly that three alarms were rung in as many minutes by the anxious firemen. The building was six stories in height. On the third and second were crowds of girls. The stairs were promptly cut off by the mounting flames. The elevator, luckily at the top of the building, could make but one trip down. There were adequate fire escapes on the outside.

The sixty girls on the third floor had been drilled since the Asch Building was burned, at the instance and under the guidance of Miss Barbara Nolan, forewoman—plainly a person of brains and nerve. When the fire broke out the girls rapidly and quietly took their way to the nearest exit and passed to perfect safety. The girls on the second floor were thrown into something of a panic, but escaped to a neighboring low roof. It does not appear that they had been drilled. Those who were drilled were in great peril, from which their training wholly saved them. A severer test of the plan we have ventured to urge so strongly can hardly be imagined.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Eyes Have a Right to Protection.

Up the State as well as here there is a growing antagonism to big advertising signs, and efforts are making, without any marked success, as yet, to find a way of curbing this obnoxious form of business enterprise. In Rochester, for instance, a huge billboard across the street from one of the high schools has awakened the indignation of many people, and so strongly was this feeling manifested that the Board of Aldermen took the matter up. Their Law Committee reported that the erection of such signs was already forbidden within the fire limits, as adding to the danger of conflagration, but as regards signs outside of those limits, as the one in question is, they didn't see that anything could be done except to pass an ordinance requiring all billboards over seven feet in height to be made of non-inflammable materials. This has been done, but not much mitigation of the abuse is expected to result from it.

The problem is a difficult one, and it probably will not be solved until the real objection to the signs—their ugliness—is made the basis of attack and is proved to be a valid argument against their existence. This, we think, can be done, either now or soon. Of course there can be no thought of abolishing all signs. To demand, however, that none of them shall seriously affront the eyes of fairly well civilized people is not less justifiable than are other demands the legitimacy of which has long been recognized by the law. We do not allow men to conduct businesses that give rise to evil odors, except in places where the few neighbors are made tolerant, by self-interest, and we even put restrictions on the amount and quality of noise that a man shall make on his own property, if that property happens to be where quiet is customary and desirable.

Sensitive eyes have as much right to protection as sensitive noses and ears, and it cannot be true that nothing can be done about a sign if only there is no danger of its falling down or burning up. As a matter of fact, moreover, the value of these signs does not come from the use of owned or rented land, but from the use they make of all the land from which they can be seen, including the public streets. This is obviously indefensible when it constitutes a nuisance. The shallow plea that a man can do what he will with his own fails in at least half a dozen respects as regards big and ugly signs, and as soon as enough people realize this truth we shall see the last of them.

A Lesson for Our Policemen.

When our police raid gambling places they often have difficulty in separating from the crowd found behind the thick doors the particular men whom they deem it worth while to take to court. Over in Philadelphia this difficulty has been overcome, at least once, in a way both simple and ingenious. They asked the men whom they wanted—the proprietor and employes—to step forward and submit to arrest, and when this appeal met with no immediate response they said, "Well, then we will take you all." The effect was immediate, for the principal offenders, great as was their preference for obscurity, could not afford to get it at the cost of subjecting all their patrons to the inconvenience and humiliation of arrest and the proceedings that would follow it. To have done so would make the further doing of "business" with those particular clients and with all who heard of the affair practically impossible. So the men "wanted" stepped forward, with a fine semblance of self-sacrifice.

Therein lies the only objection to the Philadelphia plan—it tends to perpetuate among naïve minds the delusion that the professional gambler possesses some of the primordial virtues—that he is a "sport" and a "good fellow." Of course, he is never either, but invariably a man who differs from the burglar only in lacking the burglar's courage—a man whose games are always as "crooked" as he can safely make them.

Never by any accident does he neglect to have the mathematical chances in his favor, and to this advantage, fair only in the sense that it is not concealed from a few patrons conversant with elementary arithmetic, he adds those which come from sophisticated apparatus, and not infrequently he descends—or rises—to actual pocketpicking. These are the features of professional gambling upon which too much emphasis cannot be laid if the glamour that now hangs about the professional gambler is ever to be dispelled.

For the existence of that glamour romancers like BRET HARTE are in no small degree responsible. There are no John Oakhursts in real life, but men whose roulette wheels are controlled by secret electrical devices are abundant in the circles falsely called "sporting."

Montreal Solves a Mystery.

We have rarely printed a dispatch better calculated to excite the curious wonder of thoughtful minds than was a little one from Montreal that appeared yesterday. It said that "thousands" of that city's residents started for New York on Thursday to take part in our Easter Sunday parade on Fifth Avenue. So numerous were they that six special trains had to be provided to carry them on this pious pilgrimage, while to all the regular trains extra cars were added!

So there is the explanation, hitherto sought in vain, of the peculiarities which for years past have marked the parade in question. Experts have agreed in declaring that a large majority of the Easter paraders were not the exponents of metropolitan fashion and society. It has been suggested that they mostly came from the east side, where magnificent raiment is not unknown or even rare, but nobody thought of Montreal. Everything is clear now, for, of course, what has happened this year has happened in other years.

New mysteries replace the old one, however. Why does Montreal do this, and why is it that the custom, now so frankly revealed, has been so carefully and successfully hidden from us? But it's all right. Montreal is welcome here on Easter Sunday, as on every other day in the year, and we will all hope that our Weather Bureau sees to it that they have a fine Spring day in which to show their fine clothes to each other. Fifth Avenue will be glad to provide a noble setting and background for the exhibition, and it must be just dear to get out of blanket coats and caps two or three months before the Canadian climate permits of shedding them.

EX-CUNARD CAPTAIN HONORED

King Confers a Decoration on Commander Pentecost, Who Retired.

The Imperial Merchant Service Guild of Liverpool announced yesterday that King George V. has conferred the Royal Naval Reserve officer's decoration on Commander Ernest Harvey Pentecost, who retired recently from the Cunard service after his marriage with a wealthy Boston woman. His last ship was the Saxonia, which plies between this city and Liverpool in the Summer, and between this and Mediterranean ports in the Winter.

Commander Pentecost, it is said, will go to England soon to attend the gunnery course and torpedo practice, as he will remain on the active list of the Royal Naval Reserve until he is 45 years old. His decoration permits him to place the letters "R. D.," signifying Royal Distinction, after his name.

THE CONVICT.

Agencies Are Trying to Rescue Those Who Have Expiated Their Guilt.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent "O. A.," in the issue of THE TIMES of April 12, asks, "Is there any work whatever open to the man who has served a term in prison; or is he not simply compelled to return to his old ways and old associates?" The question suggests a pathetic picture, and is well asked.

To-day agencies like the New York Prison Association are endeavoring to find positions for the graduates of our penal institutions, and have the hearty co-operation of many employers and labor unions, but the difficulty lies deeper than any lack of opportunity for work.

Many of those convicted of crime have come to crime through inability to meet industrial conditions. Incarceration separates these men from their families and deprives them of all sense of responsibility for their maintenance, because they themselves become the property of the State, and as such have no definite right to return for their labor.

On entering prison they are inefficient industrially, and in many prisons (especially those in States where the contract system prevails) their work is such that no job can be found for them when they come out, either because of the peculiarity of trade conditions or the fact that it is a woman's trade.

Adequate industrial training in our penal institutions, under proper instructors, encouraged by a fair wage, which shall go to the dependent members of their families or to those against whom their crime was committed, would do much to prepare prisoners for their freedom and to insure their ability to fill those positions which the sympathetic public is only too glad to place at their disposal.

Protest Against the Comic Supplement

The many objections raised against the Comic Supplement of the daily papers find hearty responses everywhere. The pernicious influence of the Comic Sheet Section cannot be overestimated or too strongly condemned. It vulgarizes thought, life, and literature, and its effect upon the minds of children is such as to create a perverted taste for all that makes for culture and refinement. The Comic Sheet Section is a demoralizing factor in child life.

Parents do not sufficiently realize how impressionable a child's mind is. They are careless, nay indifferent, as to what a child reads, so long as it is amused, and the Comic Sheet Section feeds it with ideas and material which it would never think of otherwise. Why cannot the papers give the child a magazine section of reading and pictures that will uplift, that will edify, that will stimulate a love for the beautiful and the true? There is much missionary work to be accomplished in this field. The seed of culture can be planted and the love for culture can be fostered. It is the imaginative faculty that largely separates man from the lower animals. The human intellect—even in an infant—reaches out in its immediate environment for what it can grasp, but as this little mind expands, it goes beyond this environment into the realm of beauty and truth. The sense of beauty that is born into every soul pleads for aid to develop, and it is the duty and should be the privilege of the press to scatter the seed, by which the silent process of growth may enlarge the child mind; so that the tiny bud may burst into the full, voluptuous rose of maturity. Laying a foundation is more difficult than rearing a superstructure, but if our papers would build a firm base for this gradual development they would be doing mental welfare work, the effect of which would be as far reaching and as stimulating, as the welfare work undertaken to ameliorate the physical and moral condition of the child throughout the country. The Comic Supplement, as it now is, is a destructive force to child uplift, against which every parent should guard. Once cast out that inborn sense of the beautiful and not all the skill of scientists can ever replace it.

Religious Orphan Asylums' Support.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

From figures printed in many newspapers to-day on the question of the care of dependent children in orphan asylums conducted by religious bodies it appears that a sum approximating $10 per month for each child is paid by the city. Just where any opportunity for irregularity can come in in the spending of this amount is not clear, it being asserted that the outlay by the asylums is much greater for each child. Very likely it is.

At this very time and for several years past an object lesson has been given to us in the matter of the cost of caring for delinquent and dependent children in a home directly administered by the city itself. The home is called the Parental School. It cost over $700,000 to build, and the actual cost per pupil is $4.55 per week. This cost is given in the twelfth annual school report, Page 384.

At a time when so many plans are broached by progressives with a view to having the State undertake almost completely the care of the child, the comparison between the cost to the State by private and public homes is illuminating. It would not be unfair to add to the $4.55 mentioned above the interest on the $700,000, (which is secured by bonds of the city,) divided by the number of pupils in the school. No paper has yet told us just what is the point of difference between the city and the asylums. Pray, let us have light.

Mr. Lampton Pleads Guilty.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Do you wish to know what set fire to the Polo Grounds buildings? Listen: It was that baseball story of mine in Thursday's TIMES. That was the hot stuff that done it. Still, I am rather surprised, because, while I knew it was hot, I thought I had not got it quite that hot. However, don't ask me to do it again, because if you do Coogan's Bluff will go next time. Yet I don't mean to be incendiary. I just write natural. Anyway, it was cold enough up there Wednesday to require something almighty hot to thaw it out. I guess it is thawed by now. What?

In the meantime hadn't they better put in some crowd escapes when they build it up again?

THE POOR MAN'S PLAINT.

Cost of living makes me numb,
Everything is much too high;
I must pay a pretty sum
When I eat goose liver pie.
When I take my terrapin
Thoughts conflicting me do rack;
Sorrow I am buried in
When I order canvasback.

When I flowers buy for Nell
How the hard-earned money slides!
And the ducats go pell-mell
For Clarissa's auto rides.
Opera seats are going up,
And champagne rates never fall—
Full of sadness is my cup,
Poor men have no chance at all!

DR. DUNNELL LEAVING ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

Retires on Easter Sunday to a Quiet Home in Red Bank, After 40 Years of Service.

HONORS FROM MANY SIDES

Several Military Organizations, Knights of Palestine, and Masonic Lodge Coming to Take Farewell.

After a ministry of forty years as rector of All Saints' Church, at Henry and Scammel Streets, the Rev. Dr. William Nichols Dunnell will retire on Easter Sunday. Bishop Greer will officiate at the confirmation services in the afternoon, and several military organizations, whose Chaplain Dr. Dunnell was for many years, will attend to bid him farewell. He will take farewell of his congregation in a sermon Sunday night. Thereafter Dr. Dunnell, who is now 86 years old, will rest in a quiet home in Redbank, N. J.

The congregation isn't the same congregation to which Dr. Dunnell came forty years ago. Even in the last ten years its complexion has changed completely. When Dr. Dunnell came there in November, 1871, the neighborhood was chiefly populated by Irish, of both Roman Catholic and Protestant faiths. The old, gray, granite church—which is just a year older than the rector himself—has a seating capacity of 1,300. In those days every seat was filled. Since then the membership has shrunk greatly. First the Germans moved into the district, then came a Jewish population which, with the sudden exodus from Russia, grew so great as to absorb the entire neighborhood, crowding the former residents uptown or over to Brooklyn. Baptist, Methodist, and Reformed Churches, all gradually became depleted and moved away, but the old Church of All Saints remained, tolling its bell to fewer and fewer heeding ears, but summoning as in the past to prayer.

The church was a parish church and took little or no part in mission work. Dr. Dunnell himself, with the increase of Jewish population in the district, maintained as before his friendly relations with his neighbors. As his wife said yesterday, "They look upon him almost as they would upon a rabbi." He is a member of several Jewish clubs and a trustee of several institutions in the neighborhood.

But in the face of a disappearing congregation the work of keeping up the church was more and more up-hill, and Dr. Dunnell felt that a younger man should be appointed to take charge of it. He himself, in his younger days, when he had a parish at Red Bank, used to do vigorous missionary work. He felt that he had been long enough with the parish, and, though many of those who still came, through love of him, all the way from Brooklyn or uptown, tried to persuade him otherwise, he resolved to quit the church on Easter Sunday.

Bishop Greer will appoint a younger man as curate, desiring to keep the old church open even after its old rector leaves it. Dr. Dunnell himself will retire on a pension from Trinity Church, which controls All Saints'.

On Sunday the Knights of Palestine will attend in Templar uniform to pay their respects to Dr. Dunnell as their pastor emeritus.

The board of officers of the Twenty-second Regiment, whose Chaplain Dr. Dunnell was for thirty-one years, also will be present, as will the Veterans' Association of the regiment and Phenix Chapter of the Masonic lodge. Dr. Dunnell will address them briefly in the afternoon, and with his farewell sermon in the evening end his long service.

WEATHER MAN EXPLAINS ALL.

Forecasts Made on Averages, but Trouble Is Average Never Happens.

James H. Scarr, the Government weather man for this city, went to Public School 68, in East Eighty-eighth Street, last evening to tell a small audience, made up largely of small boys, just how weather forecasting is done. He was late, and the audience had started to leave when he arrived.

Mr. Scarr admitted that his bureau often made mistakes, and that until some basis of scientific principles could be found for weather predictions the forecast always would be fraught with uncertainties. As for the many sarcastic comments on the bureau's efforts, he assured the audience that he did not mind them at all. For his own part, he said, he was perfectly willing to take upon his own head the complaints about the weather that logically should be sent higher up.

"Don't ever rely," he said, "upon any long distance predictions. No man can tell you what the weather will be day after to-morrow. All we can do is to watch the storms progressing eastward and predict where they will be twenty-four hours later. We make these predictions on the basis of forty years of observations, but they often go astray. For instance," he said, with a reminiscent smile, "we said that Mr. Taft's inaugural day would be clear. Ah! that was a great storm.

"No, we can't be sure. All we can do is to predict on the basis of averages, and did you ever stop to think that the average never happens?"

VISITOR FROM LEPER MISSION

John Jackson Comes Here to Lecture on Invitation of American Committee.

John Jackson, F. R. G. S., was a passenger on the Cunard liner Lusitania, which got in yesterday from Liverpool. He is Organizing Secretary of the Mission to Lepers in India and the East. He comes to America at the invitation of the American Committee of the Mission to Lepers, and will speak at the great Missionary Exposition in Boston on April 22. After that he will make a lecture tour of the country.

"The professors are now able to make cultures, and this is the first step in discoveries which will lead to the cure of the disease," said Mr. Jackson, who has spent fifteen years working among the lepers in the Far East. "Much credit for this advance is due to American physicians in Europe. The idea that leprosy is due to fish eating I believe is not true. I know thousands of lepers who were not fish eaters. The theory that leprosy is hereditary is also untrue, for among our workers are many children of lepers who are untainted."

He said the mission maintains fifty-two asylums in Birma, China, Japan, and Korea; twenty homes for untainted children, and thirty stations. Forty-three hundred lepers are dependent upon the mission, and there are 3,600 lepers who profess Christianity.

Mr. Jackson told of frightful conditions in the leper colonies in China, where no sanitation or hygiene has been introduced. "After all my experience," he said, "I was nearly overcome in the last leper colony I visited."

WOMAN'S EXCHANGE BUSY.

Paid $105,922 to Consignors Last Year, Which Was Its Biggest.

The New York Exchange for Woman's Work at its annual meeting held yesterday in its headquarters, 334 Madison Avenue, announced that the work last year done for women in destitute and reduced circumstances was the largest in the thirty-three years of its activity. It has paid $105,922 to those who supply cakes and pies, home-made dishes, fancy articles, embroideries, shirtwaists, and frocks.

Since the founding in 1878 of the Exchange by Mrs. William G. Choate it has paid $1,594,838. There are now more than 1,000 consignors' names in the books of the Exchange.

Mrs. Clinton Gilbert, Mrs. Herbert Johnston, Mrs. Newbold Morris, H. H. Pease, and Mrs. Orme Wilson, Jr., were made members of the Board of Managers. A gift of $1,000 from Mrs. Russell Sage was announced.

SHUBERTS GET PLOT IN TIMES SQUARE

Take 80-Year Lease of Forty-fifth Street Property at Total Rental of $2,460,000.

NOT FOR A THEATRE SITE

Plans Not Made Yet, but an Office Building Will Probably Replace the Present Houses.

A deal of more than ordinary note even among the large operations that have recently taken place in the Times Square district was closed yesterday by the Shuberts, whereby they have obtained control of a large plot adjoining the Astor Theatre, on the north side of Forty-fifth Street. The Shuberts have taken an eighty-year lease on the property now occupied by dwellings from 211 to 225 West Forty-fifth Street, having a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 100.5.

Henry Astor, an uncle of Col. John Jacob Astor, is the owner of the property, and on his death his estate will revert to the Chanler family. The Astor interests were represented in the deal by Ashforth & Co., while Edward Margolies negotiated the lease for the Shuberts. The aggregate rental that the Shuberts will pay under their eighty-year contract is $2,460,000. The property is opposite the Hotel Astor, while its western portion will face the new building about to be erected for The New Theatre.

Lee Shubert, in confirming this latest among the many large realty operations in which the Shubert brothers have been interested, said that he was a firm believer in the permanency of Times Square as a great business centre.

"The great changes of the last few years," said Mr. Shubert, "the increasing number of high-class hotels, theatres, and restaurants, in addition to the growing tendency to erect fine office structures in the Times Square district, all indicate that every foot of property in the locality is bound to become more valuable in the near future for splendid improvements."

Mr. Shubert said he had made no plans for the improvement of his large Forty-fifth Street parcel. He hardly expected to place a theatre there, but intimated that it might become the site of a fireproof office building of twelve stories or more.

Auction for Stage Children's Benefit.

Seats for the benefit to be given at the Broadway Theatre on April 30 for the Stage Children's Fund will be offered at auction at the theatre on the afternoon of Friday, April 28. The auctioneers will be Laura Nelson Hall of "Everywoman," Truly Shattuck of "Alma, Where Do You Live?" and Constance Collier of "Thais." The programme of the entertainment will consist principally of single acts from current plays.

New Features for Winter Garden.

New features will be added to the entertainment at the Winter Garden next week. They will include the Bell family of singers, dancers, and players; George White in a new dance number, Tempest and Sunshine in new songs, Dorothy Jardon in an additional vocal number, and Mlle. Dazie in a new dance. Last night Oscar Radin, musical director of the Winter Garden, received a watch charm from members of the Winter Garden orchestra.

John Cort Moves His Offices.

John Cort moved his offices yesterday from the Knickerbocker Theatre Building to the Fitzgerald Building, in Times Square, at Forty-third Street and Broadway. The offices of the National Theatre Owners' Association, the Northwestern Theatrical Association, J. J. Coleman's Circuit, Albert Weis's American Theatrical Association, C. P. Walker's Winnipeg Circuit, C. A. Marshall's Copper-Iron Circuit, the Chamberlain, Harrington & Kindt Circuit, the Crawford, Philley & Zehrung Circuit, Maurice Jenck's Circuit, the Central States Theatre Company, the Western Managers' Association, the Eastern Theatre Managers' Association, Jake Wells's Bijou Circuit, and C. A. Burt, will also establish their offices in the Fitzgerald Building.

"Parsifal" at Good Friday Matinee.

"Parsifal" was presented again at the Metropolitan Opera House at a special Good Friday matinée yesterday afternoon. Mme. Fremstad sang the part of Kundry, Mr. Jörn sang the title rôle, Mr. Amato was the Amfortas, and Mr. Witherspoon the Gurnemanz. The flower maidens were led by Mme. Fornia, Miss Alten, Mme. Sparkes, Mme. Van Dyck, Mrs. Mattfeld, and Mrs. Wakefield. Mr. Hertz conducted.

Navy Relief Fund Benefit.

The society known as the Navy Relief Fund, of which Admiral Dewey is President, and which raises and distributes funds for the relief of the widows and orphans of the men of the navy, has arranged with the enlisted men of the battleship Michigan, which is now at the New York Yard, for a repetition of the minstrel and vaudeville performance which was very satisfactorily given in Portland Harbor, England, before the officers of the British Home Fleet and their wives on the occasion of the recent visit of our battle fleet squadron to Europe. The entertainment will be at the Grand Central Palace, New York City, at 8 P. M. next Saturday, April 22. The receipts will be devoted entirely to the Navy Relief Fund.

Lecture on French Chateaux.

Under the auspices of the Society for Italian Immigrants, Mrs. James W. Haslehurst will give a lecture on French châteaux, illustrated by lantern slides, at the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Wednesday, April 19, at 3 o'clock, for the benefit of the society's camp schools. During the last six years the society has carried on night classes among the non-English speaking adults of several labor camps.

Tickets may be obtained from Miss Moore, at the society's office, 129 Broad Street.

Among the patronesses are Mrs. Theodore M. Taft, Mrs. William D. Barbour, Mrs. George S. Bowdoin, Mrs. Robert Hoe, Miss Josephine Wisner, and Mrs. Edward S. Harkness.

Miss Ione Page Gives a Dinner.

Miss Ione Page gave a dinner last night at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Page, 121 East Thirty-ninth Street.

The guests were her bridesmaids and several of her married friends, and were Miss Elsie Nicoll, who will be the maid of honor; Mrs. John Cross, who is to be the matron of honor, and Miss Marian Clark, Mrs. Lawrence Breese, Mrs. Joseph Grace, Mrs. Julian Ripley, Miss Susan Street, Mrs. Fuller Potter, Mrs. Sydney Breese, Mrs. Cornelius Bliss, Mrs. Frederick Adams, and Mrs. Louis Starr.

Miss Page's marriage to Courtlandt Nicoll will take place on April 18 at St. George's Church.

Aid to Musical Art Institute Students.

Arrangements have been concluded with the Metropolitan Opera Company under which its manager, Mr. Gatti-Casazza, and one of its conductors, Alfred Hertz, will become members of the Faculty of the Institute of Musical Art, and a limited number of advanced pupils of the operatic department will be permitted to attend rehearsals at the Metropolitan Opera House. These arrangements further contemplate mutual co-operation in affording an opportunity for an operatic career to successful students of the Institute of Musical Art.

"Otello" at the Metropolitan.

"Otello" was performed last evening at the Metropolitan Opera House. The cast included Mrs. Rappold, Miss Maubourg, and Messrs. Slezak and Scotti. Mr. Venturini sang Cassio for the first time at this theatre. Mr. Toscanini conducted.

'LIGHTS O' LONDON' REVIVAL.

George R. Sims's Play to be Produced at Lyric on May 1—The Cast.

"The Deep Purple" will remove from the Lyric to Maxine Elliott's Theatre on Monday, April 24, and the stage of the Lyric will be devoted to rehearsals of William A. Brady's "all star" revival of "Lights o' London," which will be presented on May 1. "Lights o' London" was written by George R. Sims. For this Spring's revival the company will include Holbrook Blinn, William Courtenay, Doris Keane, Marguerite Clark, Thomas A. Wise, Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Richman, Lawrence D'Orsay, Thomas Q. Seabrooke, Leonore Harris, Jeffreys Lewis, and Frank Hatch.

The first performance of "Lights o' London" on any stage was given at the Princess Theatre, London, in September, 1881. In December of the same year Mr. Palmer's production was put on at the Union Square Theatre, with a cast of popular players. J. H. Stoddard had the role of Seth Preene, C. R. Thomas, Jr., was the Harold Armytage, Sarah Jewett played Bess Marks, and the rest of the principal characters were taken as follows: Shakespeare Jarvis, Maud Harrison; Jarvis, John Parselle; Philosopher Jack, Owen Fawcett; Clifford Armytage, Frederick De Belleville; Percy De Vere, Walden Ramsey; Irish policeman, W. H. Montgomery; Hetty Preene, Eleanor Carey; Mrs. Jarvis, Mrs. E. J. Phillips.

SOLD TICKETS OFF STREET

But as He Solicited on Sidewalk, Speculator Is Held Guilty and Fined.

Lew Hart, a theatre ticket speculator, was fined $10 by Magistrate House in the Night Court last night for asking persons to buy theatre tickets from him. Policeman Brady, who made the arrest, said in court that Hart, who was standing just east of the New Amsterdam Theatre, had told two persons that he had good seats for "The Pink Lady," and that he had taken them into a neighboring saloon to conclude the sale.

Hart said that his lawyer had told him that he might solicit custom on the street, but that he must not sell the tickets there, and contended that he was not violating the ordinance by taking his customers off the sidewalk to make the sale.

Magistrate House told him that the lawyer evidently had not read the ordinance carefully. The Magistrate decided that the soliciting of custom on the street constituted the "business of selling theatre tickets," which the ordinance prohibits, and fined Hart $10. He expressed regret that he could not make the fine larger.

Ministers to Favor Arbitration Treaty.

To endorse the efforts of President Taft and Sir Edward Grey for arbitration of all differences between Great Britain and the United States, a meeting of various Ministers' Conferences will be held on Monday at the Calvary Baptist Church. The Ministers' Conferences of the Reformed, the Presbyterian and the Universalist churches are to be present. The Methodist and Congregational churches have other meetings which cannot be postponed, but they will send speakers.

WOMEN OF ALL RANKS IN SUFFRAGE PARADE

They Will Be Grouped by Occupations in March Down Fifth Avenue on May 6.

A SEDAN CHAIR IN LINE

Bearing the Little Lady of Yesterday—Mrs. Mackay's Society to Send a Delegation, but Mrs. Belmont's Won't.

Plans for the suffrage parade down Fifth Avenue on May 6 are now practically completed. Leading the procession will be a big banner, which is the gift of Mrs. William Fain. It will bear the words:

> Forward out of error,
> Leave behind the night;
> Forward through the darkness,
> Forward into life.

This banner will be carried by three young women representing the organizations having the pageant in charge, the Woman's Political Union, the Collegiate Suffrage League, and the Woman Suffrage Party.

Every suffrage organization, except one, in New York will take part in the procession, and there will be women from many other States as well as from all parts of New York State. Mrs. Mackay's Equal Franchise Society will be represented and post cards are being sent to all of the 600 members asking them to be ready. While Mrs. Mackay has showed her sympathy with other suffrage organizations her society, as a rule, has worked by itself. The decision to take part in the parade this year was proposed by Mrs. Edgerton Winthrop, Jr., and heartily supported by Mrs. Mackay herself.

The only suffrage body not taking part officially will be Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's Political Equality Association. Mrs. Belmont wrote in response to an invitation: "I do not care, as an organization, to take part." The individual members of her society will do as they please about marching. There will be a delegation of women physicians from Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, and there will be a group of women voters from the West. Mrs. Phillip Lydig is having a very handsome banner made for the women voters.

Following the leading banner will come a fife and drum band and Scottish pipers. The first part of the procession will represent the early days and the women of that time. A sedan chair is being made to carry the Little Lady of Yesterday. She will be a small woman, not only to represent the smaller-sized women of the grandmothers' days, but to keep down the weight of the chair, now that there are no longer men of trained muscles to carry them. The chair will be made of papier mâché and four men will carry it. They will wear knickerbockers, wigs, and cocked hats. The chair is in charge of Mrs. William Colt.

Following the chair will come a float showing women in the earlier home industries, weaving, spinning, &c., which have now been taken from the home and put into manufactories. Women in industrial pursuits—dressmakers, milliners, janitors, &c.—will follow in squads, and next will be women farmers, actresses, artists, musicians, and writers. A woman's band will march next, leading the business women, social workers, women who drive their own motor cars, aeronauts and explorers, and a woman balloon maker, who will carry a balloon instead of a banner. College women will march in caps and gowns, and there will be women ministers as well as women doctors, lawyers, engineers, architects, teachers, and mothers.

The procession will start at Fifty-seventh Street and Fifth Avenue, but some of the women will come in much later in the procession. They wish to march with the rest, and as far as possible every one will be on foot, but those who have young children will leave them only to come in the last few blocks of the way.

Mrs. Archibald Alexander will lead a delegation from New Jersey. There will be a delegation of girl shirtwaist makers who will carry a crimson banner draped with black.

A special suffrage song has been written for the occasion by Mme. Gregori and set to march music. The procession will start at 3:30, and at 5 o'clock there will be a mass meeting in Union Square.

BACH'S 'PASSION' PERFORMED

His Work, "According to St. John," Receives Its First Hearing Here.

At the Church of the Ascension last evening Bach's "Passion According to St. John" received what is believed to be its first performance in New York. Its companion piece, the "Passion According to St. Matthew," has been in the repertoire of the Oratorio Society for thirty years, but until now nobody here seems to have been interested in presenting the work which Mr. Warren brought forward last night.

This "Passion According to St. John" was performed about ten years ago in Bethlehem, Penn., in the early days of the Bach festivals there.

The performance last night was directed by Richard Henry Warren. The solos were sung by Miss Lucy Marsh, soprano; Mrs. John H. Flagler, contralto; William J. Rieger, tenor; Alphonsus Grien, baritone, and Overton Boyle, bass. Frederick Schlieder played the organ.

SACRILEGIOUS PLAYS BARRED

Gov. Tener Approves Bill Making Their Presentation a Misdemeanor.

HARRISBURG, Penn., April 14.—Gov. Tener has approved the bill making it a misdemeanor to give a dramatic, theatrical, operatic, or vaudeville exhibition, or show any fixed or moving pictures of a sacrilegious or immoral nature. The penalty for violation is a fine not exceeding $1,000, or imprisonment for not more than a year, or both.

At the time the bill was introduced last January the proposed presentation of Rostand's drama "La Samaritaine" by Sarah Bernhardt was causing considerable discussion in Philadelphia.

"A Certain Party" for Wallack's.

To follow "Pomander Walk" at Wallack's Theatre, Liebler & Co. announced yesterday that Mabel Hite in "A Certain Party" would open there on April 24. "A Certain Party" is a musical comedy, written and composed by Frank Ward O'Malley, Edward W. Townsend, Edgar Smith, Vincent Bryan, Henry Blossom, Robert Hood Bowers, Walter Hackett, Hugh Ford, Frank Tannehill, Jr., Jack Mason, and William Collier. In Miss Hite's support will be included Mike Donlin, her husband, the former baseball player.

Concert of Irish Music.

A concert of Irish music, under the direction of Victor Herbert, will be given at the Broadway Theatre to-morrow evening, under the auspices of the Gaelic Society. Mr. Herbert is the First Vice President of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, which organization will make the occasion one of testimonial to him. His orchestra of sixty pieces will play the music, and there will be several vocal solos.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Ignacio Martinetti has been engaged by Charles Bradley to play the leading comedy role in the new comic opera "Will o' the Wisp," that is to be produced in Chicago on May 8.

The 200th performance of "The Gamblers" at Maxine Elliott's Theatre will be given to-night. The play will leave this theatre a week from to-night.

A feature of Dreamland, Coney Island, this season will be a two-ring circus, with two performances a day, for which no extra charge will be made. The features of the show will come from the Busch Circus, Berlin, and the Cirque Nouveau, Paris.

Harry W. Ridings, General Manager for Henry W. Savage, has gone on a two weeks' vacation to Kingston, Jamaica. He sailed last Wednesday.

The Folies Bergere company, with a mechanical force recruited from the Folies and the Hudson Theatre, will go to Atlantic City to-day for final rehearsals of the first entertainment that is to be given at the new amusement house in West Forty-sixth Street. The piece will open at the Apollo Theatre, Atlantic City, Monday evening, and will be put into shape for Broadway during Easter week.

CARTIER BABY BORN.

Mrs. Pierre Cartier Mother of Daughter Born at the Plaza Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Cartier (Miss Elma Rumsey) of Paris are being congratulated over the birth of a daughter yesterday morning at the Plaza, where they have been staying for some time. Mrs. Cartier is the second daughter of the late Moses Rumsey of St. Louis, Mo., and is a sister of Mrs. D. Bryson Delavan of 1 East Thirty-third Street. Her husband is a wealthy Frenchman and a member of an old and honored French family.

GEORGE S. TERRY IS DEAD.

Assistant United States Treasurer at New York Was 71 Years Old.

AIKEN, S. C., April 14.—George S. Terry, Assistant United States Treasurer at New York, died at York Cottage, here, this morning. He had been suffering for a week from an attack of diabetes. A son was the only member of his family who was present at the deathbed. The body was sent this afternoon to New York.

George S. Terry had been Assistant Treasurer at New York from March 1, 1909. He succeeded Hamilton Fish, who resigned when he received the nomination for Congress in November, 1908. Mr. Terry's appointment was held up during the interim because of opposition which developed in Wall Street on the ground that his business experience had not been such as to qualify him for the place. He had served through the Taft campaign as Assistant Treasurer of the Republican County Committee under George R. Sheldon. His appointment had the indorsement of Representatives Herbert Parsons and Van Vechten Olcott.

Mr. Terry began his business career in New York in the dry goods trade after graduating from Williams College. He was born in Hudson, N. Y., seventy-one years ago. His association in the dry goods firm of Opdyke, Terry & Steele, in which he was a partner with ex-Mayor George Opdyke, accentuated his interest in city politics, and he was an active Republican.

During the Strong administration Mr. Terry served as Secretary to the Dock Board, and under Mayor Low he was Secretary of the Park Board. For many years an active member of the Union League Club, he served as secretary of that institution from 1898 to 1902. He was also a member of the New York Yacht Club. For six years before his appointment as Assistant Treasurer he was interested in the development of several industrial enterprises.

GEO. CARY EGGLESTON DEAD.

Author and Journalist Dies After Long Illness, Aged 71.

George Cary Eggleston, journalist and author, died yesterday after an illness of six months at his home, 171 West Ninety-fifth Street. Mr. Eggleston was born in Vevay, Ind., and was 71 years old. He finished his education in Richmond College, Richmond, Va., and he practiced law in that State until the breaking out of the civil war, when he enlisted in the Confederate Army.

After the war he came to New York and entered the newspaper business, becoming literary editor of The Evening Post, editor in chief of Hearth and Home, editor of The Commercial Advertiser, and then editorial writer on The World. He wrote a number of books, among which are "A Rebel's Recollections," "The Signal Boys," "Wreck of the Red Bird," "Southern Soldier's Stories," "Master of Warlock," and "History of the Confederate War."

Mr. Eggleston is survived by his wife and two sons, Dr. Cary Eggleston of this city and Dr. Horace Wardner Eggleston of Binghamton, N. Y.

RICHARD JENKINS, one of the oldest printers in the country, who had been employed for forty-one years by The New York World, died Thursday of an acute attack of asthma and bronchitis, at the age of 82 years. Mr. Jenkins was born in Ireland, where he learned the printing trade.

LUCIUS B. HUTCHINSON, 73 years old, a retired broker, was stricken with apoplexy in his home, 8 Seymour Street, Montclair, N. J., yesterday and died before a physician could be summoned. Mr. Hutchinson was a member of the New York Stock Exchange until six years ago. He lived for several years in Eighty-seventh Street, Manhattan, removing to Montclair about ten years ago.

Col. JOHN H. JANEWAY, retired, died yesterday at the home of his son, John H. Janeway, Jr., at 901 Lexington Avenue, at the age of 81 years. Col. Janeway was graduated from Rutgers College in 1848, and entered the United States Army as an Assistant Surgeon in 1861. He served continuously until 1894, when he was retired by the age limit with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. Col. Janeway was a member of the Delta Phi Club, the Rutgers College Alumni Association, and the Military Order of the Loyal Legion.

ELIJAH S. COWLES, a Jersey City lawyer, died yesterday of heart disease at his home, 282 Barrow Street. He is survived by a widow and daughter. He was born in Coventry, Vt., in 1836, and settled in Jersey City when he was 30 years old. Mr. Cowles was at one time a member of the Board of Education. He founded and was the first President of the Y. M. C. A. of Jersey City.

JOHN DAVIDSON, a prominent lawyer, died yesterday at his home in Elizabeth, N. J. Mr. Davidson was born at Berwick-on-Tweed, Scotland, March 1, 1837, and came to this country when 12 years old. Gen. Grant, when President, tendered Mr. Davidson the appointment of Territorial Governor of Wyoming, but he declined. Mr. Davidson was a founder and a Director in the Citizens' Bank of Elizabeth. He is survived by his widow, a son, William Newcomb Davidson, of Elizabeth, and two daughters, Mrs. Leonard E. Ware of Elizabeth, and Mrs. Hibbin, wife of Prof. John G. Hibbin of Princeton University.

DENMAN THOMPSON, THE ACTOR, DEAD

BEGAN CAREER WITH CIRCUS

Put Real Characters from His New Hampshire Home in Play That Made Him Famous.

WEST SWANZEY, N. H., April 14.—Denman Thompson, the actor whose portrayal of Joshua Whitcomb in his play, "The Old Homestead," made him famous, died at his country estate here early to-day. Mr. Thompson was 78 years old. He had been ill of heart disease and uraemia since last month. Yesterday he had a relapse and last evening he became unconscious.

Gathered about the bedside of the venerable actor when the end came were a number of his closest relatives, including his two daughters, Mrs. Kilpatrick and Mrs. McFarland.

The funeral services, which at the request of Mr. Thompson will be simple and open to the public, will be held from his late homestead here on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The officiating clergyman will be the Rev. H. Sumner Mitchell of the Unitarian Church at Keene. The obsequies over the body of the aged actor will be held in the little cemetery here. As it is expected that many of the actor's friends will attend the services, the family have engaged a special train to run from Keene to this place.

For more than a quarter of a century Denman Thompson played Joshua Whitcomb in "The Old Homestead," but his close association with the part is hardly explained even by that record. Joseph Jefferson was quite as faithful to Rip Van Winkle and Lewis Morrison to Mephistopheles, but neither of them conceived the characters which they for so long interpreted or lived so much amid the scenes they portrayed.

Mr. Thompson was not born in Swanzey, N. H., but lived the most important part of his boyhood there. He was born on Oct. 15, 1833, in Beech Wood, Erie County, Penn., but his father and mother came from Swanzey, and when he was 14 years of age moved back there. Mr. Thompson, Sr., was a carpenter, and the future actor, when he was not at school at Mount Caesar Seminary, worked at the bench and learned to love the country and the quaint people to be found in its quiet farms.

Still he was ambitious, and when he was 17 years old he started off to Boston, much like Reuben in his famous play, to find his fortune. His first job was with Tryon's circus, and for a time he made himself generally useful at bill distributing, caring for stock, and the like. His salary was $3 a week and board and lodging, the accommodation provided being a shake-down in the pole wagon and the rough fare of the performers. He went so far in the circus business as to join a troupe of acrobats, but fortune did not smile on him, and for a time he followed the calling of a bellboy in Adams's Hotel, Boston.

Within a short time, however, young Thompson was again within the flare of the footlights, but this time of the legitimate drama. He became a super in the Howard Atheneum, Boston, and as he carried a spear as a Roman soldier or stood about the stage as a courtier, he kept his eyes open, and by close observation got his first inkling of the theatrical art. He could at any rate boast that he had been one of Miss Charlotte Cushman's support in her Lady Macbeth.

He came to New York, but could only find a job as doorkeeper for a collection of pictures, and was glad enough to take the offer of a place as an assistant with his uncle in his dry goods store in Lowell, Mass. Lowell, however, possessed at that time a museum, and young Thompson spent so much time there that his uncle came to the conclusion that after all the stage was his vocation, and let him have his own way. His first speaking part was as the Oarsman in "The French Spy" in 1852, and two years later, after a brief engagement in Cleveland, Ohio, he began his connection with the stock company of the Royal Lyceum Theatre, Toronto, where he first made his name.

In 1857 he appeared as Uncle Tom, and he was always fond of remembering his impersonation of Sir Lucius O'Trigger to Robson's Bobacres in "The Rivals." He made a trip to England in 1862 with the idea of producing "The Octoroon," but fortune was not very propitious, and he returned to Toronto and the Royal Lyceum stock company. In 1868 he left the stage for a time for business, but was back on the boards again in 1871, touring the country in a number of productions, with no special success till in 1875 his great idea struck him.

He was laid up with rheumatism, an old enemy, in Pittsburg, when it occurred to him that the typical old farmer had never been adequately placed on the stage. He at once elaborated the idea and worked out the scenarios of a twenty-five minutes' sketch of rural life. To get his characters he went back to the old home town, and he even took the names of some of them from the men and women that he had known as a lad in the New Hampshire hills.

Joshua Whitcomb was named after Thompson's old uncle Joshua, and Capt. Otis Whitcomb after an honest, square-dealing farmer. Cy Prime and Len Holbrook were drawn from the very life, and from a veteran, Gen. James Wilson, were borrowed traits that helped to build up another of the characters of the sketch. Joshua Whitcomb was produced for the first time in Martin's Variety Theatre, Pittsburg. For eleven years Thompson stuck to his sketch, and presented it for the first time in New York in September, 1878, at the Lyceum Theatre on Fourteenth Street.

In 1885 Thompson decided that Joshua Whitcomb could be elaborated into a play for a full evening's entertainment. The idea came to him at Lock Haven, Penn., as with George W. Ryer, his business manager, he was traveling from one town to another and was discussing what play he should put on next.

"The Old Homestead" was written, and Mr. Thompson formed a partnership for its production with J. M. Hill, a Chicago merchant, which lasted for six years, and was so profitable that when it terminated it could show a clear profit of $400,000. The play was produced at the Boston Theatre in April, 1886. It ran for four successive seasons in this city, 1888-91, and Mr. Thompson only appeared again in one play. He tried it for two nights, found it a failure, and returned at once to his old favorite.

Mr. Thompson gradually cut out all but the principal cities from his route, and during the Winter of 1910 he created a short sketch something like old Joshua Whitcomb, which he played for two months in vaudeville. This year he started out again with the full play, with the idea of appearing in this city, Philadelphia, Washington, and Boston, but rheumatism overtook him and he was forced to give the idea up.

Once he was asked how the Swanzey folk took the idea of being put into a play, and whether they had gone to see "The Old Homestead."

"They all came to see me when I was in Keene," he replied, "except the minister. He went over to Concord to see me, though, where the Lord would not see him."

No one has computed how many thousand persons saw "The Old Homestead," but it is supposed that it took in $3,000,000. It is not a great play in its plot or its construction, but it is clean and wholesome.

Mr. Thompson married in 1860 Miss Maria Bellou, who died in 1904. He is survived by three children—Mrs. W. I. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. E. A. McFarland, and Franklin Thompson. As he acquired a competency he bought a farm in Swanzey itself, and there he settled down as the most esteemed resident of the neighborhood. Billiards was his favorite recreation till rheumatism deprived him even of that, and it was a familiar sight to see him sitting at the door of the old homestead in a deep easy chair with a row of neighbors on either side, listening to the old man's never failing reminiscences and droll stories.

MME. ANNE JUDIC DEAD.

French Light Opera Singer Toured United States in the '80s.

NICE, France, April 14.—Mme. Anne Marie Louise Judic, famous as a light opera singer, died here to-day.

Mme. Judic was born in Semur, France, July 18, 1850. She was of humble parentage and began her career as a saleswoman in a department store. The beautiful quality of her voice and her vivacious manner obtained for her a scholarship at the Conservatoire in Paris, and after a year of study there she made her début in 1867 at the Gymnase Dramatique in "Les Grandes Demoiselles."

Her first success occurred at the Café Concert Eldorado in 1868. Later she appeared in the Bouffes Parisiens, and in 1872 became a star. Among her successes were "La Belle Helene," "La Perichole," "Mam'zelle Nitouche," "La Grand Duchesse," and "La Fille de Mme. Angot." In the eighties Mme. Judic toured the United States.

PITCHER JOSS DEAD; ILL ONLY FEW DAYS

Famous Cleveland Ball Player Victim of Tubercular Meningitis at Toledo.

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 14.—Adrian C. Joss, a well-known pitcher of the Cleveland American League baseball team, died at his home here at 1:45 o'clock this morning. Death was due to tubercular meningitis, from which he had been a sufferer since last Sunday. Joss was 31 years old. He is survived by a widow and two children. He was a thirty-second degree Mason and a member of the Mystic Shrine.

The Cleveland American League team was here last Sunday, and at that time Joss made it known to Charles Somers, owner of the Cleveland Club, that he was not feeling well. At that time it was thought that Joss's condition was not serious. He was confined to his home, however, and was under the care of Dr. George W. Chapman and a nurse. Joss's condition grew gradually worse, but hopes for his ultimate recovery were held out until last night, when his condition grew rapidly worse. He was conscious to the end, and spoke to his nurse a few minutes before death.

Joss joined the Cleveland American League Club in 1903, under the management of William R. Armour, present owner of the Toledo Club. He became one of the premier pitchers of the country, and had the honor of pitching a no-hit, no-run game against the Chicago White Sox in 1908, his opponent being Ed. Walsh.

Last year Joss's pitching arm became injured while he was in Philadelphia. He was sent to his home in this city, and specialists examined it and found that the trouble was in the elbow. He continued having it treated, and for a time it looked as if he would recover the use of his arm.

Trainer White of the Cleveland Club treated Joss's arm for several weeks this Winter, and early this Spring pronounced the pitcher in condition to take up his duties in the box.

Joss began his baseball career in Juneau, Wis., in 1898, with a semi-professional team. He was "discovered" by Charles J. Strobel, at that time owner of the Toledo Club, in the Inter-State League. Joss joined the Toledo Club and became immediately one of the star twirlers of the league.

Pitcher Coakley Reinstated.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 14.—Notice was served on all National agreement clubs by the National Baseball Commission to-day that hereafter the commission will not consider contentions over exhibition games between clubs of opposite major leagues, or between major and minor league clubs unless the arrangements for such games shall have been made by the respective Presidents of the interested clubs or their certified agents. In case the agent of a club acts for it, its President must file with the commission a certificate of his authority to represent it.

Player A. C. Coakley, who has been on the ineligible list, has been reinstated and all major league clubs have been notified that they will be permitted to arrange exhibition games with clubs under his control.

Tannehill Goes to Rochester.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, April 14.—Jesse Tannehill, the veteran major league pitcher, who tried to "come back" with the Reds in the opening game here on Wednesday, to-day asked for and obtained his unconditional release. He will sign with the Rochester Club, champions of the Eastern League.

Yankees Lose Pitcher McGrainer.

The New York American baseball club yesterday turned Pitcher Howard McGrainer over to the St. Louis Browns. McGrainer went South with the Yankees and showed up well on the Spring trip. Manager Chase asked for waivers on him, but St. Louis refused to waive on the player. McGrainer comes from the Parkersburg club of the Virginia Valley League.

Cleveland Wins from Browns.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 14.—Out of respect to the memory of Addie Joss, the Cleveland pitching star, who died this morning at Toledo, all the players in to-day's game between the St. Louis and Cleveland American League teams wore a band of crepe. The visitors won their first game of the season by 7 to 5. "Lefty" George was knocked out of the box. Score:

Sunday Baseball Games.

The Cuban Star Baseball Club of Havana, Cuba, arrived on the Ward liner Merida last evening. Among the players were Mendez, Munoz, Fallanca, Figorola, Gonzalez, Moran, Chacon, Hidalgo, Palomino, and Cabanas, most of the players being from the crack Almendares Club, which defeated the World Champion Athletics last Fall in Havana. The Stars will open the season to-morrow against the Ridgewoods at Meyerrose Park, Ridgewood, and will then tour the Eastern States.

Mike Donlin's crack team, with Donlin playing first base, will be the attraction to-morrow at Olympic Park, 136th Street and Fifth Avenue, where they will play the Lincoln Giants at 3:30 P. M.

At Hawthorne Field, Brooklyn, to-morrow, McGrath's All Nationals will play the Brooklyn Professionals. In the makeup of the All Nationals will be seen Lew Wiltse, McMurray, Kane, and McDonald.

Shrubb and Queal Ready to Race.

Alfred Shrubb, the world's record holder at running ten miles, and Bill Queal, probably the greatest American exponent of distance running, will compete to-night in a race at ten miles in the Twelfth Regiment Armory for the championship title. Each is said to be in the best possible condition for the contest, which will probably result in the best race at the distance ever seen indoors. Shrubb's recent defeats of all the men he has opposed signalize his return to the form which made him the peer of all runners over a journey. It is said of Queal, however, that he is as good as the Englishman in his palmy days. Along these lines a capital race seems assured. It will be preceded by events which will call to the mark the pick of local experts at three and six miles.

Columbia 1914 Crew Needs $500.

If the Columbia freshmen are to have a crew this year they must procure $500 within a few weeks. The various assistant freshman crew managers have collected $1,550, but as it takes $2,000 for this eight, their work is yet uncompleted. It is probable that if they have trouble getting the remaining subscriptions they will borrow the balance and pay it back after their sophomore show, a custom which has grown among the incoming classes.

TWO POLO PLAYERS HERE FROM ENGLAND

Capts. Lloyd and Wilson Will Practice at Lakewood for Cup Matches.

Capt. Hardress Lloyd and Capt. H. H. Wilson, members of the English polo team, who will attempt the reclamation of the international cup at Meadow Brook in May and June, arrived yesterday on the Lusitania. They form the advance guard of the invaders, the others being Capt. Leslie Cheape, Kings Dragoon Guards, and E. W. E. Palmes, Tenth Hussars, who will arrive next Wednesday on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, and Capt. R. Barrett, Fifteenth Hussars, and Noel Edwards, Ninth Lancers, who sail from England to-day. Capt. Loyd is in the Twenty-first Lancers, and Capt. Wilson won his D. S. O. in South Africa, where he served with the yeomanry.

Capt. Lloyd, who will lead the challengers, has been a successful devotee of the game ever since he left Sandhurst, and it is said that there is no more thorough master of the science, theory, and practice of polo than he.

Capt. Lloyd is visiting this country for the first time, and is decidedly anxious to see a game of baseball, in connection with which he asked if amateurs played the game here. He is a tall man of athletic build and sandy complexion, about 38 years old. Capt. Wilson is of about the same age, but somewhat heavier in build. They will begin their preliminary work at Lakewood to-day.

The English leader was anxious to get a view of the ponies which are being trained at Lakewood under the eye of Robert Bullock, said to be the best handler of polo ponies in England, and in whom Capt. Lloyd has great confidence. In speaking about the chances of his team in the coming series, among other things the Captain said:

"I do not know that we are strikingly confident of success, but I think we have an exceedingly good chance of winning the cup. I feel sure that the team which will represent England this year will be stronger than that which was vanquished two years ago. I am the only member of that team in the present combination, but whereas the side of two years ago was more or less a scratch team, the whole of the players of our team have an intimate knowledge of each others' play.

"All the officers have had polo experience in India and that should be of immense value to us. The grounds out there are harder than here, and consequently the player has to show greater quickness and agility than is the case in England.

"I assume that the game will be played very fast in the coming matches. This will suit our team, because of their training on the Indian polo grounds. We were beaten two years ago because of the speed of the American team.

"In the matter of mounts I think both teams will be on an even footing. We have a large number of splendid animals—we could not have better—although quite a few of them are young and we have yet to test their capabilities. Despite the fact that the American team will be well mounted I do not fear failure through any deficiencies in our mounts.

"It was too rainy just before we left to get in much practice, and we are glad to get here in order to be able to do some work. We will have more than five weeks to practice, and this should give us time enough to get into excellent shape and perfect our team play. I think that by the time the first game is played we will be a first-rate polo combination.

"At the time of the previous match the Americans were individually and collectively superior to our forces, and the beating they gave us was a good thing for our game. I think our play from every standpoint has been benefited by the defeat."

It is the intention of the visitors to leave almost immediately after the Meadow Brook series in order to reach England in time to take part in the championship cup tournament at Hurlingham, which begins about June 19.

Cycle Racing at Vailsburgh.

The cycle racing season will open to-morrow at the new Velodrome track in Vailsburg, N. J. A big field of riders that is the best seen in the East in years will compete in the five races on the programme. The professional races are a mile handicap and a five-mile open. The handicap is called the Easter Handicap, and is a classic in cycle racing. Frank Kramer, the American champion; Jackie Clarke, the Australian champion; Iver Lawson, Paddy Hehir, Joe Fogler, Alfred Goullet, and the Bedell brothers, the cream of the talent from Australia and America, will compete in these events.

The amateur events on the card are a half-mile handicap, three-mile open, and a one-mile novice race. Chris Mohrman, Eddie Goodwin, and Franklin Fisher, the Irish-American Athletic Club team; Willie Van den Dries, R. H. Brown, and Walter Raleigh of the Mercury-Footers, Frank Blatz and other prominent New York amateurs have entered the amateur races.

The new track, which is located across the street from the old Velodrome, is said to be the finest in the world. The world's championships will be held on this track in 1912, and the track was built especially for these events. The grand stand and bleachers will accommodate a crowd of 10,000, and the arena will hold 5,000.

Big Cycle Road Race Entry.

More than 150 entries have been received for the ten mile handicap bicycle race of the Eastern Division of the Century Club Association, which is booked for to-morrow at Floral Park, Long Island. Fifteen clubs are represented in the entry list and there promises to be a hot scramble for the alluring first prize, a racing bicycle. There are also five time prizes, that are expected to produce a whirlwind windup for the ownership, between such cracks as Jack Townsend, Ed. Goodwin, both representing the Irish-American Athletic Club, and Joseph Berlenbach, one of the best riders at the ten mile distance.

The course will be from Floral Park to Westbury and return, which besides being newly macadamized is a very fast course. This will prove a boon to the scratch riders in their attempt to break the record for this distance, as a special prize will be awarded to the rider breaking this record. This is expected to prove one of the big features of the race. There are thirty (30) valuable prizes to be awarded. The race will start at 10 A. M., as it is the desire of the club to have it over with before the heavy motor car Sunday traffic of Long Island commences.

Winners with the Cue.

Alfred De Oro, the champion pool player, who is practicing at John Doyle's Forty-second Street Billiard Academy in preparation for his coming championship match with Jerome Keogh of Rochester, which is scheduled to take place at Doyle's Academy next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, defeated "Broadway" Alec Smith in the final block of the handicap match last night by the score of 134 to 93. The champion's high run was 36, while Smith's best effort netted him 21. The match was of three nights' duration and called for De Oro to make 400 points before Smith could tally 300 points. The total score for the three nights was: De Oro, 400, and Smith, 250.

In the game of the continuation of the amateur Class A pool tournament at Doyle's Academy last night George Greene defeated Al Goertz by the score of 80 to 79. Both contestants displayed excellent form and the game was close throughout. The tournament will be continued on Monday night.

Columbia Sports Carnival.

The Columbia University Track Athletic Association has arranged an elaborate series of sports for May 20. It will consist of an interscholastic track meet and tennis tournament, and an interclass regatta. The track sports will be held on South Field, and the regatta on the Hudson River, between crews representing the various classes, as well as a race between the Central High School of Philadelphia and the freshman class of the university.

Events in the track meet are as follows: One-hundred-yard dash, 220-yard run, 440-yard run, half-mile run, one and two mile runs, 120-yard hurdle race, 220-yard hurdle race, twelve-pound shot, running high jump, running broad jump, pole vault, and one-mile relay, for teams of four. Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be awarded first, second, and third, respectively, in each event, and a banner will be given to the school scoring the greatest number of points.

Taurus in Commission Again.

The fishing boat Taurus will start its regular trips to the Fishing Banks on Sunday. The Taurus will sail every day except Mondays of April, May, November, and December from Pier 1, North River, at 6:20 A. M., to the banks.

Jockey Ralph Ruled Off for Life.

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 14.—Jockey Ralph was ruled off the turf for life this afternoon by Judge Brown owing to his riding of Gus Hartridge in the second race at Kupfrian Park. The reason given was that Ralph apparently had the horse under a stout pull all the way, enabling Charlie O'Brien to win the race by a small margin. The local track is regarded as an outlaw course and Judge Brown's ruling probably will not be recognized by any racing association.

FINE CHAMPIONSHIP ENTRY.

Gymnastic Experts Will Defend Titles Against Strong Field.

Three Amateur Athletic Union gymnastic champions will defend their titles this evening in the annual tournaments for the premiership of America at the West Side Young Men's Christian Association, which has been granted the privilege of running the events. J. D. Gleason of the home organization will be a contestant in the flying rings, while A. Klar, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, and Paul Krimmel, New York Trun-Verein, will attempt to repeat last year's victories in the side horse and parallel bars, respectively. L. C. Everard, Captain of the Yale team and intercollegiate champion at several events, will also make a bid for National honors. The entries in the various events follow:

Rope Climb—G. F. Septhon, St. George A. C.; T. R. Leissring, N. Y. Turn Verein; E. A. Hennig, Germania Turnverein Voerwaerts.

Brooklyn Official Refuses Permits to Fish in Drinking Water.

One Louis Rhead of Flatbush takes up the cudgels for the fresh-water fishermen. Some city official, in Rhead's opinion, has exceeded his authority in prohibiting fishing in some of the supply pools and ponds which form part of the Brooklyn water works system. Here is what he says:

Are you aware that there is splendid pickerel, bass, and trout fishing right close to the city in the various lakes and ponds on Long Island, which furnish drinking water under the control of the Brooklyn City Water Works? Furthermore, that you and I, as citizens and taxpayers, have a legal and legitimate right to fish in those waters so long as we do not pollute or act in an unsanitary manner while on or around the ponds. Do the 50,000 angling citizens round New York City know that the Fish Commissioners planted these game fishes with the taxpayers' money for the people's welfare and benefit? It is a fact that in Hempstead Pond at Rockville Centre, only twenty miles away, there are pickerel up to five pounds, small mouth bass up to six pounds weight, that in Massapequa ponds there are big trout stocked by the State, therefore owned by the people. No official in office, placed there by those "higher up," or by direct vote of the people as a public servant, employed in whatever capacity, receiving an income from the city funds, has any rights in law to stop a citizen and taxpayer from fishing until he commits a misdeed.

A person holding office in the Brooklyn Water Works has just lately seen fit to stop issuing fishing permits under the false assumption that angling pollutes the water. Brother anglers, we must get together, and bite, not bark, if necessary, by legal aid.

Therefore, all those who want good fishing should at once make application for permits to Henry S. Thompson, Commissioner, Department of Water Supply, 21 Park Row, New York City, inclosing stamp for reply. All those who receive a refusal, or get no reply, send it, or notify Louis Rhead, 217 Ocean Avenue, Flatbush, N. Y.

JOCKEYS HURT IN A SPILL.

Adams, Bell, and Connolly Victims—Eddie Dugan Blamed for Mishap.

NORFOLK, Va., April 14.—A spill occurred in the racing at the Jamestown track to-day. In the first race for three-year-olds, won by Black Branch, with Eddie Dugan up, Jockeys Bell and Adams were so badly hurt that they had to be sent to a hospital. There were twelve horses in this race, and Adams, who was on Whin, and Bell, on Kerran, were crowded against the rail in the back stretch. Adams had a leg broken and his arm lacerated by coming in contact with the fence. Bell had a splinter run in the muscles of his right arm and his left shoulder was injured. Jockey Connolly, riding Forester, was thrown in the mix-up and slightly injured.

Eddie Dugan was blamed for the trouble and was suspended from riding the remainder of the present meeting. Dugan is said to have blocked Bell and caused his horse to throw Whin with Adams up. Whin was so badly injured that he was shot on the field. Whin was owned by Albert Simons of Memphis and was considered a fair sprinter. The summary:

FIRST RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward; five and a half furlongs: Black Branch, 104 pounds, (Dugan,) 2 to 1, even, and 3 to 5, won; Bertmont, 94, (Byrne,) 6 to 1, 2 to 1, and even, second; John Mars, 104, (Bergen,) 4 to 1, 2 to 1, and even, third. AMERICANS PRAISED FOR THEIR TENNIS

British Expert Says That Larned Is Probably Best Player in the World.

W. A. Larned, the American champion tennis player, is probably the best player in the world for general mastery of the game, says A. E. Crawley in The Pall Mall Gazette.

In commenting on the coming season on the British courts Crawley also says that the year promises to be phenomenal in international interest. There will certainly be a Davis Cup competition, and probably in England. In the early portion several Australian players of note will be going around our tournaments, and at Wimbledon there will be an unparalleled attack upon the championship. This (we have it on official authority) is the world's championship.

Beals C. Wright of Boston, who came so near to it last year, will not be here. But America's champion, W. A. Larned, and the three amazing young Californians, Bundy, McLoughlin, and Long, are coming. Their advent will be momentous.

Larned's ground play is English; his game has no peculiarities and no weakness. Few men have had more experience or possess a finer record, and no one is a better general. If he gets through and meets Wilding, the result will be great.

Bundy's rise last year was meteoric in brilliancy. He beat Wright, and nearly beat Larned in the challenge round of the U. S. A. Championship. He and the two other men are new to England. Long and McLoughlin are to be classed with Alexander for brilliance and severity. This American contingent is the strongest that any other country has ever sent to Wimbledon. It contains a large proportion of that conquering quality known as genius.

Australasia, in her turn, sends R. W. Heath, Dunlop, and Doust. Dunlop has done great things as Brookes's partner; Heath is said to be brilliant. Last year Brookes was beaten by Wilding and Parker. Three years ago the most spectacular figure in the lawn tennis world, he is still to be reckoned with. Unfortunately, there seems no hope of his coming. Latest advices speak of his making a golf tour in the States. Doust is the quickest and one of the best volleyers, but he is not likely to reach the final stage.

If, as is hoped, South Africa and America play their Davis Cup tie in England, the South Africans will doubtless take part in the championships.

The appearance of the young Germans, the brothers Kleinschroth, will be interesting. One has defeated Froitzheim; they are not unlike the Dohertys in style and personality. Froitzheim will probably not compete. Of late he has been a disappointing player. F. W. Rahe ran Wilding, a few weeks ago, to five sets. He is a fine player, and has improved, but genius is not yet to be ascribed to his game.

England will have to rely on her younger players. Gore, the embodiment of British virile pluck, will compete, but he is past his prime. Ritchie and Barrett will have no chance against any of the Americans or Brookes. Of the younger men, C. P. Dixon is the oldest and most experienced, but, fine and reliable player as he is, he is not quite up to championship form. He is slow against strong men, and against weaker men is fond of losing a set or two.

Last year the brothers Lowe came right to the front. But there is not much "character" in their game. Crawley and Parke possess this quality, but they are not reliable, as the Lowes certainly are. Of the others, Mavrogordato, Beamish, and K. Powell are the best, but a class below those already mentioned. Zimmerman is a young player of extraordinary promise, but he rarely plays. J. M. Boucher, the equal of S. H. Smith, cannot be persuaded to compete, nor will E. R. Allen, who beat Gore, giving him a sixth, last year, ever be tempted to Wimbledon.

Our chances are slight, but we have young players of great possibilities, and you never can tell. One of them may "arrive."

Meanwhile, the holder of the championship, whom it is difficult to remember is a New Zealander, is at the top of his form, and, as always, a miracle of fitness.

ORPHANS' DAY OUTING.

Annual Automobile Event Will Be Held July 7.

The initial meeting of the Directors for the seventh annual Orphans' Automobile Day was held yesterday at the President's office, 7 West Sixty-first Street, when plans were adopted for the parade. Col. K. C. Pardee was again elected President and W. J. Morgan Vice President. The date for the automobile day for the orphan children was set for July 7, and many cars were promised by various firms and individuals in the city. Mrs. J. D. Smith, whose excellent work last year brought many cars for the youngsters' entertainment, was again placed at the head of the Ladies' Auxiliary Committee.

The offices of the committee will be located in the Ehret Building, Fifty-eighth Street and Broadway, and meetings will be held every week. The next meeting will be preceded by a luncheon for the Directors at the Hotel Marie Antoinette on Thursday. H. Martin was placed in charge of the truck division and Fred Stidham will act as Assistant Secretary. Several offers were received to feed the children, but these will be considered at a later meeting of the Directors. The new organization consists of Col. K. C. Pardee, President; W. J. Morgan, Vice President; William Poertner, Treasurer; F. H. Elliott, Secretary, and the Board of Directors as follows: Col. K. C. Pardee, A. J. Inderrieden, C. W. Wurster, Carl H. Page, W. J. Morgan, F. H. Elliott, Hall Sheridan, Paul B. Pugh, Mrs. J. D. Smith, and Frank J. Griffin.

Al Reeves Has a New Job.

Alfred Reeves has tendered his resignation as General Manager of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers, and on May 1 will become General Sales Manager of the United States Motor Company, which markets Maxwell, Stoddard-Dayton, Columbia, Brush and Sampson cars, with headquarters in New York. Mr. Reeves has been identified with the automobile trade since its inception and for the past year and a half has been General Manager of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers, which is now merging into the new Automobile Board of Trade, that was incorporated at Albany Thursday.

Many Entries for Bulldog Show.

With entries far in excess of the number expected, the officials of the French Bulldog Club of America, under whose auspices the bulldog show at the Hotel Astor on April 20 will be held, are confident that the affair will be a big success. Among the important entries which will be seen at this show is that of Miss Mary Winthrop's Champion Charlemagne of Amersham, which has not only beaten everything in Europe, but has swept the boards in all the important American shows. Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, and many other cities of equal prominence will be represented by a good list of entries.

Spring Football Practice at Cornell.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 14.—Spring football practice at Cornell will begin next Monday under the direction of Daniel A. Reed, head field coach of the eleven, and who will be in charge next Fall. Reed has ordered out all of the men who expect to try for the team next Fall, especially all freshmen. Only men interested in other athletics will be excused. Alumni field is being rolled this week. The men will have training quarters in the armory. It is expected that the work will continue until May.

Weight Events in Penn's Relay Meet.

The special events at Pennsylvania's relay races have become famous both for their high standard of performance and for the fact that they bring into competition both the East and the West and incidentally the graduate stars with the undergraduate. The weight events this year will, as usual, bring out some very fine performers, but they will be especially interesting in showing the public what weight material is in college to replace the men graduated last year. Talbot, formerly of State and Cornell, and Horner of Michigan, the present shotput champion, will be the stars in these events. Tilley of Dartmouth is the man most likely to give Talbot a tussle in the hammer. He has been doing close to 160 feet in practice, with an occasional throw over that distance. Murphy of Pennsylvania, Simons of Princeton, and Merserau of Yale are three other men that are likely to get in a good throw.

Amateur Rowing in Great Britain.

Coronation Henley is to be marked by entries from Canada, Germany, Holland, and, from all accounts, Australia. They will be opposed by strong Oxford, Cambridge, Leander, London, Thames, and other leading metropolitan clubs' representatives, at least. The Belgians appear undecided as to their competing for the Grand again, but it is to be hoped they may. In that case, they will see several British combinations rowing in their own much-discussed style. The Thames Rowing Club, Anglian, Auriol, and other crews promise to still further improve upon their 1910 form.

Apropos the Belgians, it is probable a representative Cambridge eight will oppose them over their own course at Cleyson-Terdonck during the present season. This contest would create universal excitement for two especial reasons:

(a) It would be pre-eminently a battle of styles.

(b) The vexed question as to whether the Belgian style is as effective over a long distance as it is undoubtedly over the Henley course would be satisfactorily solved.

King George's gift of a silver cup for special competition at the Dublin metropolitan regatta, June 22-23, will give a great fillip to amateur rowing in Ireland, where "wetbobs" are already very busy. Trinity College men—popular favorites at Henley—will compete both for that event and at the royal meeting this season. Special coronation prizes are to be provided at many of the English provincial regattas this season. It is expected that they will attract crews from the Thames and the 'Varsities.

CONDITIONS OF TRADE.

Commenting on general business conditions, Dun's Review says:

The trade movement is disappointingly slow notwithstanding the fundamentally sound industrial and agricultural conditions. The earlier outlook of the year for increased activity has not been confirmed and reports from the largest trades are of recession rather than of progress. Yet so great are the daily needs of this immense nation that the volume of transactions is larger than the tone of the market reports would indicate. Outside of New York this volume of trade, as measured by bank clearings, is only 1.5 per cent. less than last year, while it is 8.6 per cent. larger than in 1909. But as speculation is more depressed than for many years, the clearings in New York are 11.1 per cent. under those of 1910 and 0.2 per cent. less than in 1909. Railroad earnings in the first week of April increased 1.8 per cent. over last year.

The dry goods markets are also quiet, with continued cotton mill curtailment, and with the wool trade affected by talk of tariff changes. The shoe trade is somewhat improved. But in spite of the immediate slowing down of general business, the basic economic conditions are steadily improving. Best of all is the excellent outlook for the wheat crop.

With the soil yielding its annual income of $7,000,000,000, with the international money markets able to finance any new requirements of legitimate business enterprise, with marked cheerfulness and confidence displayed abroad, and with our export trade expanding, the situation is far better than the current trade reports reveal. The foreign commerce of the Port of New York in the latest week amounted to $34,488,872, against $32,691,413 in 1910, and $29,380,815 in 1909. The exports were $14,405,165, or $5,678,542 under the imports, against $13,402,988 in 1910, when the excess imports were $5,885,437.

Bradstreet's says:

Requirements incident to Easter week have caused some expansion in retail trade, but the turnover has been below expectations. Throughout a large part of the country, weather conditions, which have been too cool, rainy, or windy, have militated against anything like active movement. At the same time, untoward conditions, inactive trade, lack of steady employment, and curtailed profits affecting one or the other of the divers chains of commerce and industry, seem to restrict the purchasing power of the public. Jobbing trade lacks snap, because merchants everywhere are inclined to buy for present needs only. In some special lines reduced prices have attracted trade, but it is evident that declining prices, similarly to high prices a year ago, together with other elements, tariff discussions, and prospective trust decisions, make for uncertainty, tend to encourage buyers to wait for still lower quotations and for further bargains.

This hand-to-mouth buying means that speculation is absent—that stocks are being kept in comfortable shape—all of which, added to the lower cost of foodstuffs, would suggest that fundamental conditions are favorable. Producers, of course, must accept diminished profits, but urban consumers, who have been feeling the burdens of high prices, will be enabled to save more than heretofore, and this in the long run will make for an enhanced spending power of such classes. Trade in coal has improved a little, and therefore traffic over the railways has expanded, and there is slightly more doing in flour, but other important lines, save millinery, display little progress. Textiles in general continue dull, and though spurts of buying have been witnessed on some days, the general movement in that respect is a ragged one.

POTASH SUIT FOR $750,000.

Owing to Trouble in Germany, New York Company Could Not Deliver.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 14.—A $750,000 suit growing out of the German potash controversy was filed here to-day by the F. S. Royster Guano Company of Norfolk, Va., against the International Agricultural Corporation of New York, alleging breach of contract.

The Norfolk concern charges that the agricultural corporation refused to furnish it with a certain quality of potash during the years 1910 and 1911, which it had contracted for the year previous. It is said that the New York company has large potash interests in Germany.

Largest Nassau County Mortgage.

MINEOLA, L. I., April 14.—One of the largest mortgages ever filed in Nassau County was that given by the Queens Water Company to the Guarantee Trust Company of New York City for $1,500,000, and filed in the County Clerk's office here to-day. The mortgage is to bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent., and is given by the mortgagor for the purpose of making extensive improvements on its property in Queens and Nassau Counties.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following foreign trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to:

6,536. AUTOMATIC DISTRIBUTORS.—A dealer in mechanical appliances and machinery in France informs an American Consular officer that he desires to enter into relations with American manufacturers of automatic distributors for bars and cafes.

6,537. PROPOSED RAILWAY IN BULGARIA.—Consul General Roland B. Harvey of Bucharest, Roumania, reports that the following notice appeared in the Bulgarian official paper, Obavlencia: Ministry of Public Works, Ways, and Communications, General Administration for the Construction of Railroads and Ports, brings to the notice of those who may be interested, that on May 1, at the House of Parliament, sealed bids will be received, subject to a forfeit, for a railroad line from Radomir to Doupnizia, (about 41,900 kilometers long.) In order to be admitted as a competitor bidders are required to deposit with the Banque Nationale Bulgare a forfeit for 230,000 francs in gold, either in specie, Bulgarian Government bonds, or bank certificates. Specifications, plans of the locality, and the elevations can be procured upon the payment of 50 francs, and descriptions of the nature of the work will be given by the administration. Sealed bids should be addressed "Offre Pour La Construction De La Ligne De Chemin De fer Radimir-Doupnizia," and should be delivered before 10 A. M., May 1, 1911. The expenses for the publications are to be borne by the successful bidder. The territory to be traversed by the proposed line is adjacent to the Turkish frontier, and is a mountainous country.

6,538. ELECTRIC SIGNS AND APPLIANCES.—An electrical engineer in France has written to an American firm that he would like to enter into correspondence with American manufacturers of electrical advertising signs and other electrical appliances with a view to securing the agency for Paris or the whole of France.

6,539. REFINED BISMUTH METAL.—The Bureau of Manufactures is in receipt of an inquiry from abroad for the names of firms in the United States able to supply refined bismuth metal. The inquirer is interested in this line for manufacturing chemical bismuth preparations, and the requirements at present are for 500 kilos a month, with a gradual increase in the quantities needed if regular deliveries can be relied on. The firm desires by parcels post one bar of about 4 kilos for testing purposes, and at the same time lowest prices for cases of about 100 kilos f. o. b. New York for cash payment against documents. References are furnished.

6,540. APPLIANCES FOR FIRE PREVENTION AND PROTECTION.—The chief of the Fire Department of a European city, who is also an official of an international competition for firemen and appliances adapted for fire prevention and protection to be held in connection with an international exposition that opens April 29, has asked an American Consul for the names of the leading American fire chiefs and the most important American manufacturers producing appliances that have to do in any way with fire prevention and protection. The information is desired in order that printed matter and notices regarding the competition in question may be forwarded to them.

6,541. ROUND HOUSE AND RAILROAD REPAIR SHOPS.—An American Consul in a Latin-American country reports that the local Government has under consideration the construction of extensive round houses and railroad repair shops, at a cost of $60,000 to $70,000. The plans have been prepared, and it is expected construction work will be begun before the end of the year. It is proposed to put in up-to-date machinery suitable to rebuild an engine or thoroughly overhaul a coach. The Consul states this would afford an opportunity for American machinery, and those interested should address an official whose name is given in the report.

6,542. ST. IGNATIUS BEANS.—An inquiry has been received by an American Consular officer for the names of reliable firms in the Philippine Islands that can ship to London St. Ignatius beans. The firm requires a submission of good type samples, with prices both free on board, Philippine port, and cost, insurance, and freight, London, Liverpool, or Glasgow, as it would be necessary during the organization of the business to have beans examined before definite values could be arrived at and orders placed.

MINING STOCK QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14.—Con. Virginia was the sensation of the day on the Comstock market, opening at $2.25. Ten days ago the stock sold at $1.17½, but reports of the strike on the 1,650-foot level made every one eager to buy. Thousands of shares were sold, when 60,000 shares of stock belonging to the late Charles E. Paxton were dumped on the market. These depressed everything, carrying Con. Virginia down to $1.80 and Mexican to $3.80. All the Comstocks, however, closed strong.

NEW HAVEN R. R. RETRENCHES

Operating Expenses Curtailed; Also Purchases of Material.

NEW HAVEN, April 14.—In the last annual report of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company an official estimate was made for the present fiscal year of a net increase of operating expenses of $850,000 due to the excess of increased wages over added passenger receipts. It is now stated authoritatively that the retrenchments of the last few weeks have been on a scale that for a year would nearly, if not quite, cover the wage additions.

While the economies have many of them been in the operating department, they also include some discontinuance of improvements and greatly reduced purchases of new material. The freight train service has been considerably reduced, but there has thus far been but slight change of passenger train operations. Discharges and reduced hours have already affected more than 1,000 employes, and the retrenchments will continue. The economies are the more significant, as they come at a period of the year when the preparation for Summer traffic usually calls for a marked increase of train service and of payroll.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

To the Stockholders of Bush Terminal Company:

Please take notice that a Special Meeting of the stockholders of Bush Terminal Company will be held on Monday, April 24, 1911, at the office of the Company, No. 100 Broad Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, at 2:30 o'clock P. M., for the following purposes:

(1) To pass upon the proposed changes in the terms and conditions of the bonds issued and to be issued by Bush Terminal Buildings Company under its mortgage of April 1, 1910, and proposed mortgage supplemental thereto to the Columbia Trust Company, as Trustee, and to take such action in connection with the guarantee by this Company of the due and punctual payment of the principal and interest of said bonds as to the meeting may seem desirable.

(2) To pass upon the terms and conditions of the proposed supplemental mortgage of said Bush Terminal Buildings Company to the Columbia Trust Company, as Trustee.

(3) To authorize the officers of this Company to execute such contracts, waivers, certificates, and other instruments incident to any change in the terms and conditions of said bonds; the approval of said proposed supplemental mortgage and said guarantee by this Company, as may seem proper, and to transact such other business in connection with said guarantee by this Company as may come before the meeting.

(4) To authorize the decrease of the capital stock of this Company from Eight million five hundred thousand ($8,500,000) Dollars to Seven million ($7,000,000) Dollars by means of the cancellation of the existing preferred stock of this Company, which, pursuant to resolutions of the Board of Directors, has been exchanged for common stock.

(5) To authorize the increase of the capital stock of this Company from Seven million ($7,000,000) Dollars, if it shall have been reduced as aforesaid, to Twelve million ($12,000,000) dollars.

(6) To authorize the issue by this Company, if its capital stock shall have been increased as aforesaid, of Five million ($5,000,000) Dollars par value, being the amount of such increase, of preferred cumulative 6% stock, retirable at any time at the option of this Company at 110% and accrued dividends.

(7) To consent to the authorization from time to time of similar additional preferred stock of this Company not exceeding Five million ($5,000,000) Dollars par value thereof, upon the vote or written consent of a majority of this Company's Directors and of a majority in interest of the holders of all of the capital stock of this Company, preferred and common, then outstanding.

(8) To consent to the authorization from time to time of similar additional preferred stock of this Company not exceeding Five million ($5,000,000) Dollars par value thereof, if all the preferred stock of this Company above mentioned shall have been issued, upon the vote or written consent of a majority of this Company's Directors and of a majority in interest of the holders of common stock of this Company and of a majority in interest of the holders of preferred stock of this Company outstanding at such time or times.

THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILWAY COMPANY.
NOTICE OF SPECIAL STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING.

Notice is hereby given that a special meeting of the Stockholders of The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company has been called by the Board of Directors of said Company, to be held at the principal office of the Company in the City of Richmond, Virginia, on Saturday, the 29th day of April, 1911, at 11 o'clock A. M., for the following purposes:

(a) to consent to, approve and authorize the creation and issue of mortgage bonds of the Company to be limited to a principal amount, in United States gold coin, of $125,000,000 at any one time outstanding; such bonds to mature at such date, and to bear interest from such date and at such rate or rates, not exceeding five per cent. per annum, as the Board of Directors or the Executive Committee of the Company may determine; to be issuable for such purposes, upon and subject to such terms and conditions and in such denominations, to be payable, both principal and interest, at such place or places, in such currency or currencies and at such rate or rates of exchange, and to be in such form and to contain such terms and provisions, as said Board or said Committee may determine;

(b) to consent to, approve and authorize the execution and delivery of a mortgage and deed of trust on and of all or any part of the railroads, equipment, franchises, and property, including corporate stocks and obligations, owned by the Company at the date of the execution and delivery of such mortgage and deed of trust or at any time thereafter acquired by it; such mortgage and deed of trust to secure not only such bonds but also, in pursuance of covenants heretofore made by the Company and otherwise, to secure, in such manner and to such extent as may be authorized or approved by the Board of Directors or Stockholders of the Company, not exceeding $37,200,000, face amount, of the Four and One-Half Per Cent. Twenty-Year Convertible Gold Bonds of the Company, issued or issuable under the trust indenture, bearing date April 28, 1910, between the Company and United States Mortgage and Trust Company, as Trustee;

(c) to approve, or to authorize the Board of Directors of the Company in its discretion to determine, the form and terms of such mortgage and deed of trust, and the property of the Company to be embraced therein;

(d) to ratify and confirm and to authorize and consent to any action theretofore taken or authorized by said Board of Directors or by the Executive Committee of the Company, which may be submitted to the meeting, whether for the purposes of or in connection with or in contemplation of any of the matters aforesaid or otherwise; and

(e) to transact such other business as may be brought before the meeting.

The stock transfer books of the Company will be closed for such meeting on Monday, the 10th day of April, 1911, at 3 o'clock P. M., and will be reopened on Monday, the 1st day of May, 1911, at 10 o'clock A. M.

Dated, Richmond, Va., March 27, 1911.
By order of the Board of Directors.
JAS. STEUART MACKIE, Secretary.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF BUSH TERMINAL BUILDINGS COMPANY:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that a Special Meeting of the Stockholders of Bush Terminal Buildings Company will be held on Monday, April 24, 1911, at the office of the Company, No. 100 Broad Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, at 2 o'clock P. M., to consider and take action upon the following propositions:

(1) To authorize the making, execution and delivery of an indenture with Columbia Trust Company of the City of New York, as Trustee, supplemental to the First Mortgage and Deed of Trust of this Company, dated April 1, 1910, specifically conveying to said Trustee certain properties acquired by this Company since the execution and delivery of its said First Mortgage and Deed of Trust, and also amending, changing and waiving such of the terms and provisions of said First Mortgage and Deed of Trust and in such manner as to the meeting may seem proper.

(2) To authorize the increase of the capital stock of this Company from Ten thousand ($10,000) Dollars to Seven million ten thousand ($7,010,000) Dollars.

(3) To authorize the issue by this Company, if its capital stock shall have been increased as aforesaid, of Seven million ($7,000,000) Dollars par value, being the amount of such increase, of preferred cumulative seven per cent. (7%) stock.

(4) To amend the Certificate of Incorporation of this Company so as to provide that the holders of preferred stock of this Company shall not be entitled to vote at any meeting of its stockholders.

(5) To consent to the authorization from time to time of similar additional preferred stock of this Company not exceeding Five million ($5,000,000) Dollars par value thereof, upon the written consent of the holders of a majority in interest of the common stock and of a majority in interest of the holders of the preferred stock of this Company.

Dated New York, April 6th, 1911.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF LIQUIDATION OF THE CITY DEBT.
Room 206, City Hall Annex.
New Orleans, La., April 4th, 1911.

The Board of Liquidation of City Debt, acting under authority of Act No. 19 of the General Assembly of the State of Louisiana for the Session of 1906, and Act No. 116 of said General Assembly for the Session of 1908, and Act No. 23 of said General Assembly for the Session of 1910, as amended by Act No. 5 of said General Assembly for the Second Extra Session of 1910, which said Acts No. 19 of 1906 and No. 116 of 1908 have been adopted and ratified by Constitutional Amendment, and have become part of the Constitution of the State of Louisiana, will receive sealed proposals at its office in the City of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, up to twelve o'clock noon on the eighth day of May, 1911, for the purchase of $7,000,000.00 in face value of New Public Improvement Bonds of the City of New Orleans, authorized by and to be issued under and subject to the provisions of the acts aforementioned, and the Constitutional Amendments ratifying same.

Said bonds are of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars each and bear interest at the rate of four per cent. (4%) per annum, evidenced by interest coupons attached, payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July of each year respectively. Said bonds are by law exempt from taxation, State, Parish, and Municipal.

Said bonds are payable January 1, 1942, and are subject to call at the option of the City of New Orleans after January 1, 1928, and are and will be issued under and subject to the statutes aforementioned, all of which are hereby referred to and made part of this advertisement for greater certainty and particularity.

Said proposals shall be received under and subject to the following conditions to wit:

1. That no sale shall be made of any of the said bonds unless the aggregate of bids received shall be for the full amount of said bonds, to wit, $7,000,000.00 in face value.

2. Said bonds shall be adjudicated to the highest bidder or bidders, provided that said bonds, or any part thereof, shall not be adjudicated for less than par and accrued interest, less a commission or deduction not to exceed six per centum (6%) on the principal thereof.

3. All matured interest coupons on said bonds shall be cut from said bonds and canceled, and the successful bidder or bidders shall pay the interest which may have accrued on said bonds up to the date of delivery.

4. Said bonds shall be paid for by the successful bidder or bidders in cash as fast as they can be signed and delivered, and all of said bonds shall be delivered in not more than sixty days from the date of the opening of said bids.

5. No bid will be received or considered unless accompanied by a certified check on some chartered bank in the City of New Orleans for an amount equal to three per cent. of the amount of the said bid; said check shall be made to the order of the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt, and the check or checks of the successful bidder or bidders shall be cashed and the proceeds retained by the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt as a guarantee that the successful bidder or bidders, respectively, will comply with its or their bids, and the said proceeds shall be applied to the payment of the bonds last delivered to the said bidder or bidders respectively. In case of the neglect or refusal to comply with any bid the proceeds of said check shall be forfeited to the Sewerage & Water Board.

6. Any local bank or banks that may bid for said bonds may stipulate in its or their bids that it or they desire to be awarded the custody of the Public Improvement Fund, as provided by Act. No. 23 of the General Assembly for the Session of 1910, amended by Act No. 5 of said General Assembly for the Second Extra Session of 1910.

7. If any local bank or banks should, pursuant to the statutes aforesaid, be awarded the custody and deposit of the Public Improvement Fund, as established by law, the said local bank or banks shall be required to pay the rate of interest on daily balances as may be fixed by the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt, pursuant to the statutes aforementioned, and shall comply with all the provisions of said statutes as to security and other matters.

8. The Board of Liquidation of the City Debt reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Further particulars and information will be furnished upon application to T. Wolfe, Jr., Secretary Board of Liquidation, City Debt, Room 206, City Hall Annex, New Orleans, La.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Shuberts Lease Another Big Plot in Times Square for Eighty Years at $2,460,000—Third Avenue Corner Traded for Loft Zone Property—Brooklyn Deals.

Times Square furnished the largest realty transaction yesterday in an eighty years' lease aggregating $2,460,000, taken by the Shuberts from Henry Astor on a 160-foot frontage from 111 to 125 West Forty-fifth Street, adjoining the Astor Theatre and opposite the Astor Hotel.

The prospective improvement is a high-class office building. Edward Margolies represented the Shuberts in the transaction and Ashforth & Co. the owner of the property. The Shuberts have been active operators in the Times Square section, and only the preceding day THE TIMES published their lease on a long term of the southwest corner of Sixth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street.

The theatre movement in the upper west side has shown exceptional activity lately, and the latest announcement of a new playhouse in that locality involves the northeast corner of Broadway and 110th Street, a plot 100 by 100. It is reported that Marcus Loew, who has a string of vaudeville and moving picture houses throughout the country, has obtained a long lease on the property from the estate of Robert Westcott. Several old brick and frame buildings are on the plot.

Opposite is the big Hendrick Hudson apartment house and to the east the street, now known as Cathedral Parkway, has been highly improved with tall apartment structures. Only a short time ago announcement was made of the theatre operation now under way on the northwest corner of Broadway and Ninety-sixth Street.

Third Av. Corner in Loft Zone Trade.

Jesse W. Ehrich has sold through A. L. Mordecai & Son, Inc., the northeast corner of Third Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street, a six-story store and apartment house, on a plot 40.5 by 100. The purchaser is Hedwig Glass, who gave in exchange the premises 156, 158, and 160 West Thirty-fifth Street, three old private dwellings, on plot 55 by 98.9. The amount involved in the transaction was about $240,000.

The same brokers sold for a client to Jesse W. Ehrich 317 East Forty-fourth Street, a four-story tenement on a plot 26.2 by 100.8.

Important Addition to New Art Centre.

Another fine residence in the Fifth Avenue section has been claimed by business, the home of the late Joseph Larocque at 6 East Fifty-sixth Street, having been leased by Pease & Elliman to P. W. French & Co., dealers in antiques.

A new building will be erected on the site at once which will contain one of the finest galleries in the city for the exhibition of tapestries and works of art. A feature in the construction of the new building will be special fireproof and burglar-proof vaults for the storage and protection of a most valuable collection of antique tapestries.

Greenwich Village Dwelling Sold.

Another old dwelling in the heart of Greenwich Village was disposed of yesterday to an investor, and will probably be altered for business. The structure, which is located at 66 Bedford Street, near Morton, on a lot 18 by 60, has been held for years by the estate of Rachel Coley.

Good Demand for Private Dwellings.

Private dwellings proved a feature of yesterday's market, the demand being especially good for high-class houses on the upper west side. In the West End Avenue section Slawson & Hobbs sold for Harriet Nutley 281 West Seventy-first Street, a three-story dwelling on a lot 16 by 92.2. The property adjoins the northeast corner of West End Avenue.

In West Harlem, Clarence E. Hutchinson sold for a Mrs. Wallach 160 West 132d Street, a three-story and basement brownstone dwelling on a lot 20 by 100. The buyer gives in exchange 318 Sixteenth Avenue, Astoria, L. I., a two-story frame house on a lot 25 by 200, running through to Seventeenth Avenue.

On Washington Heights, where there has been considerable activity in this class of realty during the past week, Hayden & Co. sold for Elsie F. Brockholst 732 St. Nicholas Avenue, a four-story dwelling on lot 30 by 100. The seller acquired the property in December, through the same brokers, from the estate of A. Gelstein.

Farm Traded for Tenements.

E. A. Johnson has exchanged for Augusta Samuels two six-story tenement houses, 60 and 64 West 134th Street, W. H. Hall taking these houses and giving in exchange a farm in Connecticut.

Bronx.

F. M. Weiss & Co. have sold three lots on the south side of Silver Street, 116 feet west of Williamsbridge Road, known as Lots 303, 304, and 305 on map of William Adee estate, for Alvey A. Adee to the Wellman Finance and Realty Company. The plot is 75 by 100 by 139.

Brooklyn.

H. B. Duryea has sold through T. P. Fitzsimons the three-story brick building on the northeast corner of Washington and High Streets, Brooklyn, and known as 157 Washington Street, to Wallace G. Raudenbusch, who has been the tenant in possession for many years past. This building is directly opposite the former entrance to the Brooklyn Bridge.

William M. King has sold for the Wood-Harmon Company for a consideration of $20,000 the corner of Bedford Avenue and Clarkson Street, size 65 by 160, to a New York syndicate, which will immediately erect a mammoth garage, as this location is the centre of automobile traffic through Flatbush.

Charles E. Rickerson has sold a plot on the south side of Carroll Street, 200 feet west of Prospect Park West, for Charles R. Waentig to a client, who will build on the property. The size of the lot is 32.8 by 90.3.

Suburban.

Dudley P. Power has sold for Henry C. Strebe his property of four acres on the Nyack Turnpike, West Nyack, Rockland County, N. Y., to Charles Duval of Jersey City.

Clausen W. Hoyt has sold the Marshall Driggs estate on South Avenue, New Canaan, Conn., comprising about twelve acres and a fine residence.

Recent Buyers.

George H. Mallory is the buyer of 463 West 148th Street, a private dwelling, sold recently.

John P. Leo is the buyer of the plot 50 by 100, northeast corner of St. Nicholas Avenue and 160th Street, sold by the Newman Holding Company. A modern apartment will be erected on the site.

The corporation of Newtown Creek Dry Dock Properties is the purchaser of the new twelve-story store and loft building at 53 to 57 West Thirty-sixth Street, sold recently by the Fackner-Coats Construction Company.

Leases.

Carstein & Linnekin have rented to Spielmann & Co., bankers, the first loft in the Pocono Building, southeast corner of Fourth Avenue and Nineteenth Street, for a term of years, to be used as banking offices. This completes the renting of the building by the agents in exactly one year, and it now nets the owners 12 per cent. on their investment.

Frederick Fox & Co have leased for the O. B. Potter Trust the third loft at the southeast corner of Broadway and Astor Place for a term of years to Joseph Benn & Sons, Incorporated; for Marcus Kempner, the store and basement at 50 East Tenth Street, to Alexander E. Klahre & Co.

James N. Wells's Sons have leased for Augustus Meyers for a term of years the fourth floor in the new loft buildings on the northeast corner of Eleventh or Marginal Avenue and West Twentieth Street to Paul E. Cabaret & Co., manufacturers of brass and bronze works of art, who have been located for many years in West Fourteenth Street. This completes the renting of the new buildings, with the exception of two corner lofts.

Gustave Britt has leased offices at 17 South Street for Richard W. Block to the Newtown Creek Towing Company, William E. Cleary, George Taylor, C. F. Harris & Co., A. B. Eldridge, and William Foose.

New Wilson Building on Broadway.

Plans were filed yesterday with the Bureau of Buildings for the new Wilson Building, to be erected on the southeast corner of Broadway and Thirty-third Street. The building will cover an area of about 9,000 square feet, will be twelve stories in height, with basement and subcellar, and is being erected for George B. Wilson, Esq., of Philadelphia, Penn., from plans and under the direction of Messrs. W. L. Rouse and L. A. Goldstone, architects. The building will contain twenty offices on a floor, four elevators, and the exterior will be laid up in limestone and white terra cotta. The structure is estimated to cost $500,000 and will be ready for occupancy in the Spring of 1912.

Fireproof Stairs for Schools.

C. B. J. Snyder, chief architect and Superintendent of Public School Buildings, has filed plans for removing the old-fashioned and non-fireproof main staircases and replacing them with fireproof staircases in Public School 2, at 116 Henry Street; Public School 19, at 344 East Fourteenth Street; Public School 36, at 710 East Ninth Street, and Public School 141, at 462 West Fifty-eighth Street, at a total cost of $11,000.

Water Tank for Grand Opera House.

Plans have been filed for placing an additional water tank on the roof of the Grand Opera House, at the northwest corner of Twenty-third Street and Eighth Avenue, as required by the Fire Department. The tank will have a capacity of 5,000 gallons. The Jay Gould estate is the owner.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, SOUTHern District of New York.—In the matter of the involuntary petition against WILLIAM VON WALDEN, alleged bankrupt.

It appearing to my satisfaction by the petition of Henry A. Heiser, verified the 10th day of April, 1911, that a petition was filed in this court on the 31st day of January, 1911, praying that the above-named William Von Walden be adjudged a bankrupt and that a subpoena directed to said alleged bankrupt was duly issued out of this court to the Marshal of this district and that the said Marshal has been unable to serve the same and that said alleged bankrupt is not now within this district, so that personal service may be made upon him, and that diligent efforts have since been made to ascertain the whereabouts of the said alleged bankrupt, but that he is not now within the jurisdiction of this court. It is now upon motion of Henry A. Heiser, ORDERED, That the above alleged bankrupt plead, answer, or demur on or before the 3d day of May, 1911, to the petition herein filed in the office of the clerk of this court on the 31st day of January, 1911, and in case of his failure to plead, answer, or demur thereto, adjudication shall be made according to the prayer of said petition.

AND it is further ordered that this order be published in THE NEW YORK TIMES, a newspaper once a week for two successive weeks. The said publication to commence not later than the 15th day of April, 1911, and that a copy of this order be mailed to the said alleged bankrupt at his last-known place of residence, No. 569 West 173rd Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, on the date of the first publication.

Dated April 12, 1911.

THOMAS W. ALEXANDER, Clerk.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR the Southern District of New York.—In the matter of HENRY B. HERTS, Bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that Henry B. Herts, bankrupt, has filed his petition, dated March 27th, 1911, praying for a discharge from all his debts in bankruptcy, and that all creditors and other persons are ordered to attend at the hearing upon said petition before United States District Judges in the United States Court House and Post Office Building, in the City and County of New York, on Monday, May 15th, 1911, at 10:30 A. M., and then and there show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted, and also attend the examination of the bankrupt thereon.
STANLEY W. DEXTER,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

B. R. T. STANDS FIRM FOR BROADWAY LINE

Its Attitude Seems Likely to Bring an Early Determination of Subway Tangle.

MORE DELAY WAS PLANNED

Willcox and McAneny Intended Giving Interborough a Chance to Make Counter-Suggestions.

Two additional facts about the pending subway negotiations came out yesterday. One was that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company has informed the city's conferrees that it would not under any conditions accede to the ultimatum of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and cut a Broadway subway out of its proposals affecting Manhattan.

The other was that the prospect of a final settlement has been put further in the future owing to the present intention of Borough President McAneny and Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission not to consider the modifications of its pending offer which are to be presented to the Interborough as final, but as subject to further conferences with the Interborough Directors.

On this basis it would be in line with the expectations of Mr. McAneny and Mr. Willcox for the Interborough to propose modifications of the proposed modifications, and then for all the conferrees to consider what modifications of the modified modifications might be suggested by the city's conferrees. Several Interborough Directors have already declared that they would discuss anything anybody wanted to discuss as long as anybody wanted to discuss it, but that the Interborough did not feel disposed to make substantial concessions from its offer of last Fall.

The factor which is likely to make for a quicker determination than the disposition of either the Interborough's Directors or the city's conferrees, however, is the Interborough's own action in demanding that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company be barred from Broadway in Manhattan, a street which the Interborough's offer does not touch in any particular. It may be asserted on reliable information that up to the time the Interborough made this demand the Brooklyn Rapid Transit representatives had been prepared to accept an adjustment of their proposal to the Interborough's so as to leave the latter company its so-called "logical extensions" in Manhattan and the Bronx, to take off its shoulders the Fourth Avenue line in Brooklyn, for which it did not appear to hanker, and to give the Brooklyn Rapid Transit a distributing loop through the centre of Manhattan for its Queens and Brooklyn traffic.

On all the other issues with the Interborough, which were developed in the conferences with the city's representatives, there is the possibility of long and almost indefinite discussion. On the question of whether the Brooklyn Rapid Transit will eliminate Broadway or not, and the question whether, if the Brooklyn Rapid Transit refuses to eliminate Broadway, the Interborough will allow its offer to stand, there can be no discussion except a definite answer on one side or the other, and such an answer, it appears, has already been given.

Some hope was expressed yesterday, therefore, that action might be forced at or before next week's meeting of the Board of Estimate. If nothing develops in the meantime it is not unlikely that an effort will be made in that meeting to procure some kind of a report from the board's Subway Conference Committee.

WOOD MUST DIE ON MONDAY.

Gov. Dix Refuses to Interfere in Case of Man Who Killed His Niece.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 14.—Gov. Dix has declined to interfere in the case of Robert Francis Wood, who is under sentence to be executed at Sing Sing Prison Monday.

Wood shot and killed his niece, Amelia Roach, in New York City in September, 1908, after he had remonstrated with her because he believed she was "going to the bad."

After his conviction had been affirmed by the Court of Appeals Wood appealed to Gov. Dix for clemency, but the Governor, after a careful examination of the case, denied the application.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

JACOB SALZMAN.—Jacob Salzman, hardware dealer, of 1,008 Westchester Avenue, schedules show liabilities of $2,501, nominal assets of $953, and actual assets of $655.

GOTTLIEB & FEDERGREEN.—Adolph Gottlieb and Max Federgreen, composing the firm of Gottlieb & Federgreen, furniture and carpets, 2,001 Second Avenue, have made an assignment to Isaac B. Reinhardt. Liabilities, $4,500; assets, $2,500.

L. SPEAR & SON.—L. Spear & Son, wholesale tobacco dealers at 214 Pearl Street, have made a settlement with creditors at 25 cents on the dollar, payable in notes at three to nine months, and Judge Holt has confirmed the composition. Liabilities, $53,545.

FREDERICK V. WEIL, salesman, 141 West 42d St., has filed a petition with liabilities $53,004 and no assets. The Corn Exchange Bank is a creditor for $17,780. Other liabilities are Brooklyn Waist Company for $10,000, and D. Weil, $25,000.

WEINSTEIN & MAHER CLOTHING COMPANY.—Thomas J. THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Rains have been general from the Mississippi Valley eastward. In the West generally fair weather continued.

It is considerably cooler from the West Gulf States northeastward through the lake region, and slightly warmer in the Atlantic States and the interior West. In the Pacific States it is decidedly warmer, with falling pressure on the north coast, indicating the approach of another disturbance.

There will be showers Saturday in the South, while in New England and the Middle Atlantic Sattes unsettled weather will continue. The eather will also be unsettled Sunday in the Middle and South Atlantic States. Elsewhere fair weather will prevail Saturday and Sunday. It will be cooler Saturday in New England and the Middle Atlantic States.

Winds along the New England and Middle Atlantic Coast will be moderate southwest to west; South Atlantic Coast, moderate south.

Steamship departing Saturday for European ports will have moderate southwest to west winds, unsettled Saturday; fair Sunday.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York—Cooler and generally fair Saturday. Sunday, increasing cloudiness; moderate southwest to west winds, becoming variable.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Unsettled and cooler Saturday. Sunday, unsettled, probably showers; light to moderate west winds, becoming east Sunday.

New England—Fair Saturday, except showers in North and East Maine; cooler in west portion. Sunday, generally fair; moderate southwest to west winds, becoming variable Sunday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1910.	1911.		1910.	1911.
3 A. M.	42	49	4 P. M.	66	54
6 A. M.	42	49	6 P. M.	68	55
9 A. M.	49	51	9 P. M.	61	55
12 M.	62	56	12 P. M.	57	56

This tehrmometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 52; for the corresponding date last year it was 54; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 48.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 50; at 8 P. M. it was 55. Maximum temperature, 57 degrees at 1 P. M.; minimum, 48 degrees at 12:01 A. M. Humidity, 85 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 95 per cent. at 8 P. M.

HOST OF STRANGERS HERE FOR EASTER

Thousands of Canadians on Hand to View the Parade on Fifth Avenue.

SPECIAL MUSIC IN CHURCHES

Columbia Students' Chorus to Sing at Afternoon Service—Lectures and Chorals at Y. M. C. A.

Elaborate preparations have been made for the celebration to-morrow of Easter Sunday to the accompaniment of high hopes for fair skies. April 11, 1909, was the first bright Easter in several years, and last year, too, the Heavens were kind.

It is Fifth Avenue's gala day, and to he in the paarde and to see the parade, strangers are pouring into town from all directions. Conspicuous for their numbers are the Canadians. Montreal is to send down 3,400. Many of them arrived early yesterday morning, and from all over the Dominion there has come a big demand for the excursion tickets.

Nearly eight hundred school teachers, most of them from Toronto, arrived last night via the Lehigh Valley Railroad and the Hudson tubes at Thirty-third Street. About six hundred are women. This is the thirteenth annual excursion of the Toronto teachers. Last year they visited Boston, and the year before Washington, but this year they chose New York as their playground for a week or so.

The party was in charge of Chief Inspector of Schools of Toronto, James L. Hughes, and he was assisted by Inspectators W. H. Elliot and E. W. Bruce. Others in the party were Controller H. C. Hocken, Alderman J. J. Graham, and R. H. Graham, and two members of the Board of Education, Frank Hartney and W. O. McTaggart.

Many of the men of the party brought their wives with them. Chief Inspector Hughes's wife is a daughter of Justice Josiah T. Marean of the Supreme Court. Four hundred and twenty-five of the party are at the Hotel York, and the remainder, except for those who will stay with relatives and friends, at the Hotel Marlborough.

There will be no 10 o'clock mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral to-morrow. Following the low masses, short instructions and Holy Communion of the early hours, this is the programme:

11 A. M.
Pontifical Mass.
Processional—"Christ the Lord Is Risen".. St. Basil's Hymnal
Ordinary of the Mass—In C, for Soli, Mixed Chorus and Orchestra............Rheinberger

"PINOCHLE DEACON" OUSTED.

North Hackensack Church Puts Out Roscoe, Who Wouldn't Resign.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, April 14.—Announcement was made to-day that James Vroom Roscoe, called "the pinochle Deacon," is no longer an official of the North Hackensack Reformed Church, the congregation last night declaring the place vacant and electing John H. Van Thun in his place.

Several months ago Roscoe sued a brother Deacon, John H. Demarest, for slander. The jury awarded Roscoe 6 cents, and he was compelled to pay the costs of the trial. Deacon Demarest declared on the witness stand that he and Roscoe had often played pinochle for money and said Roscoe was an inveterate gambler. The Consistory of the church at once asked for the resignations of both Deacons. Demarest acquiesced, but Roscoe became defiant.

A committee of outside ministers gave Roscoe a hearing, and Roscoe signed an agreement to abide by any decision the ministers rendered. They concluded that, "for the good and welfare of the church," he should resign. No sooner was this verdict announced than Roscoe emphatically declared he never would resign. This was three months ago. Since then Roscoe resigned as teacher of the Bible class.

Roscoe attended the meeting last night and was asked again publicly to resign. Again he refused. Thereupon the congregation elected a successor. George Deming was elected to succeed former Deacon Demarest.

EMPLOYER'S HOME SET AFIRE

Reformatory Girl Runs Wild in Her First Day of Freedom.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., April 14.—Annie Vermillion, a young Frenchwoman, who has been an inmate of the Bedford Reformatory, came out yesterday on parole, and in just twenty-four hours managed to acquire a reputation as a fire-brand.

She was brought by a matron yesterday to the home of Mrs. E. W. Lee on Maher Avenue, where she was to be employed as a housemaid. While Mrs. Lee was at church this morning, the girl broke a parlor lamp and poured the contents on the parlor rug, and then taking a shovelful of hot coals from the kitchen range, wrapped them up in the oil-soaked rug. Then she left the house hastily.

Mrs. Lee met her and was ordered to step aside or be killed. Not seeing any weapon in the girl's hands, Mrs. Lee argued with her and they both returned to the house. They found Miss Lee, her friend Miss Watson, and a neighbor, George Carmichael, headmaster of the Brunswick School, had just succeeded in getting the best of the flames. The maid took refuge in the kitchen, and seizing a carving knife and fork, threatened to kill any one who approached her. She ran out of the rear door, followed by Mr. Carmichael.

Policeman Flanagan stopped the girl, and by promising to protect her, induced her to hand over the carving knife. He took her to the lockup and kept her there till a matron came from the reformatory and took her back to-night.

ARREST 12 IN SALOON RAID.

Prisoners All Well-Known Crooks and the Saloon a Resort for Them.

Deputy Police Commissioner William J. Flynn, with Detective Lieuts. Peabody, Clark, and McMullin, and fifteen detectives from Headquarters, surrounded and raided a saloon at 308 West Forty-second Street last night, arresting twelve men who, it is said, were identified by their Bertillon measurements at Headquarters as well-known crooks and pickpockets. In the number, the police say, was "Kid" Morgan, who is called one of the most notorious pickpockets in the country.

The raid was made on a warrant charging that the place was a disorderly resort. It was the kind of warrant that requires two warnings to have been given to the proprietors before a warrant may issue. According to the police the man on post gave the required warnings to the management of the place a week ago and again three days ago. Then the warrant was obtained yesterday.

There were fifteen men and several women in the place when the raiders entered. It is said that the detectives, all old-timers at Headquarters, had traced several well-known crooks to the resort and having located it as a rendezvous for them appealed to Commissioner Flynn to make the raid.

WILL SELL ONE BABY TO SAVE THE OTHERS

Husband Going Blind and Mrs. Monteque Fears Starvation for the Whole Family.

SHE'S WILLING TO WORK

But Can't Leave Two-Months-Old Evelyn at Home in Care of the Little Brothers and Sisters.

Ever since Richard Monteque lost his job as a driver for a large grocery firm because a thick growth was creeping over his eyes and he was threatened with total blindness, Mrs. Monteque has been casting about desperately for some method of keeping body and soul together for her four blue-eyed youngsters, her husband, and herself, in their two little rooms in the rear of the fourth floor of 275 Hudson Street. Her anxiety became all the more frantic when she discovered that, for the first time in their experience, the brief week's credit she had enjoyed hitherto in purchasing the family groceries and milk for the baby was waning under the fast-growing shadow of the wolf at the door. Two weeks ago she could hear the wolf growling at the very threshold when the housekeeper announced, what she knew quite well already, that the rent was a month and a half overdue.

Her husband went to the Vanderbilt Clinic to have his eye trouble diagnosed. A specialist told him he must undergo an operation, which would cost $75, and stay a week in the hospital. Later, when he learned that the only wealth the family had was a sudden wealth of unpaid bills, the specialist offered to perform the operation for nothing if Monteque would merely pay his board at the hospital—$7 a week. But is was as easy for Monteque to pay $700 with his wealth of bills as to pay $7.

He returned home, reaching there simultaneously with a few more bills. He and his wife decided that these must first be paid before the operation could be thought of; for without that, there would be no further extension of credit and nothing to feed the youngsters—Lillian, 12 years old; Thomas, 8 years; Arthur, 5 years, and Evelyn Grace, two months old. The operation must wait.

Monteque had formerly engaged in making embroidery, but such work was out of the question with failing eyesight. Later he had a little fish store in Atlantic City, but had lost all he owned. His latest work, that of driving a grocery wagon, was also impossible with the twitching pains that shot through his eyelids and the blindness that had quite blotted out the sight of one eye. He managed to get work as a strikebreaker for a brewery whose drivers had quit work in Syracuse, and to earn $2 a day from the contractor, who paid his expenses, until three days later the strikers returned to work and he was sent home. The $6 paid part of the bills and won credit for another week. The four youngsters kept up their ruddy appearance and also their healthy appetites.

On Thursday another contractor got a job for Monteque in a lithographing shop lifting stones for the lithographers, Mrs. Moteque thought it was.

They were very happy anticipating the $2.60 a day Monteque would make at his new job until toward noon the contractor told Mrs. Monteque that he didn't think her husband, with his failing sight, could "make good," and that he was keeping him for a day or two only because he pleaded so hard. The man in his present condition really wasn't fit for any sort of work, he said, and ought to be in a hospital.

"It was then," said Mrs. Monteque yesterday, "that I decided to try a plan I had been casting over in my mind with dread for the last two weeks. If only the baby was provided for, little Lillian could take care of the rest while I worked at cigarmaking, a trade I learned in England more than fifteen years ago. I feel sure I could earn enough to pay our bills and also to pay for my husband's operation if I could get to work. I hated the thought of selling my own flesh and blood—as I have read of some mothers doing with their babies; but at the same time I know it would be better for the baby and probably save all the others if I could have her adopted in some comfortable home. Then there'd be a chance for the rest of us."

There a reporter found her on Thursday and wormed out the story of her poverty and her desperate plan. He took pictures of the mother and baby, too, much to the enjoyment of the three other children.

Yesterday a little help drifted in to them. Someone sent an anonymous letter suggesting that they try for the father's eyes a certain ointment manufactured by a Cooper Square medicus, with a sure promise of curing anything from blindness to cancer or cholera morbus. A Mott Street physician offered his services free, and a woman wrote that a Brooklyn physician, who had cured her nephew of blindness, would, she felt sure, cure Monteque free of charge. A colored preacher in Trenton wrote in an uncertain straggling hand that he was "a servant of God who feels it his duty to care for the poor, even though a colored man," and who asked her to "put faith in Christ Jesus and accept the inclosed $1." The servant of God in Trenton also begged the mother not to part with her baby, as the aforementioned trust would surely save them.

Mrs. Monteque herself didn't seem fully to have grasped the meaning of a baby sale when a TIMES reporter saw her yesterday.

"I don't know what to ask for her," she said. "I don't know how much a baby is worth—except to me, and that isn't in dollars. If I could only feel sure that she will be cared for by people better off than we, I guess that would be enough pay.

"One woman has already written, saying she is willing to adopt the baby, but she says she is as poor as we are. She sent a dollar nevertheless with her letter. It wouldn't do to shoulder our trouble on to her. Every time I look at the baby I feel it harder and harder to part with her. Look, she is just like butter [and she was.] But sitting at home here and hugging her won't keep us, will it?"

Miss Evelyn Grace Monteque began to crow and jump vigorously up and down in her mother's lap. Evidently she thought that sitting at home and hugging would do perfectly well. Five-year-old Arthur crept up and pinched the baby's fat little cheeks. He didn't seem over anxious on the selling game either.

FALLS FROM HARLEM VIADUCT

Man Instantly Killed by an 80-Foot Drop—May Be Harry Stromberg.

Persons in a saloon at Eighth Avenue and 155th Street heard the sound of something falling on the pavement outside shortly after midnight last night and ran out to find that a man had fallen from the viaduct, eighty feet above, his body striking a fence about the saloon and breaking it. They called Policeman Thompson of the West 152d Street Station, who had the body taken to the station.

There it was found that in one of the pockets was a card showing that Harry Stromberg was a member of the Order of Eagles. It is believed that this was the name of the victim. It was suggested at first that the man might have been thrown from the viaduct, but policemen who crossed the structure a few moments before the accident, saw no one.

The man was dressed in black and appeared to be in mourning. On his right hand was tattooed an anchor and on his left a star. The police thought that he probably had been an ironworker.

TO SUE TRIANGLE FACTORY.

Application in Action for Damages for Injuries Received at Fire.

Supreme Court Justice Blanchard appointed yesterday Mrs. Irene P. Bucelli guardian ad litem of her 19-year-old daughter, Mary Bucelli, for the purpose of bringing suit for injuries sustained in the Triangle Waist Factory fire of March 25. The amount of damages to be sought was not mentioned in the application, which charges that the doors of the factory were locked, the windows were fastened, and the fire escape unsafe.

Unions Ready to Draft New Fire Laws.

The Central Federated Union called last night a general convention to meet on Wednesday night at the Woman's Trades Union League, 43 East Twenty-second Street, to draft stringent fire laws. Recommendations will be received by Clarence J. Shearn, the Brooklyn Central Federated Union, the Woman's Trades Union League, the Labor Legislation League, and other civic bodies. The fight for more stringent fire laws, it was announced, will be made by all unions in the city and State.
